Today

Out On the Limb.
Our Gambling Craze.
Grave Alice Is Gone.
If Big Steel Should Fight.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright. 1928.)

ANOTHER sad day in Wall Street, for lambs that just guess, or worse still, get tips and then buy. Many out on the margin limb were shaken off. They learn, too late, that "don't gamble" is sound advice.

Call money dropped from 12 to 9 per cent yesterday, but that did not help the weaklings; 12 per cent, or 4 per cent, makes no difference if you have no collateral.

AN intelligent banker with a cold blue eye says, "you should tell the public that THEY, with their craze for stock gambling, cause the high interest rates. The banks are not responsible."

TRUE as gospel, the public, with its sudden wealth and stock gambling mania, cause high interest rates. But that is understood, as shown by laws against usury. It is for financiers, doctors of the money and stock markets, to prevent a stampede and protect business generally, for their own safety.

STOCK gambling ruins many, but that is only part of the damage. It interferes with business, takes the public mind from work.

A young man working for $80 a week, making $1,000 "in the market, on the side," soon looks with contempt on his job and his $80. That's the end of him.

HOWEVER, "the only way to discourage vice is to make it expensive," and Wall street, if you stick to it, will make the gambling vice very expensive.

The country is all right, values are here, and will stay. Some prices are below value, as some are above it, and the foolish can learn only from their own experience. No child thinks the fire is hot at first sight.

THERE are bright spots; the sun is shining somewhere. In October, for instance, railroads beat their records for all time. Receipts were up 6.3 per cent and the extra expense up only 0.3. That's good for dividends and stock owners. The management should pass some of it along to railroad workers. Prosperity is built on high wages, not on high dividends.

FORTUNATELY, the nation's biggest income is not all invested in stock margins. It is spent for necessities, including automobiles, radio, vacuum cleaners, electric washers and other purchases, making stock worth more.

In November, the automobile output was double that of a year ago. The first eleven months of this year produced about one million more motors than the same period last year.

MANY mothers have read to their children Longfellow's poem about "The Children's Hour." And grave Alice and laughing Allegra, and Edith with the golden hair. Alice Mary Longfellow, oldest daughter of the poet, died yesterday morning, seventy-eight years old.

SHE lived a life useful to education and many good works, but never married, left no children, a great misfortune. Women of intelligence should marry, even though men worth while are few. She should have had such a fam-

16 NAMED FOR EAST ELEVEN

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—Sixteen of the 22 men to be taken as members of the All-East team for the Shriners' hospital benefit game in San Francisco, December 29, with an All-West team, have been selected, Coach Andy Kerr of Washington and Jefferson announced yesterday. Kerr, who is selecting the players from the East, has named nine, and he has received a list of seven drawn from the Middle West by Coach Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, as follows:

Raskowsky, Ohio State; Nowack, Illinois, and Wagner, Wisconsin, tackles; Howell, Nebraska, fullback; McMullen, Nebraska, guard; Holmer, Northwestern, fullback, and Levison, Northwestern, halfback.

Kerr's selections to date are:

Barrabee, New York University, end; Getto, Pitt, tackle; Fox, Pitt, and Thompson, Lafayette, guards;; Aschman, W. & J., center; Harpster, Carnegie Tech, and Weston, Boston College, quarterbacks; Strong, New York University, halfback, and Guest, Lafayette, fullback.

Kerr has announced that the players will report at the Northwestern University campus on Saturday, December 15, that equipment will be issued them there, and that the squad will leave the same day on the Overland Limited for San Francisco, where the players are scheduled to arrive December 18. The East players will practice for 10 days preceding the game on the field at Stanford, where Kerr formerly coached.

Patten, Wheat King, Ill With Pneumonia

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—James A. Patten, 76, once known as the "wheat king," is suffering from double pneumonia and is in a critical condition, Dr. George F. Dick, attending physician, announced today. He said that there had been little change in Mr. Patten's condition throughout the night and added that he expected to spend the day at the Patten Home in Evanston.

O'Neill Seriously Ill in Shanghai

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Eugene O'Neill, famous American playwright, is seriously ill in Shanghai, said a dispatch from that city today. He has been in poor health for some time. Mr. O'Neill, a former newspaper writer, is the author of a number of successful plays. His latest drama, "A Strange Interlude," is now running in New York.

Huge Stock of Seized Rum to Be Destroyed

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 8—The Cambria County Court has ordered destruction of 13 stills, 690 gallons of whisky, three gallons of wine and 79 gallons of beer seized in raids by police.

DIXIE CHAMPIONSHIP AT STAKE IN TWO GAMES TODAY

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The football battle of Dixie attracting more national interest this year than ever before reaches one of its two major climaxes here today when the undefeated elevens of Florida and Tennessee toss their youthful skill, punch and power into the closing game of the season.

The Orange and Blue clad array from Florida, one of the few teams in the country that has swept triumphantly over all opposition thus far, stakes its bid for championship honors against a brilliant young Tennessee band, tied but once, and eager to wind up its fine campaign with a victorious home stand.

Florida's Fighting 'Gaitors, confident and with banners flying, arrived to occupy the position of favorites in the pre-game speculation. As the highest-powered scoring machine in the nation, with a decided edge in the comparative score dope and a record of more versatile performance, the invaders have plenty of evidence in their favor. But on the other hand, old man psychology, who has made it a tough season for the favorites in every section, may turn the scales toward the Orange and White-jersied youngsters of Tennessee, fit and primed for the last big charge of the season.

Only a defeat for Georgia Tech by Georgia at Atlanta today can give the winner of the Florida-Tennessee affair a clear claim even to the Southern Conference championship. As matters stand now Florida and Tech are deadlocked, each with eight successive victories this year. Tennessee was unchecked until tied by Kentucky Thanksgiving Day. Triumph for both Florida and Tech would maintain a tie. Tennessee, even by beating Florida, cannot claim the Conference crown unless Georgia upsets Tech.

Nevertheless, the rivals will battle each other for a bigger share of the national spotlight than either has ever enjoyed before. Both are in the vanguard of the Dixie drive that has helped convince the rest of the grid world that the South is entitled to a hearing any time the sectional argument arises.

WILKINS TAKES AIR IN SNOW FOR TEST

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS,
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American and Universal Service, Inc.)

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Dec. 8.—(Via Whaler Hektoria and Kup-San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station, Dec. 7.)—Although light, hard snow fell all day, Pilot Joseph Crossan and I went up to see if ice would form on the machine in such weather and to examine every part of this island for snow covered landing fields.

Temperature at 1,000 feet was 2 degrees below freezing. No ice formed on machine.

There is no suitable field for skiis now on Deception Island. The next fine day we will go to Low and Snow Islands, 30 and 50 miles from here, and examine surfaces.

We are all pleased to hear that Lieut. Ben Eielson is to receive the Congressional medal. We think no one is more worthy, not only because of his Polar flights but also for several years pioneering aviation in Alaska and other places. Eielson thanks Congressman Burtness for interceding.

Shoots to Scare Drunken Son; Kills Him

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Edward L. Leidner, 60, cashier of the Carpenter Ice Cream Company, told today how he fired a shot last night to scare his son, Walter, 35, and unintentionally killed him at their home in University City, a suburb. His wife and the son's widow agreed that the younger Leidner had been drinking and quarrelsome, and had struck his father and mother before the father tried to scare him.

As his son died, Leidner said, he moaned, "Dad, I know you didn't intend to do it."

KILLED BY FLAPPER'S GUN

VERNARD E. FEARN KATHRINE FEARN MRS. FEARN

Called from his dinner table by his wife, who answered the summons of the doorbell, Vernard E. Fearn, Canton (O.) coal dealer, with his daughter, Katherine, 9, nearby, was shot to death by a flapper "gunwoman," aged about 25, in the doorway of his home.

Santa's Red Cap And Whiskers Vanish

Santa Claus has discarded his whiskers!

He has also replaced the gay red uniform and the tassel.

The new Santa appeared in downtown Pittsburgh today with his chimney, seeking Christmas contributions for the Volunteers of America. His outfit was the regular Volunteers' uniform plus a gray cloak.

This change was announced yesterday by Maj. Richard Ives, local commander of the Volunteers, who exhibited the new costume to Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare, at a conference at which plans to aid the needy during the Christmas holidays were discussed.

MELLON, COUZENS END ROW

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The long-standing controversy between Senator James Couzens, of Michigan, and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, growing out of the $34,000,000 tax action initiated by the Treasury Department against former minority stockholders of the Ford Motor Company, apparently had reached an end today.

Senator Couzens was revealeed as the beneficiary of a tax refund amounting to nearly $1,000,000, granted voluntarily by the Treasury Department as a result of the decision handed down last May by the United States Board of Tax Appeals holding that the former Ford minority group was not liable for the additional tax assessment levied.

TREASURY SILENT

Treasury officials declined to comment on the case, but Senator Couzens confirmed reports that he had been tendered a check for $989,883, representing the amount of refund which he might claim under the tax board decision.

On this basis the other former minority stockholders of the Ford Company involved in the same suit are entitled to refunds amounting in the aggregate to approximately $3,000,000. It is assumed that similar checks have been mailed out to the other litigants.

Thus the taxpayers, far from being required to pay additional taxes on the sale of their Ford stock back in 1919, actually find themselves some $3,000,000 better off.

OHIO COAL OPERATOR SLAIN; MURDERESS ELUDES POLICE

CANTON, O., Dec. 8.—Blocked completely in their efforts to trace the young woman who Thursday evening shot and killed Vernard L. Fearn in the doorway of his home, near here, officials today tried—so far in vain—to find a motive for the killing. They did learn the girl killed Fearn on her third trip to his home in 22 hours. Twice, no one had been home.

"I never saw her before," whispered Fearn to his wife, as he staggered, dying, into the kitchen of the home on the Waynesburg road, three miles from here. Mrs. Fearn herself had answered the door when the young woman asked to see the 35-year-old mine operator. She had never seen the woman. She describes her as about 22, bobbed hair, modishly, even "flapperishly" dressed.

NEIGHBOR SEES SLAYER

Mrs. Charley Schultz, a neighbor, heard the shots, saw the young woman walk down the road to the Right-of-Way filling station, 300 yards from Fearn's, and even, she says, heard the slayer assert, "I got him." In the attendant excitement Mrs. Schutz did not follow the girl.

It was 6 o'clock and dark when Fearn was shot.

It was a few minutes later when a young woman, little over five feet, plump, wearing a black coat, all as the slayer is described, arrived at the filling station.

TWO OTHER TRIPS

Mrs. O. M. McCombs, proprietess of the filling station, declared today that this was the same young woman who had arrived on a south-bound bus from Canton on Wednesday night, at 8 o'clock. The girl went to the Fearn home, Mrs. McCombs said, found no one at home, and returned to the filling station to take the next north-bound bus a few minutes later. She repeated the trip an hour later the same night, Mrs. McCombs declared.

It was from the 6 o'clock bus Thursday night the young woman walked to the Fearn's home, called Fearn to the door and killed him. Returning to the filling station she found the northabound bus, a few minutes late. After she boarded the bus, the driver, George Patterson, took on gas and alcohol. In

ROTHSTEIN'S FILES BRING BIG DRUG RAID

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Narcotics worth $2,000,000, seized in two black trunks at the Hotel Commodore last night by federal agents acting on information found in Arnold Rothstein's private papers, were placed under heavy guard in the Federal Building this morning.

Meanwhile United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle said he had uncovered evidence which would connect the slain gambler with the financing of the largest drug ring in the country and might reveal the motives and circumstances of the mysterious slaying.

HEADED FOR CHICAGO

The drugs, which included opium, cocaine, morphine and heroin, constituted the largest seizure of narcotics in the city's history. The trunks containing the drugs had

KING'S WEAK STATE BLOCKS OPERATION

By HARRY P. FLORY,
International News Service.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—King George spent a somewhat restful night, Buckingham Palace officials indicated today.

It was said that the King had had some sleep, although it was necessary to use sedatives during the early hours of the night.

Anxiety over his majesty's condition still continues high. A large crowd assembled about the palace gates today for the first bulletin, despite freezing weather. The bulletin read:

"The King has had some hours of sleep. The temperature is still raised on account of the local lung condition. The general condition is the same."

DISCUSS OPERATIONS

Some alarm was caused by reports that the physicians attending the King had discussed the advisability of an operation but had decided against it because it was believed he lacked sufficient vitality to permit such a step.

It is believed that ordinary "active" treatment will be continued instead.

All five physicians who have been attending the King, returned to the

POLICE CASH PROBE'S VALUE DOUBTED NOW

Doubtful progress is indicated in the county grand jury inquiry into the bank accounts of police officials. Three of the eight officials summoned for examination regarding bank deposits exceeding their salaries remain to be heard when the grand jury resumes its sessions Monday. Five, including Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh and Police Inspector Charles Faulkner, were called to offer explanations before adjournment Friday.

"Some explanations were satisfactory and some require a little more explanation, a little more verification," is the description of the inquiry vouchsafed by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner.

"What lines did your inquiries pursue?" Gardner was asked.

"We sought the source of excess income. It was our intent to reconcile the surplus and normal earnings."

POOL ROOM PROFITS BIG

"Were all items explained satisfactorily?"

"Generally, yes, but further inquiry is justified. For instance, in one case, there was a monthly deposit of $100 in each of two

U. S.-OWNED POWER PLANT HALTS BOULDER DAM BILL

STATE TAX FIGURES IN ROW

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The question of a power-generating plant at Boulder Dam, entirely aside from its operation, today proved a stumbling block to negotiations for a peaceful settlement.

Efforts of leaders to dispose of a dispute over allocation of water from the Colorado River were sidetracked by the power controversy. Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, refused to yield an inch on the former.

CAN LEASE PROJECT

The power dispute did not touch operation because the bill contained a provision giving the Secretary of the Interior the right, if necessary, to lease the power project to private interests once it is completed.

The Arizona opposition stood firm for elimination of all provisions for the construction of the power project.

This was due, it was learned, to the desire of Arizona to tax the property should it be built. Construction by the government would cut the state off from any taxes from such a plant.

Criticized by the opposition for attempts to "put the government in the power business," Johnson asserted the power plant provision had backing of both the outgoing and incoming administrations.

"The provision was written by the Secretary of the Interior," he said. "It has the approval of Calvin Coolidge and of the gentleman who will be our next President. We but followed the leadership of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover when we included this provision."

COMPROMISE SOUGHT

Administration leaders were still trying to effect a compromise over water allocation. Overtures from the opposition for a "round table discussion" of this question today were rejected by Johnson when a condition was imposed that the Senate adjourn over the week-end. He refused to yield any time in which Boulder Dam debate might proceed.

Supporting Johnson's bill were three amendments of Senator Phipps, of Colorado. Opposing was the amendment of Senator Hayden, of Arizona, slashing 400,000 feet from the 4,600,000 acre-feet water allocation demanded by California under the terms of the bill.

Phipps' measures revised the cost estimates from $125,000,000 to $165,000,000 to fit suggestions of the engineers who examined the project during the summer, set aside $25,000,000 for flood control as non-repayable except out of surplus revenue from the dam, and allowed work to proceed on the dam without contracts, assuring self-support of the proposed all-American canal.

BETHLEHEM STEEL wants $250,000,000 from United States Steel for patent infringement. Trouble was in the air when Charles M. Schwab failed to appear at the big steel "harmony" dinners. The late Judge Gary, president, said: "Charley is sulking."

IT WAS explained that Bethlehem's patent having run out on a certain kind of steel beam, United States Steel was now making the beam. "We owe it to our stockholders," said Judge Gary. He did not take it seriously, but it might be serious if a real fight started between Bethlehem and United States Steel. Asked about a rival steel stock, Judge Gary said to this writer: "They are all nice stock, but remember that United States Steel can sell at a profit for less than it costs other companies to manufacture." A price war by "big steel" might cost other companies more than $250,000,000.

AROUND toward the other side of the world—we call it "underneath," although there is no up or down in the universe—Herbert Hoover is sailing in spring weather.

Here winter begins, there it is spring. On our well-organized planet any kind of weather can be found at any time of the year.

NOW that men fly, they can select their weather, live where they choose.

To be happy men need only arrange to fight microbes, poverty, superstition and ignorance instead of fighting each other.

MR. HUNGERFORD, of the Young Men's Christian Association, says marriages are diminishing, because women are "materialistic." It seems they "want husbands both rich and handsome."

SAD, perhaps, but not new. Women have always wanted husbands rich and handsome, because women have always been intelligent. In the stone age days they selected a man with thick whiskers, heavy club, sharp flints, or good supply of dried ourochs meat. Such a man would be able to defend and feed the children. Women have always worked for the children's benefit. A handsome husband is strong, usually, able to defend the family. A rich husband leaves children provided for. That's all there is to that "materialism."

"Man Who Woke Barrie" Keeps Announcing Over Radio Despite Fortune Willed Him

JAMES M. BARRIE

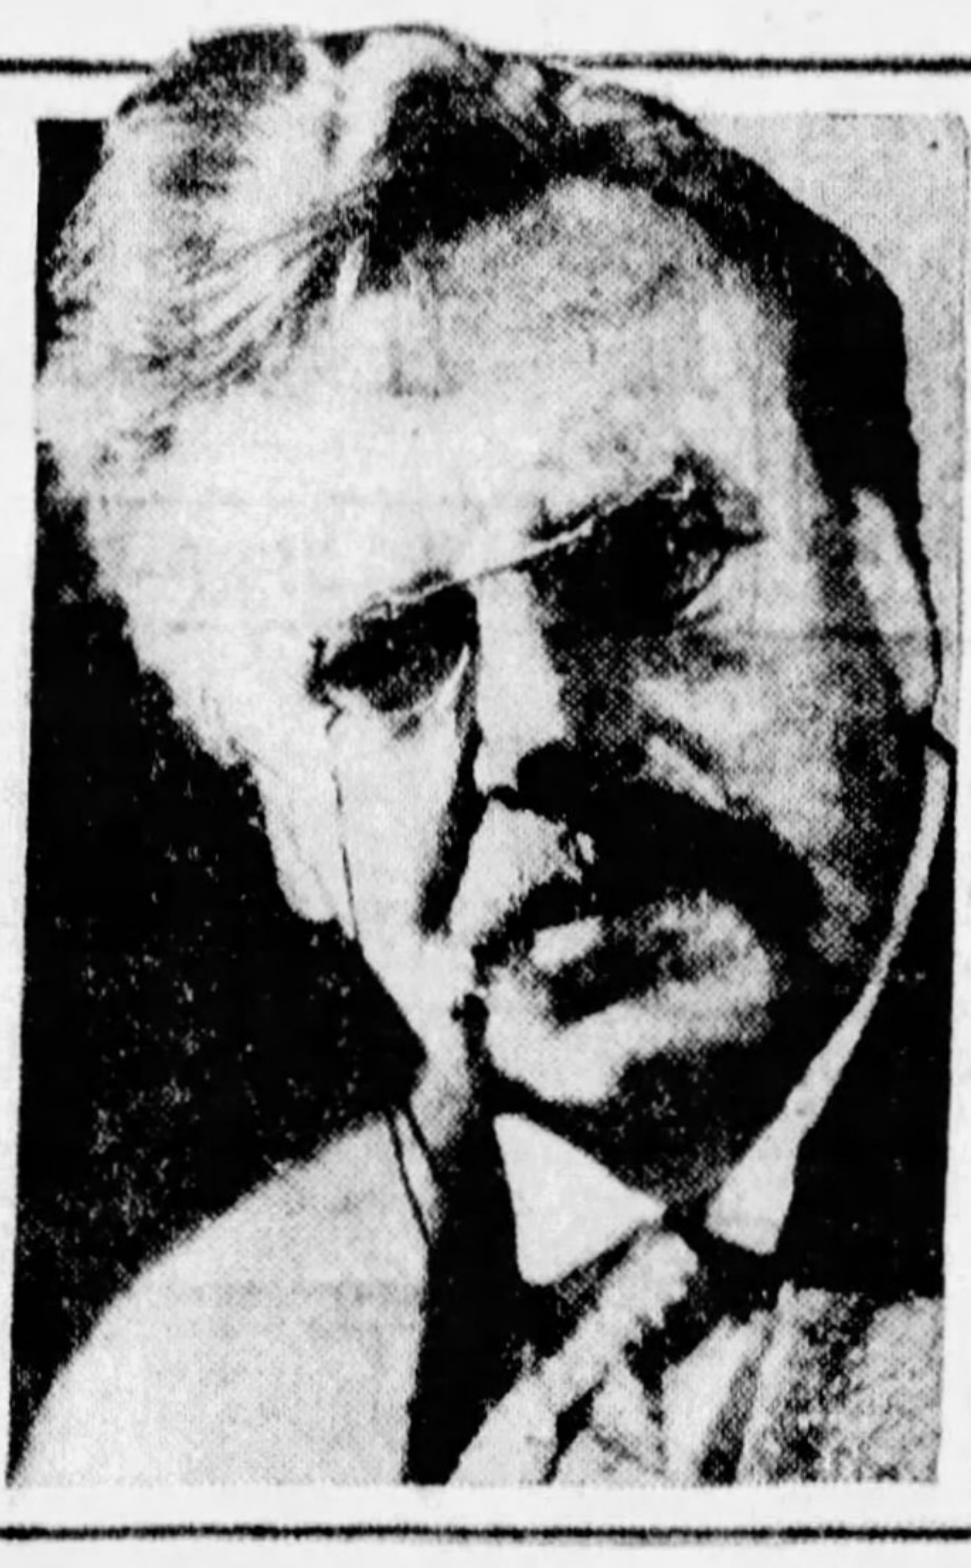
Sir James M. Barrie was so annoyed early in the morning by neighbors' revelry that he complained.

DAVID TENNANT

Though his mother, Viscountess Grey of Fallodon, left him almost $500,000 in her will, David Tennant, London, so enjoys radio announcing that he'll continue to work.

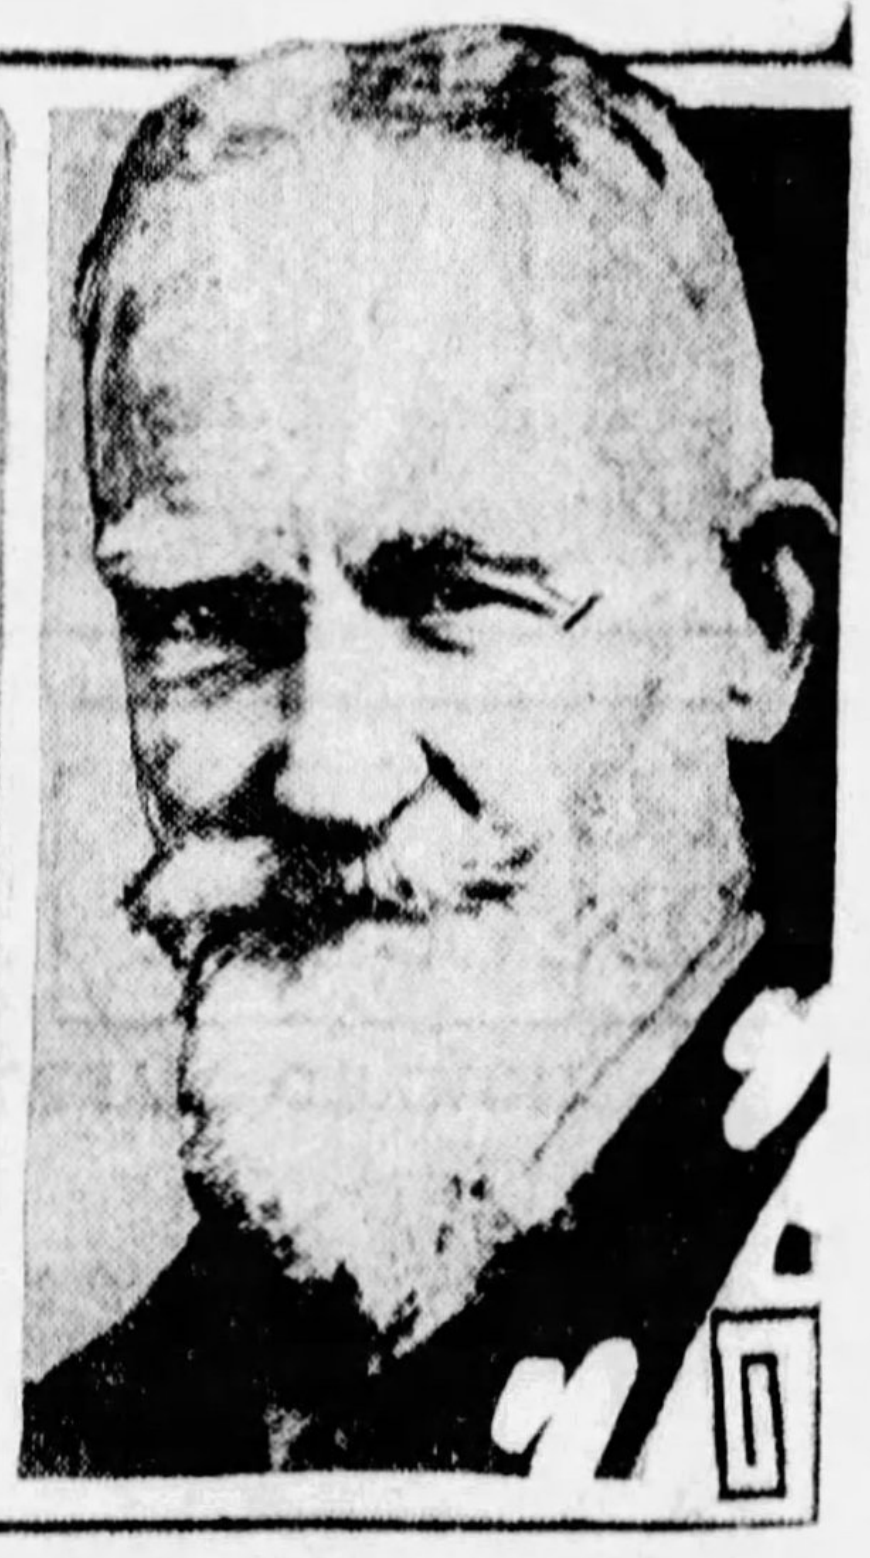
HERMOINE BADDELEY

Hermoine Baddeley, Tennant's wife, won't leave the stage to enjoy the riches, either. When they were married, Tennant's "pajama and bottle" party brought them note.



G. K. CHESTERTON

While the famed pajama party was in progress, Gilbert K. Chesterton, author, slept in his home across the street.



G. BERNARD SHAW

Tennant, 26, and one of London's most popular young men, lives in Whitehall Court, home of Barrie and George Bernard Shaw.

ANNOYS BARRIE, GETS RICHES, KEEPS JOB

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Sir James M. Barrie and George Bernard Shaw, they of the lively pens, will probably be interested to hear that young David Tennant, although he has inherited a half million dollars, does not intend to retire to the peace and quiet of country life.

A principal announcer for the British Broadcasting Company, the Hon David enjoys his duties and the attendant pleasure. When things are quiet, as Sir James will attest, young David seems to inspire whoopee.

With the death of his mother, Viscountess Grey, of Fallodon, David inherited enough funds to stage a party which would have eclipsed all others in which he has participated.

One of those parties was on the night he married the pretty actress, Hermoine Braddeley—the "pajama and bottle party" in an exclusive apartment building where Sir James and G. B. S. reside. Imagine the amazement that must have been theirs when they saw guests arriving in pajamas and with none too empty bottles. A racket followed. The racket reached such stages that the dignified Sir James complained to police.

"The Ellesmere affair" was another event that brought David into the limelight. He hadn't been present long before he was taken by the collar and deposited in the street with a number of other socially eligibles just because they had "crashed the gate" without invitations to Lady Ellesmere's palatial town house.

McCormack Family Sails for Ireland

WELFARE UNIT REQUESTED TO CONTINUE

The first step in the functioning of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh as a permanent organization was taken yesterday when Augustus K. Oliver, president, asked the campaign publicity committee to remain active throughout the year. Members of the committee willingly consented and Edgar J. Kaufmann, chairman, continued his appointments at a luncheon in which he was host at the William Penn Hotel.

Pittsburgh's first community financing campaign was declared to be successful from every standpoint. Mr. Kaufmann stated that the work of raising more than $965,679 for 25 Allegheny county philanthropies had awakened a civic spirit which would be found in other co-operative movements for the welfare of Pittsburgh. He praised the assistance he had received from his committee and thanked the newspapers especially for their support in the campaign.

All the resources in effecting the most widespread information concerning the aims of the Welfare Fund and its constituent agencies and the progress of the campaign had been made available, Mr. Kaufmann said. As a result the work of the canvass was simplified to a degree which was of invaluable assistance in successfully raising the fund.

Attending the luncheon beside Mr. Kaufmann and Mr. Oliver were Leo Lehman, chairman of advertising, the Rev. Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, churches; H. M. Bitner, William G. Lytle and A. H. Burchfield, newspapers; Mrs. Frances Speer Reed, window exhibits; R. Templeton Smith, speakers; Frank Wilbur Main, meetings; J. W. Johnson and Mrs. Frances Doherr, radio; William F. Roop, street car cards; Al Norrington, outdoor advertising; Miss Lillian G. Dermitt, meetings and organizations.

Mention was made of other members of the committee who contributed to the success of the campaign but were unable to attend the meeting.

COAL OPERATOR SLAIN BY GIRL

all the girl was at the filling station 10 to 12 minutes that night.

The bus had already arrived at the terminal in Canton and the girl had disappeared before Sheriff Edward Gibson was notified of the murder.

BELIEVED CANTON GIRL

Patterson told the sheriff that on one of the trips on Wednesday night the girl had asked about a bus schedule to Lorain. Despite this police believe the woman is a resident of Canton, but cannot explain their theory.

The description which the police have broadcast is: Age, 22-23 years; 5 feet tall; 130 pounds; dark chinchilla coat, black hat, flesh-colored hose, black goloshes.

Sheriff Edward Gibson believes the remark which Mrs. Schultz overheard indicates the girl has a grievance and it is to establish the cause of this grievance that he is questioning Fearn's friends and business associates today. Mrs. Fearn said her husband never went out at night without her.

Mrs. McCombs speaks well of Fearn. She, too, said she never saw Fearn leave at night without Mrs. Fearn and their 9-year-old daughter.

WILLS ALL TO WOMEN; WON'T "HANDICAP" MEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Setting up the doctrine that an inheritance imposes upon a man a handicap in life's race, the late William Bradford Merrill, for many years general manager of the Hearst newspapers, left virtually his entire estate to women relatives. Value of the estate was placed in excess of $100,000. It is believed to be somewhat between $500,000 and $1,000,000.

In his will, filed for probate in the surrogate's office at Mineola, L. I., yesterday, the famous journalist, who died November 26, set forth his novel idea thus:

"I have in several instances named as beneficiaries wives in preference to husbands, or daughters in preference to sons, because the bequests are necessarily small and my experience convinces me that the possession of a modest (but not too large) income of her own is an aid to the ambition, independence, usefulness and contentment of a woman and not a hindrance to her happy marriage.

"On the other hand, I believe that to a young man a small inheritance lessens ambition and self-reliance and often furnishes an excuse to spare himself the strenuous efforts and exertions without which a man cannot discover, even for himself, such talent as he has nor escape deterioration of character nor achieve any object in life worth attaining.

"Hardships, poverty and want are the best incentives and the best foundations for the success of a man. I want the little money that I possess to help, not to hinder, the usefulness and self-reliance of those who receive it."

The will was filed by the law firm of Anderson, Gasser, Ferris and Anderson, of 20 Pine street.

Johnstown Couple's Elopement Halted

Alighting from a train in Pennsylvania Railroad Station after they had eloped to Pittsburgh to get married, James Webber, 18, and Virginia Baker, 18, both of Johnstown, were arrested last midnight by railroad police, who had been on the lookout for them. They were taken to the Central Police Station to be held for their parents.

CLOSE SCHOOL RUM DENS

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The vise of the law clamped tighter today against dispensers of liquor to school children. Three men and a woman were under arrest.

All four, proprietors or attaches of resorts, were arrested in the Hanson Park Grammar School district.

Investigators previously had bought liquor at the soft drink parlors of Mrs. Kate Marawski and George Johnson. Felix Twargowoski was arrested when beer and wine were found in his store. At the Serenaders Inn, where officers found gin, wine and beer, Ray Rothgery was arrested. Two other places where youthful investigators had bought drinks were found closed.

12 Starving on Ship Adrift 21 Days Saved

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Coast guard headquarters announced that the coast guard destroyer Fanning had picked up the disabled four-master schooner B. S. Taylor with a crew of 12 on board, and was towing her to Vineyard Haven, Mass.

The Fanning advised that the schooner had been adrift for 21 days after losing her sails in a gale. Food supplies were exhausted and the crew on the verge of starvation. The schooner was bound from Newport News to Rockland, Me.

JAIME REGAINS DOLORES' LOVE AT DEATH

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—The prayers of Dolores Del Rio were unavailing to save her aristocratic Mexican former husband, Jaime Del Rio, who died yesterday afternoon in the Berlin sanatorium, where he had been suffering for days with septic poisoning following an operation for a boil.

Jaime lapsed into a coma early in the morning and the end came peacefully, without suffering. On a little table by his bedside lay three cablegrams. One arrived two hours before his death. It contained three words only:

"I love you."

BEGGED HIM TO FIGHT

The messages were sent by Dolores but they came too late for Jaime, who had been unconscious since 7 a. m. The young Mexican, however, did not need these last words of consolation, for during the last four days of his illness, Dolores had repeatedly told him of her reborn love and begged him to fight for her sake. Jaime knew this and his last spoken words before he went into the coma were of Dolores.

Padre Francis Moreno, the family priest, and Fred Cleverly Stein, Del Rio's boon companion, were at the bedside when the end came.

One of the last wishes of Del Rio was that his friend Stein finish the play, "The Barricade," begun in collaboration with him, and based on Del Rio's conception of real life in Hollywood.

Funeral services for Del Rio will be held Monday morning at the Catholic Matthias Cemetery. His body will be entombed there six months and then sent to Mexico.

Dolores Del Rio sent this telegram to Curtis Melnitz, Berlin representative of United Artists:

"Please purchase an abundance of flowers, including a wreath bearing the inscription, 'My Beloved.'"

California Woman Flier Claims New Height Record

OAKLAND, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—A new altitude record for women fliers was claimed today by Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden, 22, San Francisco aviatrix, following a flight of an hour and 35 minutes over the Oakland airport late yesterday.

In a biplane equipped with a 180-horsepower motor, Mrs. Thaden claimed to have risen to more than 23,300 feet, shattering the record recently established by Lady Heath, of England.

Mrs. Thaden declared her watch froze at 20,000 feet, where she encountered a temperature of two degrees below zero. She also reported difficulty in breathing despite special oxygen tanks in the plane.

EX-VANDERBILT WIFE WEDS PRODUCER

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Mrs. Emily Davies Vanderbilt, who only a few months ago divorced William H. Vanderbilt, yesterday afternoon became the bride of Sigourney Thayer, Broadway theatrical producer and scion of the socially prominent Massachusetts Thayers.

This became known last night after the pair had made every effort to throw a veil of secrecy around the nuptials.

On appearing at the marriage license bureau in the municipal building, after the manner of others of far less social distinction, Mrs. Vanderbilt and Thayer dashed away, refusing to answer all questions as to when and where they intended to wed.

Not until the wedding ceremony had actually been performed was any definite information given out concerning it.

The ceremony was performed, without ostentation, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Frederick M. Davies, by the Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, of Broadway Tabernacle.

DIVORCED IN JUNE

At the marriage license bureau Mrs. Vanderbilt gave her age as 35. Thayer gave his age as 32.

Members of both the bride's and the bridegroom's families witnessed the ceremony.

On Broadway Thayer is best known for "The Racket," a play in which he was co-producer last season.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's famous "six-minute" divorce was granted last June at Newport, R. I., by Judge Blodgett. Mrs. Vanderbilt charged her husband had neglected to provide for her. The question of alimony was left open, but it was understood she would receive about $30,000 a year.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Eugene O'Neill, of Pittsburgh.

Marine Insurance Authority Dies

ESSEX, Conn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—J. Floyd Johnston, vice president of the United States Merchants and Shippers Insurance Company, who was regarded as one of the foremost experts in marine insurance in the country, died at his home here yesterday.

He was chairman of the New York board of underwriters and during the war served in Washington as a "Dollar-a-Year" man on a special commission.

Married

MRS. VANDERBILT

Mrs. Emily Davies Vanderbilt, divorced last June from William H. Vanderbilt at Newport, R. I., and Sigourney Thayer, producer, were married yesterday in New York City. Mrs. Vanderbilt said she was 35 and Thayer 32.

COURTS REJECT BAR'S PLANS FOR SPEED

Most of the suggestions for speeding up the courts made by the Allegheny Bar Association have been rejected by the local judges, according to the report submitted by the special committee of attorneys at a meeting of the Bar Association last night in the Union Club. Only three of numerous suggestions made by the committee were adopted, and these were of minor importance, the report said.

The suggestions that the court approved were for interrogation of jurors, the assignment of the president judge on regular schedule with the understanding that he shall hear equity trials, and opening of the Common Pleas Court argument list the Tuesday after Labor Day. The committee had made 12 suggestions based on a study of systems in use in several Ohio counties.

After the committee had submitted its report, a resolution was adopted declaring that the sense of the meeting was that all of the suggestions should have been adopted by the judges. The Bar Association pledged its support in framing the charter for the Metropolitan Plan, and a committee was appointed to assist the plan committee. A committee also was appointed to examine plans for the new federal and county buildings to provide facilities for lawyers, litigants and records in the two new structures.

KING TOO WEAK FOR OPERATION

palace this afternoon and held a further consultation on His Majesty's condition.

It was understood that the object of the consultation was to make a further comprehensive review of the entire case. Those who attended were: Sir Stanley Hewett, Lord Dawson of Penn, Sir Humphrey Rolleston, Sir E. Farquhar Buzzard and Dr. H. Graham Hodgson, X-ray specialist. Dr. L. E. H. Whitby, a lung specialist, who conducted a bacteriological examination recently, was not present.

The King spent a restless day yesterday. His restlessness, according to the physicians, was caused by the use of a surgical needle to withdraw pleural matter from the infection in his chest.

The use of the needle for the first time, it was pointed out by palace officials, was not a sign that the King's condition had become worse.

It was just a natural part of the physicians' efforts to withdraw pleural matter, according to the officials.

WALES AT CAIRO

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 8.—The Prince of Wales arrived here at 8:30 a. m. today, after an overnight trip from Suez.

The cruiser Enterprise had brought the Prince to Suez late last night. After a short official reception he boarded a special train for this city.

The Prince will spend the day here and leave for Port Said early this evening. He is expected to reach Port Said later tonight and will probably sail for Brindisi, Italy, aboard the Enterprise before midnight.

Wife Ends Dispute By Shooting Husband

Mrs. Mary White, wife of Robert White, Negroes, of 1715 Arcena street, won an argument in her home early today by shooting her husband in the right shoulder, according to a report to the police. At the Passavant Hospital where White was treated, he said his wife and he had been arguing and she had shot him. Both are held at the Center Avenue Police Station.

Freeport Prisoner Dies in County Jail

A post mortem examination will be conducted today to determine what caused the death of Claude Swartzenwelder, 51, a plumber of Freeport, Pa., in the Allegheny County Jail. The man was committed November 28. Last night he became ill and was taken to the prison hospital, where he died this morning.

COLLINS BOY'S MOTHER SEES NORTHCOTT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8. — Contempt of court proceedings have been threatened by Attorney Norbert Savay against Attorney S. S. Hahn, who arranged a meeting between Gordon Stewart Northcott and Mrs. Christine Collins, mother of Walter Collins, allegedly slain by Northcott at the latter's Wineville chicken ranch.

Mrs. Collins appeared in Hahn's offices and asked the attorney to arrange an interview for her with Northcott, according to Hahn.

UNAWARE OF ORDER

Unaware that Superior Judges Morton, of Riverside, and Edmonds, of Los Angeles, had issued an order restraining anyone from talking with Northcott unless the defendant's counsel was present, Hahn said he arranged the meeting.

During the conference that caused the turmoil, Mrs. Collins was apparently convinced by Northcott's denial that he killed her son.

"I'm sure my boy will return some day," she assured the smiling youth accused of killing Walter Collins, Lewis and Nelson Winslow and an unnamed Mexican youth.

Northcott expressed the wish to confer with his mother, Mrs. Louise Northcott, who is expected to arrive here this morning from Canada. All investigators will center their activities today in questioning her.

She is charged with aiding her son in killing Walter Collins with an ax as the lad slept in one of the chicken houses at the ranch.

Home Wine Making Upheld as Legal

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 8.—The Virginia Dare Vineyards, Inc., of Penn-Yan, N. Y., charged with the sale, possession for sale and advertising for sale of a product intended for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor, stood acquitted today.

The government showed that the defendant sold a grape concentrate with directions for making wine which tested 13.4 per cent alcohol.

Widow of Oldfield Named for Congress

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A potential free-for-all primary battle for the two-year congressional term, to which the late Representative W. A. Oldfield was elected two weeks before his death last month, was averted yesterday when the state Democratic central committee gave the nomination to Mr. Oldfield's widow for the full term and for the short term, expiring next March. Mrs. Oldfield will run in a special election to be called shortly by Gov. Parnell.

Slayer of Mourner At Grave Convicted

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Hallard T. Ratcliffe, 39, who killed W. A. Muse, an aged carpenter, with a hammer last May while the latter was placing flowers on his wife's grave, had a sentence of death hanging over his head today. The jury that found him guilty deliberated only one hour and 45 minutes. The first trial several weeks ago ended with a hung jury.

Sam Weller Called To Stand by Dickens

READING, England, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A Pickwickian atmosphere prevailed in a local court when H. C. Dickens, barrister, a grandson of the famous novelist, Charles Dickens, called as a witness in a case Sam Weller—namesake of the character who figured in so many of Mr. Pickwick's adventures.

Japanese Mother Killed Trying Third Rescue

SANTA ANA, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A Japanese mother who braved a wall of flames in her home a second time after rescuing two of her babies, perished here yesterday when she dashed back into the house in an attempt to save a 7-year-old son who lay ill with influenza.

The mother, Mrs. Frank Ymata, was found burned to death near the bed of her son, Bennie, who also died in the blazing house. Ignited gasoline is said to have caused the fire.

ZIONIST DRIVE SPEEDED UP

The campaign for an increase in the Zionist membership in Pittsburgh, which is part of a nation-wide drive, is making rapid progress, according to a report from the Zionist headquarters, 414 Smithfield street.

"The idealism and the self-sacrifice of those who have labored in behalf of Palestine are now recognized and appreciated by a united Israel which has recently set aside all differences and attested to a unanimity of interest and devotion to the Jewish settlements in Palestine," Rabbi Goodman A. Rose, of Congregation Beth Shalom, said. "I bespeak every loyal Jew to rise to the occasion, to the opportunity which was the dream of our ancestors and is now become the privilege of our generation. Join the ranks of those who are endeavoring to restore our people to the land of its history and of its future."

Emil Steinbach, president of the Zionist District of Pittsburgh, declares that Zionists are also active participants in other community affairs and that cooperation on the part of Pittsburgh Jewry for a successful conclusion of the Zionist membership drive will result in relieving the Zionist leaders for greater activity in the other enterprises in which they are interested.

HOOVER GREETS BOLIVIA CHIEFS ABOARD SHIP

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN,
International News Service.

ABOARD U. S. S. MARYLAND, off Chile (via Arlington, Va., Radio Station), Dec. 8.—The Chilean cruiser Chacapuco joined the Maryland early today to escort President-elect Herbert Hoover down the coast to Antofagasta and Santiago.

The President-elect brought the respects and goodwill wishes of the United States to a South American republic whose soil he will not touch on his visit of amity—Bolivia. Bolivia has no sea coast.

A delegation of 80 persons representing Bolivia and 45 others were to board the Maryland at 10:30 o'clock (Chilean time) to exchange greetings with Mr. Hoover on this ship.

Capt. Kimberly, of the Maryland, planned to drop anchor two miles off Antofagasta at 10 o'clock, remaining until 3 o'clock this afternoon when the journey to Santiago will be resumed. The ship is due to reach Santiago at 7 o'clock Monday morning.

Commercial interest as well as friendship is attached to the brief stop, as Antofagasta is the chief export port for Chile nitrate.

Among those making up the party of visitors to the Maryland were Alberto Palacios, acting minister of foreign affairs for Bolivia; representatives of 15 leading commercial and civic organizations in Bolivia; Bolivian state and municipal officials; David E. Kaufman, United States minister to Bolivia; U. S. Vice Consul Brown, stationed at Antofagasta; a delegation from the American colonies at Lapaz and Antofagasta; the Chilean governor of the province of Antofagasta and a handful of Chilean army and navy officers.

ARREST OF DRY FORCE PROBED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Samuel O. Wynne, prohibition administrator for Eastern Pennsylvania, last night ordered an investigation of the arrest in Steelton, Pa., of Wilbur F. Leitzell, deputy administrator, and five prohibition agents by Steelton police when the dry agents raided a brewery in that town.

The Steelton police subsequently released the prohibition agents on demand of state troopers, who were summoned from Harrisburg by one of Leitzell's men.

New Castle Children To Get Holiday Treat

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—Five thousand children of the city will participate in the annual Christmas treat tendered them by the New Castle works of the Carnegie Steel Company this year. A large Christmas tree is to be erected in front of the Carnegie Steel Company auditorium. The tree and the treat are the gifts of Robert J. Tully, general superintendent of the plant.

Armed "Fare" Robs Taxicab Driver

An armed Negro early this morning obtained $8 from Albert McKnight, of 159 Power street, South Side, a taxicab driver, who was robbed in Bedford avenue at Kirkpatrick street. McKnight said he had picked up the Negro "fare" in Wylie avenue a few minutes before. While driving in Bedford avenue, McKnight felt a revolver placed at the back of his head and he was forced to turn over his money.

YACHTSMAN STILL ILL FROM GIRL'S SPARRING

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Being the little playmate of Miss Frances Porter, who sailed away from Havana in the private yacht of C. T. Whitehead, Atlanta (Ga.) millionaire, is serious and dangerous business—take it from Mr. Whitehead himself.

One has to be a combination of Jack Dempsey and the Terrible Turk if he is going to emerge from a yatching cruise with Miss Porter without showing scars of friendly battle.

Mr. Whitehead, whose warrant charging Miss Porter with assault was quashed when she sailed away upon the yacht Malvern, was still virtually hors de combat in his hotel apartment today.

He wore bandages and exhibited scars and said he still felt the strain of the jiujitsu exercises practised upon him by Miss Porter in a playful mood.

"Look here," said the Georgian millionaire to an International News correspondent. He indicated flesh wounds which, he said, had been made with a hatpin. There were scars Mr. Whitehead said came from the sharp French heel of his former friend.

PUNISHED FOR YEAR

In prize ring parlance Mr. Whitehead must be a "glutton for punishment," for he confided that Miss Porter had been joyously exercising her muscular prowess upon him for a year.

"I wanted to break away for I was getting fed up," added the owner of the Malvern. "Our relations were only friendly. I wanted to be a good fellow and show Miss Porter a good time. I never wanted to quarrel with her."

Mr. Whitehead is still under the doctor's care for his injuries. Miss Porter was formerly a show girl and an Atlanta newspaper writer. She is young, pretty and husky.

Former Congressman Missing in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Police of the Missing Persons Bureau today were hunting for Charles V. Fornes, 83, former president of the Board of Aldermen and once a Congressman, who was reported missing by relatives last night. Fornes, who came here on a visit from Buffalo, failed to return last night to the home of his niece on Staten Island.

House Committee to Keep Democrat Ratio

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Republican House leaders have decided to permit the present Democratic representation of the Ways and Means Committee to remain after the Hoover Congress comes in with its big Republican majority, it was learned today.

Other committees, according to present plans, will be arranged to provide a greater Republican membership.

WED AS WIFE WATCHES

MARTHA VAN WYEN

When "love died" for his wife, Herbert Leigh-Emanuell, church organist, in the presence of her and their three children, was married to 19-year-old Martha Van Wyen, West Sayville (L. I.) grocer's daughter, without the formality of a divorce, and was promptly arrested for bigamy and released in $5,000 bond.

WIFE AIDS MAN, LAUDS GIRL HE "MARRIED"

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

SAYVILLE, N. Y., Dec. 8. — A strange love triangle involving an "understanding" wife, her lovesick husband, Herbert J. Leigh-Manuell, a church organist and romantic music teacher, and "the other girl" in as queer and bigamously twisted an affair as the most imaginative fiction writer might conceive today was agitating the public, the press, the police and the principals themselves.

Ethel Leigh-Manuell, the wife, stood out as the most extraordinary character in the love drama, for she is playing the inexplicably strange role of a wife who complacently arranged the wedding of her husband and the father of her three children to 19-year-old Martha Van Wyen. She even witnessed the marriage.

It was all so simple. Her amorously-inclined husband "fell out" of love with her and "fell in" love with Miss Van Wyen. So Mrs. Leigh-Manuell thought it perfectly o. k. for hubby to take unto himself the younger wife, albeit neglecting to rid himself of wife No. 1.

Thus he finds himself in the plight of having two wives—very embarrassing indeed, what with the authorities making it hard on all concerned and threatening to send him to jail for bigamy, and perhaps Miss Van Wyen as well.

DEPENDS ON NO. 1

"I'm up against it—I don't know what I'd do without my wife," he declared, meaning No. 1.

The two wives were more concerned today about their husband's plight than their own predicament. After the trouble blows over, wife No. 1 hopes to get a divorce so the mixup can be straightened out, and wife No. 2 is looking forward to her honeymoon.

Mrs. Leigh-Manuell feels "terribly sorry" that her poor, misunderstood husband has got himself in a jam. She not only did her bit in helping him marry the girl of his dreams, but she supplied $5,000 bail after he had been arrested. Moreover, she's going to stick to him through thick and thin.

At the modest home, over which the shadow of scandal has suddenly fallen, the wife nursed and petted her husband this morning, telling him to "buck up" and "not to worry." She explained all things by referring to his "genius" and hoped all would be for the best.

"I did what I did because I wanted to make my husband happy," she said. "I have known for two years that my husband was attracted to Martha, and I since found out they were in love. When I learned Herbert wanted her instead of me, what else was there to do?"

PRAISES OTHER WOMAN

Not only that but Mrs. Leigh-Manuell doesn't hold the slightest ill-will toward Miss Van Wyen.

"A beautiful character," the wife remarked in describing "the other woman."

Migration Costs To Canada Lower

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 7.—(AP.)—A new stimulant to migration from the United Kingdom and Ireland to Canada, was seen today in announcement that the $94 steamship fare for migrants had been reduced to $50. The difference in the fare is to be absorbed by the British government and the steamship companies on a basis which was not made public. The new fare does not affect the $10 rate under the empire settlement scheme, which continues in force.

Czech Minister's Written Court Excuse Fails

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Dr. Eduard Benes, foreign minister of Czecho-Slovakia, sent a written excuse when he was summoned into court yesterday to give an affidavit regarding a defamation charge brought against him by General Secretary Hlavacek, of the National Democratic party.

The court refused to accept the excuse and dispatched a warning to the minister that he would be brought into court forcibly unless he came of his own will.

$120,000 RUM HAUL MADE

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Customs agents who sensed something decidedly out of the ordinary when they saw a case of wall paper begin to leak after it was dropped from a truck, seized 120 cases of liquor valued at $120,000 yesterday on a Red Star pier.

Thirty-four large packing cases marked "Wall Paper" arrived on the Lapland Tuesday from Antwerp. Arrangements were made for their removal to a bonded warehouse. While they were being put on a truck one fell and began to leak. Agents who opened it found a thin layer of wall paper rolls concealing a smaller case which held four cases of liquor. Thirty of the large cases were similarly packed, the other four being actually filled with wall paper.

HUNTERS THINK DOE SEASON SUCCESS

By AL GOUGH,
Staff Correspondent.

STATE GAME REFUGE, FORBES FOREST, Pa., Dec. 8.—While courts disarm deer hunters in seven counties out of the 54 originally intended to be open for does and young bucks in Pennsylvania this season, 2,072 specially licensed nimrods comb the hills of Westmoreland county back of Ligonier with that undying hope known only to the man of the great outdoors. Now and then the lucky huntsman brings home his deer—mostly then, so it seems.

In other words, the deer is just as hard to find this year as in previous seasons, notwithstanding the special ruling of the State Game Commission permitting an open season on does and young bucks in its endeavor to balance the sexes in the state deer herd. Whether they be does or bucks, they are hard to find, and there is no such wholesale slaughter as many predicted at the beginning of the season.

There is one outstanding advantage, however, in the Game Commission's special ruling—safety to the hunters themselves. In the Forbes Forest, where this correspondent spent several days this season, there are only one-tenth as many hunters in the field as there were last year. Although the opening of the season last Saturday brought back memories of France 10 years ago, fatalities were far below last year's mark. Only one man fell victim to a wild bullet, and another came to an untimely end through carelessness with his own gun.

DANGER LESSENED

Limiting the number of hunters in the field with a special issue of deer licenses has met with favor among the majority of hunters. There is not nearly so much danger of meeting up with a stray bullet instead of a deer as there was last season, but again there is the possibility of favoritism when it comes to issuance of the licenses.

Many sportsmen residing in Allegheny county, for instance, found themselves handicapped when it came to obtaining licenses to hunt deer in Westmoreland county, their usual haunt the first two weeks of December. This matter could be easily straightened out through a system of registration and by giving out licenses in turn.

There is no doubt that the limitation of the number of hunters in the field would have a good effect upon the number of casualties each year, and the proposition offers an interesting problem for the game commissioner's consideration.

WARDENS ACTIVE

Game Commission regulations are carried out to the letter here by a most capable force of wardens under the direction of Supervisor H. J. Sines, of New Castle, who is personally conducting a close scrutiny of deer killed in this district. With him are Wardens J. P. Kennedy, of Washington, Pa., and W. C. Shaffer, of Wilkinsburg; W. W. Stewart, keeper of the game refuge, and a squad of local wardens.

Automobiles driven through the forest preserve are searched diligently by these eagle-eyed state officers, and there is no opportunity for the unscrupulous hunter to get away with anything.

All in all, despite criticism from almost every part of the state, the deer season this year is more of a success, both to the hunter and to the state herds, than ever before, in the opinion of most of the men in the field.

CITY MUST HAVE SUBWAYS, TRANSIT BODY DECLARES

TROLLEY TUBE NEED URGED ON COUNCIL

Street car subways are the only solution to Pittsburgh's traffic problem, according to George S. Davison, chairman of the City Transit Commission, in a letter forwarded to Council.

The letter was suggested, Davison says, by the fact that Mayor Charles H. Kline has forwarded estimated expenditures for 1929, including those of the commission, and its members believe it appropriate to offer their opinion on pending transportation plans.

Davison's communication, though making no specific reference to it, recalls a recent statement by Frank S. Duggan, of the Major Traffic Committee, that subways are obsolete and the traffic problem may be solved by widening Fifth avenue to the Wilkin[illegible].

Davison pointed out that the situation should be considered as it affects street car [illegible]. Traffic counts show trolleys carry passengers from 70 per cent of the persons entering and leaving the downtown triangle.

The commission does not hesitate to spend millions annually on automobile arteries, Davison says, and he believes it is time to give at least equal consideration to the 70 per cent which daily uses the public transportation systems.

The commission emphatically expressed its confidence in the soundness of the subway project, particularly now when there appears to be a great confusion of ideas as to a way out of our traffic and transportation difficulties.

The commission says "nothing will intervene to [illegible] the stopping of the [illegible] subway [illegible] for that would throw us back to where we were [illegible]."

The commission desires to continue its program for a subway and declares that the favorable vote polled in Allegheny county for the proposed state constitutional amendments Nos. 7 and 8 should encourage Council in the adoption of an optimistic attitude toward community progress.

MARINE KILLED IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 8—(AP.)—A gunnery sergeant was fatally wounded Thursday when a Marine patrol under Capt. Maurice G. Holmes, of [illegible], Miss., was in contact with bandits in Nueva Segovia. The sergeant was Charles Williams, of Astoria, N. Y.

The bandits had assassinated a defenseless peasant south of Ocotal. Capt. Holmes intercepted them between that town and Telpaneca and sent them fleeing in every direction. Sergt. Williams was wounded in the head by a [illegible] shot and died an hour later. This was the first Marine Corps [illegible] since August [illegible].

WOMAN KILLED BY BURGLARS

EATON, O., Dec. 8—(AP.)—Mrs. Lora Silver, [illegible], was shot and killed and her husband, Dr. H. Z. Silver, 55, prominent physician, was wounded seriously by two robbers who entered their home early today. Hearing a noise in a downstairs room, Mrs. Silver went to investigate and was shot through the heart.

Dr. Silver, who followed his wife downstairs, also was shot by the robbers, who fled in an automobile.

Dr. Silver is a brother of Harry D. Silver, recently appointed state finance director.

DEATH VOWED FOR SLAYER OF BOY

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—A grim race is on today between Jersey justice and the vengeful law of old Sicily for the right to visit vengeance upon the man who murdered 7-year-old Joseph Storelli.

Already the Hudson County grand jury is assembled in Jersey City to speed the killer to the electric chair. So plain is his guilt that the hearing of evidence is a mere formality.

The grand jury is ready to bring an indictment charging first degree murder. Only receipt of Kudzinowski's signed confession from Detroit is needed.

But down on the lower East Side of New York, where little Joie lived amid the teeming slums of Little Italy, grand juries mean little to the simple people whose blood is fired with old world passions.

VENGEANCE SWORN

Murder, according to their code, must be repaid with murder. Primal justice is theirs, an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth. They scream curses upon Peter Kudzinowski, who was to be brought here from Detroit today to face trial for Joie Storelli's murder.

They swear to wipe out the blood debt with the murderer's blood. Therefore, a strong guard of police will meet the train from which Kudzinowski will alight with two New Jersey detectives.

Sicilians in Jersey City also are inflamed by the manner in which the killer boasted of the slaying. They are saying that he will never reach a cell alive. Every reserve policeman in Jersey City will be on guard to protect Kudzinowski.

SCRANTON SEEKS BODY

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Fifty policemen and detectives were to search this morning in Rocky Glen Park, near here, for the body of Harry Quinn, of Minooka, Pa., whose murder was confessed by Peter Kudzinowski when the latter admitted the slaying of 7-year-old Joseph Storelli, of New York. The confessed slayer said he buried Quinn in the park after felling him with a rock in 1924.

Mayor E. B. Jermyn, of Scranton, ordered the policemen to make a thorough search of the park.

Dairy-Farm Plant Swept by Flames

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Dec. 8—Whipped by strong winds, flames of a mysterious origin swept the machine shop, two barns and an ice plant on the Braeburn farm of Liberty Dairy and Products Corporation, better known as Hermes Grove Dairy, early today, causing [illegible] loss. Farm occupants saved a herd of cattle and some horses.

Poison Bait Feared Mistaken For Food

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 8—(AP.)—A poisoned deer carcass, left in the woods near Stevens Point, Wis., as wolf bait, has disappeared. Game wardens, believing it to have been stolen for food, radiocast warnings last night.

G. B. SHAW "GETS HOOK" IN STAGE-RADIO MIXUP

LONDON, Dec. 8.—George Bernard Shaw, philosopher of revolt, knows how the old Bowery burlesquers used to feel when they "got the hook." Shaw did not actually get the shepherd's crook about his neck, but he had the curtain fall on him last night in the midst of his lecture before the budding thespians of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Not only that, but the radio broadcasting company switched him off before he was half through with his rambling talk on "How It Strikes Me."

Many of his small audience went away under the impression that the radio company had insulted [illegible] by switching him off and that the curtain had dropped because [illegible] feared he was going to say something very naughty.

The facts are that the [illegible] sage of Adelphi Terrace said very little that was worth while and the Daventry station switched him off because his time limit was up; but when the click sounded from the microphone a nervous stage hand thought Shaw had finished and started dropping the curtain.

"Hold on there!" shouted Shaw, dashing from the rostrum to the wings; "I haven't finished yet. These good people still wish to [illegible]."

Whereupon the curtain went up again and Shaw returned to the rostrum and resumed his discursive comments. The joke of it is that just when the radio cut him off, Shaw was declaring:

"I am talking to the universe."

POWER TRUST'S FIGHT ON DAM BARED

By M. L. RAMSAY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—A massed attack of power trust propaganda, extending into many states and aiming directly at the defeat of the Boulder Dam project, has been revealed in Federal Trade Commission records.

High officials of the electric power companies, public utility managers and employes, propaganda bureaus and newspapers were lined up just before the last session of Congress in an attempt to block the government's building of the dam.

Paul S. Clapp, managing director of the National Electric Light Association, gave a detailed account of part of this drive in a "personal and confidential" letter to J. F. Owens, of Oklahoma City. Owens was chairman of the association's public relation section.

Clapp had swung through the Middle West with C. A. Beasley, of the Alabama Power Company, who was hammering at government development of Muscle Shoals, while Clapp concentrated on Boulder Dam. He was preparing to go into New England and the Southeast.

"We had meetings in Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas (Topeka and Kansas City), Missouri and Indiana," Clapp wrote. "At each of these meetings there were present from 20 to 35 of the leading executives from the state."

ADVERTISING URGED

"Main points emphasized," Clapp wrote, were:

"The importance of each executive, after he goes back home, calling a meeting of his assistants and district managers for a discussion similar to the one we held. This to be followed, as far as possible, by presentation of the important facts to general employes' meetings.

"That careful consideration should be given to regular advertising in each of the small papers within the territory covered by them. On this point, emphasis was laid on the necessity for regular advertising."

Promoting greater publication in the papers of the printed matter sent them by the propaganda bureaus was one purpose of this advertising, Clapp said. The Trade Commission record shows a lavish outlay for advertising in this territory.

T. F. Ashford Elected To Head Kiwanians

Homer H. Sweeney, district governor of the Kiwanis clubs, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Pittsburgh Kiwanis Club Thursday night. Officers elected were: President, Thomas F. Ashford, III; vice president, Edward E. Ludwig; treasurer, William L. Phipps; secretary, William F. Burress, and district trustee, William C. Ziegler. The directors are James C. Bingham, John G. Daub, F. A. Freyvogel, A. H. Meyers and Thomas N. Treese.

German Boy May Get Place at West Point

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Boy von Lewinski would have the distinction of being the first German citizen since the World War to attend West Point Military Academy under a resolution introduced by Chairman Britten of the House Naval Committee.

Von Lewinski is the son of Dr. Carl von Lewinski, a member of the mixed claims commission, and has been living with his parents in Washington. His mother was American born.

Scott Nearing Talks Here on 'Coming War'

A lecture on "The Coming War" was delivered last night by Scott Nearing, former professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, in the International Socialist Lyceum, James street, North Side. His talk was under the auspices of the North Side Workers Party. Prof. Nearing declared that the superior civilization of a people and the resultant economic surplus from efficiency were the cause of war.

EIGHT IN VOTE FRAUD SENT TO JAIL

Six election officials, two of them the first women to be imprisoned for election offenses, are serving jail sentences, the outgrowth of convictions for election frauds at the September, 1927 primary. Two men are out under bond to begin their sentences later.

The eight were sentenced yesterday by Judge J. Frank Graff, of Kittanning, who was trial judge when the first two election boards in the widespread prosecutions of the primary frauds, involving more than 40 boards comprising 200 officials, elected to go to trial in April. The convictions obtained in these two cases resulted in pleas by the remainder of defendants.

The two women are Clara A. Manes, young and pretty college graduate, and Mrs. Anna Alston, each committed to jail for 60 days. They are expected to be released before Christmas under the condition that the sentence will be reduced to 15 days if a fine of $300 each and costs are paid.

TWO GET EXTENSIONS

Both were members of the board of the Fourteenth District of the Twenty-first Ward. Two other members, Clarence A. Bower and James Williamson, were fined $300 and costs each and sentenced to jail for six months. The fifth member of the board, Joseph H. Klein, judge of election, was largely instrumental in the convictions, appearing as a state witness.

Sentences of six months to jail, with fines of $300 and costs, were also imposed upon Myer Angell, John Miller, Negro, and Melvin Keist, members of the board of the Twentieth District of the Fifth Ward. Another member, J. W. Jeffries, Negro, was given 60 days in jail, with a condition that it will be reduced to 15 days if a fine of $300 and costs are paid. John Jacobs, fifth member of the board, did not appear for sentence and was ordered apprehended.

Angell's sentence will not commence until December 26, Judge Graff granting this extension on plea of counsel that the defendant has $4,600 of Christmas trees in railroad yards to be sold and that he is the only person able to conduct the business. He was ordered to present $2,500 bond, which was done. Counsel also pleaded for an extension for Miller, who was said to have been summoned from a sick bed to appear, and he was subsequently released for 30 days before beginning sentence, under a $2,000 bond.

ALL BELIEVED "DUPES"

Judge Graff stated, in reply to the plea of Attorney Thomas Marshall, that the cases did not merit paroles. He said that paroles granted in other election cases were because of pleas to the count of negligence. The convictions were found on counts of conspiracy and wilful fraud.

During the trial it was intimated that the election board members were "dupes" of political leaders. In this connection, Judge Graff said, "I have no doubt that these people were led into the offenses by others. That is my personal view, and is shown by the testimony. Consideration has been given to that or the sentences would be more severe."

Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk prosecuted the cases against the two boards. Orders refusing new trials were handed down before sentence.

FLU EPIDEMIC NOW AT PEAK

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—"On the basis of experience in other parts of the state the peak of the mild epidemic of flu should be reached in the Los Angeles district this week and should wane thereafter," Dr. Walter N. Dickie, head of the State Board of Health, declared today, in discussing the situation in California.

"The epidemic started in northern California and reached its peak in San Francisco the week of October 27, when 1,200 cases were reported," the state health head said. "This has fallen to 214 the past week. The epidemic moved southward and 5,214 cases were reported in the Los Angeles area last week. This week may be higher, as it should mark the peak."

Two Men Seriously Injured by Falls

Two men are in the McKeesport Hospital suffering from injuries received in falls yesterday. Both are in a serious condition.

Falling off a scaffold while at work in a McKeesport theater, Charles Schoener, 48, of 1217 Boyle street, North Side, suffered a broken back, brain concussion and a probable skull fracture.

William Derflinger, 42, of 618 Vermont avenue, Glassport, sustained a sprained back and right shoulder when he fell from the roof of his home. Derflinger was working on the roof when he slipped.

SIX SECONDS FOR SAFETY

"While it takes numerous nuts to hold an automobile together, it requires only one at the steering wheel to tear it apart," says the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its holiday safety campaign. Through a medium of safety "wise cracks," the motor club hopes to keep the sorrow of death and injury from homes. Last year there were 25,775 persons killed in the United States in automobile accidents.

Sheep Accused Of Devouring Money Orders

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Grant B. Miller, chief post office inspector and his corps of sleuths, like Little Bopeep, are puzzling over a sheep story.

Because the post office at Temo, Ark., gets very hot during the summer months, Postmaster William L. Clemmons moved out to the sheep lot to sleep one night, taking with him 16 money order blanks. Eleven of these disappeared and Mr. Clemmons, writing the department, said: "The sheep are all the time pulling at the bed, and I think they ate the missing orders."

COURT RETURN DELAYS BRING WARNINGS

Two city police magistrates, three alderman and seven justices of the peace of Allegheny county were warned yesterday by Judge James B. Drew, presiding judge of Criminal Court, that no further delays in returning cases to court would be tolerated. In the event this evil of the past continues, the court may inflict punishment as an object lesson, Judge Drew said.

The officials were summoned under an order by Judge Drew on complaint of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, who related instances of delays of months in sending cases to court, instead of within the five days allowed by law.

Those summoned were: Police Magistrates A. D. Brandon and John W. Orie, Alderman Charles A. Burke, of the Seventh Ward, and Dr. C. B. Quailey, of the Fourth Ward, Pittsburgh; Alderman L. N. Morgan, McKeesport, and Justices of the Peace Chester A. Wyke, Bridgeville; W. E. Bair, Oakmont; Philip Hillen, Carnegie; M. T. Gorham, East Pittsburgh; J. Clyde Miller, Homestead; William G. Porter, North Braddock, and James Toohey, McKeesport.

Each was interviewed separately by Judge Drew in his chambers and strictly enjoined to observe the law in the transmission of cases.

SEVEN LIQUOR RAIDS MADE

Liquor was reported found in seven places raided by prohibition agents in the city and county yesterday. Eight men were arrested by the raiders.

The Hillcrest Inn, at Hillcrest, where Harry Schwartz, 43, was arrested, yielded large quantities of whisky and beer, agents say. Joseph Haramic, 47, and Mike Kraluvich, 32, were taken in a saloon at 1044 East Ohio street, North Side, where moonshine was found, according to the agents.

At 47 Fullerton street, raiders say they found whisky and arrested Salverio Manfredi, 32. Two Rankin homes and a saloon and residence in Glassport also were visited. Liquor violations were discovered and arrests made in each, agents say.

Manufacturers' Body Names Walter Burns

Walter H Burns was elected president of the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives at a meeting of the organization in the Chamber of Commerce. Charles A. Young, retiring president, was given a vote of praise.

Edward A. Bracken was named vice president; T. R. Kenney, second vice president; G. C. Jenkins, treasurer, and H. W. Adams, secretary. The directors are Daniel B. Kelly, Daniel T. Felix, George M. Grove, George E Reis and Mr. Young.

CHURCH MARKS ITS 140TH BIRTHDAY

The congregation of the Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church celebrates the one hundred and fortieth anniversary of its founding, beginning tomorrow and continuing until next Sunday.

The church is the mother of Methodism of Western Pennsylvania, having been founded in 1788. It was originally at Smithfield and Water streets.

Of the ministers who have served this congregation, seven have been elevated to the bishop's chair.

The anniversary program begins at the morning service tomorrow, with the Rev. Dr. William H. McMaster, president, Mt. Union College, occupying the pulpit. He will speak on "The Forward Vision." The present pastor, the Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, preaches at the evening service at 8 o'clock on "Rebuilding the Walls."

SERMON SUBJECTS

Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, of the Rodef Shalom Temple, Fifth and Morewood avenues, speaks tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on the subject "The Ultimate Victory."

"Love Covers a Multitude of Sins" is the sermon subject of the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock. Dr. Macartney speaks at the evening service at 8 o'clock on the theme "God the Father Almighty."

Dr. Heber Curtis, director of the Allegheny Observatory, speaks in the East End Christian Church tomorrow night on "Science and Religion." He will spend a half-hour answering written questions from the floor. The Open Forum will be conducted by T. Ralph Barr. In the morning, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers preaches on "The Good Samaritan." Mrs. Charles Aufhammer will be the soloist at both services.

N. Y. PASTOR TO SPEAK

The pulpit of First Baptist Church, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, will be occupied tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. P. H. J. Lerrigo, of New York City. In the evening at 7:45 o'clock, Theodore E. Miller speaks on the subject "A Sane View."

Dr. Moffett, a missionary from Korea, occupies the pulpit of Third Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning. Dr. W. L. McEwan preaches at the evening service on the subject "What Is Preaching?"

Continuing his series of sermons on "The Approach to Christmas," the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor, preaches tomorrow evening in Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, on the subject "Was Jesus Really the Son of God, What About the Virgin Birth?" He will answer the question "Is faith in Christ essential to salvation?" in his sermon. At the morning service he preaches on "A Great Church." K. Y. Yaroshewich, noted Russian, will tell about an evangelistic movement in his part of Russia, at the after-meeting in the chapel following the sermon. The music by the double and male quartet choirs, with Dan Jarrett as soloist, will be a feature.

DR. MASON'S THEME

"The Clerical Life in Daily Experience" is the sermon theme of the Rev. Dr. L. Walter Mason, pastor, First Unitarian Church, Ellsworth and Morewood avenues, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, pastor, German Evangelical Protestant (Smithfield) Church, preaches in German on the subject "Advent Joy." His English sermon at 11 o'clock will be on the theme "Knocking at the Door."

"The Supreme Court of the Human Spirit" is the sermon subject of the Rev. Dr. Norman C. Milliron, pastor, First Evangelical Church, Center avenue and Graham street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Milliorn speaks at the morning service at 11 o'clock on the subject "The God of Hope."

Mrs. W. F. Knight, missionary, who recently returned after having served at Oriental posts for the past quarter-century, will be the principal speaker at both services tomorrow in the Salvation Army auditorium, Second avenue. James Thompson will lead the Young People's Legion at 6 o'clock and will speak on the subject "Strong Measures." The adult Bible class at 2 o'clock in the afternoon will be in charge of Adjt. Clifford Lockwood. Special music will be presented at the morning service at 11 o'clock and the evening at 8 o'clock.

Dutch Warships To Convoy Art To London

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—A new use for warships has been found by the Dutch government. Dutch destroyers will convoy four vessels carrying masterpieces of Holland art to London. The pictures are to be shown at the great Dutch art exhibit lasting from January 4 until March 9.

The collection will include 500 Dutch paintings, gathered from all parts of the world, and insured for $15,000,000.

HIDDEN DAGGER PROBE ON

Government authorities are endeavoring to learn who was the owner of a six-inch dagger and eight 38-caliber revolver cartridges found concealed in a water tank in a rest room, adjoining offices of United States Attorney John D. Meyer and the United States Commissioner. The discovery was made by a janitor.

In attempting to establish the ownership of the weapon and cartridges, government officers are working on the theory that they were deposited in the tank by a prisoner about to be sent to jail, who did not want them found on him when searched.

Police Pay Holdup Victim's Fare Home

Big-hearted policemen at the Oakland station furnished trainfare home for Mike Jacobs, of R. D. No. 86, Greensburg, after he had been robbed of all his money early today while walking in Fifth avenue near Soho street. Two Negroes held up Jacobs and took $35 from him.

COAL INDUSTRY BILL HEARINGS DECEMBER 14

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Hearings on the coal bill offered near the close of the last session as a solution to conditions existing in the bituminous industry have been set for December 14 by the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce.

Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, chairman of the committee and author of the measure, stated today that the hearings would not be extensive but would be of sufficient duration to give all interested parties an opportunity to express their views.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, will be the first witness to appear, it was announced. Following him representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by John Lewis, president, are scheduled to be heard.

The bill is the outgrowth of the investigation conducted by the Senate last session of conditions in the bituminous fields of Western Pennsylvania, and was offered by Senator Watson at the request of officials of the United Mine Workers. Briefly it provides for the establishment of a bituminous coal commission, with power to regulate interstate and foreign commerce in bituminous coal, consolidations, mergers and co-operative marketing organizations. Other provisions would regulate the fuel supply of interstate carriers, and require the licensing of corporations producing and shipping coal in interstate commerce.

100-Year-Old Cabin Damaged by Flames

A log cabin, said to be more than 100 years old, at Oneida street and Virginia avenue, Duquesne Heights, was damaged by fire last night. A large collie dog, "Laddie," was saved by firemen, who broke open the door and freed the animal.

The fire started while Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Evans, the occupants, were absent. An overheated stove is believed to have been the cause. Firemen estimated the damage at $800. The cabin is one of the landmarks of the Mt. Washington-Duquesne Heights district.

DON ALVARADO TO PLAY LEAD IN "BRIDGE OF SAN LUIS" FOR SCREEN DRAMA

By REGINA CREWE.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 8.

AFTER scouring Hollywood in search of a leading man to play the important masculine role in "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Metro has awarded the prize to Don Alvarado. The handsome Latin youth has been kept busy playing a wide variety of parts. His selection for this big picture is a reward really commanded by his excellent work.

The further additions to the cast of Duncan Rinaldo, as Alvarado's brother, Paul Ellis and Michael Vavitch make it complete. Director Charles Brabin will begin to shoot next week.

It seemed as though either James Kirkwood or Henry Walthall, the "Little Colonel" of "The Birth of a Nation," would be chosen as Mary Pickford's father in "Coquette." But, when it came to signing a player for the role, John Sainpolis got it. He combines wide stage and screen experience and should do well in a talker.

Gilt-Nail Fad; Blame Dolores

DOLORES COSTELLO claims credit, or blame, for the latest folly of Hollywood's flappers. It is the fad of gilded finger nails, originated when Dolores appeared at the "Momart" for a hurried luncheon without removing her "Noah's Ark" make-up. Incidentally, one of the first greetings Dolores received upon becoming Mrs. John Barrymore, was an invitation from the press agent of the show to see "The Royal Family."

Things change overnight in the picture business. Just a while back Esther Ralston was reported "through" at Paramount. Now comes word that she has been selected as Emil Jannings' leading woman in his new picture. It hasn't been christened yet, but shows Emil against a background of a couple of Swiss Alps. Maybe the theme song will be "I'd Climb the Highest Mountain," or "I Miss My Swiss."

Like the bus driver who rode up Fifth avenue on his day off, the player people seem to delight in staging a show when they have any spare moments. A group of one-act plays presented by the Writers' Club has many screen folk in the casts. Among them are Aileen Pringle, Robert Edeson, Carmel Myers, Raymond Hatton, Jane Winton and Virginia Valli. The one Hatton is in is called "Spoils of Lust!"

Ray's Whisper Found Audible

IT WAS always thought that Raymond Griffith, the "high hat comedian," was fortunate in being an actor in the "silent" drama. For, if you remember, Raymond suffers from an affliction which makes it impossible for him to speak louder than in a whisper. To his surprise, and to the surprise of all Hollywood, Raymond took a voice test just for the fun of it, and the whisper comes through the recording mechanism clear as crystal and more audible and understandable than many another star who can still shout. It means that Ray will be back in the pictures—the sound pictures—before long.

Take a look at Pathe's picture, "Square Shoulders," if you want to see young Eric Von Stroheim, Jr. He's following in father's footsteps. And starting early, too.

Out at Pathe they say that Ina Claire is only one of a whole string of favorites to be signed up soon for the talkies. But when anyone asks who the others may be, the bosses just shake their heads and look wise. Paul Bern, one of the big chieftains, will be in New York soon, and maybe he'll have a bunch of contracts all ready for signature.

Belle to Film Life of Dancer

BELLE BENNETT is going right ahead with her plans for filming a screen version of Isadora Duncan's life, with herself playing the star part. Belle has the picture rights, and will make the movie with sound effects in the form of theme music. She says she has two offers from big-time companies for the release of her photoplay.

Watty Kemp has arranged to be released from his present film contract and can now try his luck as a free-lancer. Sue Carol hasn't yet straightened out her difficulties with Douglas MacLean. As things stand now MacLean has been successful in stopping Sue from working elsewhere until the matter of Sue's contract is finally threshed out in court. Lina Basquette is another popular youngster whose film future seems a bit in doubt. Lina has completed her Pathe contract and is now free to appear in other photoplays. However, with her marriage to "Pev" Marley in the offing, she may decide to quit the screen for a life of wedded bliss.

One by one the screen players who have been ill with the flu are returning home from hospitals and reporting for work at the studios. Marie Prevost is one of the most recent recoveries. While ill Marie received an offer for a New York talkie. So she may go East.

Artist Group Options Closed

MORE signs of life at the Pathe studios than there have been for many weeks. Options on a number of players have been taken up. The lucky ones are Bill Boyd, Eddie Quillan, Jeanette Loff, Alan Hale, Carol Lombard, Robert Armstrong and Directors Howard Higgin and Tay Garnett.

It is understood that Dita Parlo, who was imported to play opposite Maurice Chevalier, is liable to return to the old country without making a picture. Almost while Dita was in transit, the sound picture avalanche hit the industry, and Dita, unfortunately, speaks no English. The leading woman finally selected for the French favorite's first picture is Sylvia Beecher, who has had both stage and screen experience.

"Prisoner" is the title of Corinne Griffith's next photoplay. It will be adapted for the screen from the play by Franz Molnar. Grant Withers is to be her leading man. He played opposite her in "Saturday's Children." Following "Prisoners," Corinne and her husband, Walter Morosco, plan a trip to Europe with a stay in New York before and after.

PHOTOPLAY LASSIES :-: POSE :-: FOR THEIR PICTURES

Ruth Taylor had nothing to do for the time being, so she thought she'd like to try something new. For a change from acting before the camera she decided upon a pose. This is it. Ruth, you know, is a Paramount player.

Patricia Archer is the name of this alluring young person. Patricia earns her cakes by appearing in comedies.

Fay Wray's model in wax, three feet of it, and Fay herself. We like herself best.

Jean Arthur seems to think a flying outfit ought to be all flossed up. Gray leather, this coat, with silver buttons; gray wool, the cap.

JESSEL STAR OF COMING PLAY

George Jessel opens a one-week engagement next Monday night in the Pitt, with matinees Thursday and Saturday. The vehicle Mr. Jessel brings is "The War Song," the story of a Jewish boy's devotion to mother and country.

"My Maryland," musical romance, will be the attraction in the Alvin next week, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. "My Maryland" has a score by Sigmund Romberg and book and lyric by Dorothy Donnelly, composer and author of "Blossom Time" and "The Student Prince."

Geoffrey Kerr is featured in "The Bachelor Father," which David Belasco is sending to the Nixon Monday night, December 17. June Walker and C. Aubrey Smith are the other featured players in "The Bachelor Father," which was written by Edward Childs Carpenter.

Norma Talmadge, in "The Woman Disputed," will be the principal screen attraction in the Penn next week. Gilbert Roland supports the star. On the stage will be a revue, "Crinoline vs. Jazz."

A cast, including Pauline Frederick, Bert Lytell and Lois Wilson will be seen in "On Trial," feature screen attraction at the Stanley next week. The film is an all-talking Vitaphone special from the Warner studios.

Vincent Lopez, famous jazz orchestra leader, will be seen and heard in a group of favorite selections on Metro Movietone in Loew's Aldine next week, in conjunction with the showing of "Lonesome," Universal sound drama.

The third Victor Hugo classic to reach the screen will be shown in the Grand next week. It is "The Man Who Laughs," starring Conrad Veidt, with Mary Philbin in the leading feminine role.

The trial of a girl who murdered a "varsity drag," is one of the travesties in "Nite Club Girls," next week's burlesque in the Academy.

The sound film of J. P. McEvoy's novel, "Show Girl," starring Alice White, opens its initial showings in East Liberty in the Regent today.

The Harris, for the first of next week, will have Chester Conklin in "Taxi 13" as a photophone film feature. The vaudeville will be headed by Milt Collins, "The Speaker of the House."

Crockett's Kentucky Mountaineers will top the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square the first three days of next week. The two screen features will be Chester Conklin in "Taxi 13" and Olive Brook in "The Perfect Crime."

Chamber Music Listed for 'Y' Sunday

The Max Shapiro String Quartet, Max Shapiro, first violin; Herbert Lomask, second violin; Milton Lomask, viola, and George Curry, 'cello, will give a chamber music program in Y. M. & W. H. A. Sunday night. Membership in the Chamber Music Society of the "Y" is open to the public upon payment of a nominal membership fee, which includes admission to all of the chamber music recitals. The Max Shapiro String Quartet will give the following program: Quartet C Minor, Brahms; Sketch on Farewell Song of Chippewa Indians, C. Griffes; The Pixy Ring, a fairy miniature suite, H. Waldo Warner.

ZEPPELIN AGAIN TO CROSS SEA

BERLIN, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The Hamburg correspondent of the Telegraphen Union quotes Dr. Hugo Eckener as saying that the Graf Zeppelin will make another trans-Atlantic flight. The flight will be made to refute criticisms that have come from various sources, particularly from Frederick Gilfillan, who was one of the American passengers when the big ship traveled from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, N. J.

Dr. Eckener was quoted as saying that the dirigible was not wholly faultless, but that she was not so bad as her critics had painted her.

War Memorial Bridge Planned at Rochester

ROCHESTER, Pa., Dec. 8.—The Chamber of Commerce of Beaver Valley plans to advocate construction of an arch bridge as a World War memorial across the Beaver River between Rochester and Bridgewater. The structure would take the place of the present bridge, which will soon have to be replaced.

Recital on Organ Is Listed for Tonight

A free organ recital program will be given at 8:15 o'clock tonight by Dr. Charles Heinroth. In the program will be prelude to "Carmen," Bizet; Allegretto from Seventh Symphony, Beethoven; Minuet, Lully; Sonata No. 1 in D Minor, Guilmant; Albumleaf, Wagner; Fantasy and Fugue on "Sleepers Awake, a Voice Is Calling," Reger.

The program for Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock follows: Overture to "Raymond," Thomas; "La Fileuse," Raff; Three Dances from "Henry VIII," Edward German; Scotch Fantasy, Macfarlane; Nocturne in F Minor, Chopin; "Yasnaya Polyana," tone poem, Gaul; Gavotte in F Major, Martini; Fugue in D Minor, Bach.

Unlicensed Wedding Questioned in Court

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Married or not married is a question Judge James M. Galbreath, of Butler county, has been called upon to decide in the case of Lawrence Snyder, [illegible], and Agnes Snyder, 20, of Slippery Rock, who went through a marriage ceremony before a notary last October without having obtained a marriage license.

Snyder was arrested on a charge of desertion and non-support, but declared he was not married, contending he had made this discovery after the ceremony. The court was called upon to pass on the legality of the ceremony.

Man Squanders Fortune, Dies Under Train

CHAMBERY, France, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Claudius Marius Goddard returned to France in 1926 when he inherited 200,000 francs after 30 years of toil as a carpenter in Argentina. Yesterday his body was found on a railroad track in his native village of Chindreaux, with papers in the pockets indicating that the last of his francs had been squandered.

Madonna Service In Epiphany Church

Madonna Sunday will be celebrated with great pomp and splendor in Epiphany Church, Sunday with a solemn high mass at 11 o'clock. The combined junior and senior choirs will sing Antonino Mauro's mass in honor of St. Rita, under the personal direction of Prof. John Sedlacek, with C. Hackman at the organ. The program follows: Processional, "O Come Emmanuel," boy choir, R. C. Schmitt; Introit, male chorus, Roman chant; Kyrie, Gradual, Credo, mixed chorus, A. Mauro; Offertory, "Ave Maria," tenor solo, Ciegnani; Sanctus-Benedictus, mixed chorus, A. Mauro; Agnus Dei, mixed chorus, A. Mauro; Communio, male chorus, Roman chant; Recessional, "Daily, Daily," boy choir, Joseph Mohr.

LONDON WOMEN FIGHT DIVORCEE IN ELECTION

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Whether divorce should end a man's political career is the question which has arisen in the big Parliamentary constituency of South Kensington, London. A feminine crusade has been started against the re-election of Sir William Davidson, who has represented the district in the House of Commons for 10 years.

Mrs. Davidson recently divorced Sir William, and women of the constituency, who outnumber the men voters 47,000 to 20,000, are proposing to run an opposition candidate. Some of the women hold that a divorced man should not be allowed to sit in Parliament. The constituency is the only one in London in which there is a preponderance of feminine votes.

Sir William has announced his intention to fight for his seat. He has denounced the movement against him as an outrage and has pointed out that he and his wife had not lived together for five years.

Coolidge to Attend Gridiron Dinner

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—President Coolidge tonight will attend the semi-annual dinner of the Gridiron Club, an organization of Washington newspaper correspondents. It has been Mr. Coolidge's custom to be present at one of these functions each year during his term of office.

New Castle to Alter Municipal Buildings

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 8.—City Council has authorized H. M. Wirsing, an architect, to prepare plans for remodeling of the City building and annex. A new jail will be constructed in the annex.

Graduate Nurse Has Proved the Value of FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

For Colds and as a Tissue Builder

"From my previous experience as a graduate nurse," says Mrs. Helen G. Preston, of 56 Melrose Street, Boston, "I recommend Father John's Medicine for colds and body building. Mothers to whom I have recommended it report that their children gain weight and are stronger than ever before. It restored my son to health when he was in poor physical condition after war service."

McCulloch Drug Stores Offer To All Who Suffer Stomach Agony, Gas and Indigestion

Money Back If One Bottle of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin Doesn't Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow actors when one tablespoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish?

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with indigestion or any stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

Dare's Mentha-Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also conquers stubborn indigestion and dyspepsia, and puts an end to dizziness, nervousness, headache, sleeplessness and despondency, which distressing troubles are nearly always caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

Dare's Mentha-Pepsin is pleasant to take, has a delightfully refreshing taste and after it has put your stomach in a clean and healthy condition, just notice how much better you look and feel, for besides correcting chronic stomach disorders this supremely good remedy that McCulloch Drug Stores and druggists everywhere guarantee, is a fine tonic that builds you up and makes you work with vim, eat with relish and sleep soundly.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Sewickley Man Weds Philadelphia Girl at Church Ceremony

DECEMBER is distinctly not a "wedding month," comparing favorably with July so far as a dearth of important nuptial events is concerned. Christmas and the debutantes and the big benefits take up too much time; there is none left for all the details of a big wedding.

Naturally enough, there are a few exceptions and one of them is taking place today. This wedding is in the East, to be sure, but the bridegroom formerly lived in Sewickley, so I am sure you will be interested in hearing about it.

I am referring to the marriage of Frances Burrows Sloan, daughter of the Burrows Sloans, of Orchard Hill, Ardmore, Philadelphia, and Frank E. Rutan, Jr., son of Mrs. Frank E. Rutan, of Bryn Mawr and Sewickley. This ceremony is set for 4 o'clock this afternoon in All Saints Church, Wynnewood, Philadelphia, with the rector, the Rev. Gibson Bell, officiating.

Frances is wearing a gown of ivory satin made with long close-fitting sleeves and a deep V neckline, with an insert of lace. Her court train is of old family lace, suspended from the shoulders and fastened at the waistline, terminating in two long points adorned with sprays of orange blossoms. The bridal veil is of tulle, arranged with a cap of lace, and her flowers are gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Frances is having eight attendants, her sister, Mrs. Londen S. Wainwright, of Woodmere, L. I., as matron of honor; Sarah A. Browne, maid of honor, and six bridesmaids, Marie Louise Baird, Mrs. Henry L. Collins, Jr., Mrs. William Dixon Stevens, of Hewlett, L. I.; Alene Grace, of Bethlehem, Pa., and Mr. Rutan's sisters, Martha and Betty.

The matron and maid of honor are dressed alike, wearing frocks of orange transparent velvet made with uneven hem line, short in the front and longer in back, forming small trains. Their hats are of the orange velvet and they are carrying shaded orange and yellow chrysanthemums. The other girls are wearing similarly fashioned dresses in golden yellow velvet with hats to match, and their flowers are yellow chrysanthemums.

Frank E. Richardson, Jr., of Sewickley, is his cousin's best man and the ushers include Richard G. Croft, of Greenwich, Conn.; Donald M. McAlpin, of Bethel, Conn.; S. Hallock DuPont, of Wilmington, Del.; W. I. Lincoln Adams, of Brownsville, Tex.; Carroll W. Knoblauch, of Stamford, Conn.; John L. Wigton, of Sewickley; John H. Jewett, John S. Martin and Frank M. Donahue, all of New York; Louis B. Weiss, of Philadelphia, and Burrows Sloan, Jr., Frances' brother.

A reception at the house followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Rutan left for a trip. They will be at home in Argyle Court, Ardmore, after January 1.

TO leave the subject of weddings for a while, I want to tell you about an early January party, which is being planned. This is a tea-dance, which Mrs. Walter Logan Hardie, of Bartlett street, is going to give on January 2 in the University Club for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Hiller Hardie, and her daughter, Janet Hardie. No doubt you remember that the junior Mrs. Hardie was Elizabeth Alcorn, of Bryn Mawr, before she was married in September.

I understand that among the guests will be members of the Princeton Triangle Club.

MISS PEGGY CLARK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Murdoch Clark, of Penn avenue, who attends the Mary Lyon School in Swarthmore, has been elected president of her class. Mrs. Clark is planning to entertain at luncheon in her home on December 28 for Peggy, who will return home from school on December 21.

THE Christmas dinner dance of the Highland Country Club will be held December 28 at the club house, and a mixed bridge party is scheduled for next Thursday night. H. L. Keally has been named chairman of the entertainment committee for the coming year.

INTERESTING to Pittsburgh is the announcement of the recent marriage of Iveta Moreno de Corvalho, daughter of the late Dona Amalthia de Corvalho, of Rio de Janeiro, and the Rev. Dr. Albert Northrop Roberts, of Rio de Janeiro, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Campbell Roberts, of Sunny Hills Manor, Wexford. Dr. Roberts attended the University of Pittsburgh and later the University of Virginia, and spent three years in the Episcopal Seminary at Alexandria, Va. After a year at Trinity Church, [illegible], where he was ordained by Bishop Mann, he went as a missionary to Brazil and is now temporarily in charge of the Church of the Redeemer in Rio de Janeiro. His bride's family is well known in Brazil, and her mother was prominent in the work of the Episcopal Church at Livramento before her death last June. Her father was a captain in the army.

How To Be Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Loveliness for Red-Heads

THERE is a difference of opinion about red-heads.

According to some folk—and these are mostly artists who should know — the loveliest of all women are those with naturally red hair.

MARIA JERITZA

On the other hand, many a freckle-faced "brick - topped" little girl suffers agonies of embarrassment when she is called "Red-head!" by the boys on the street. She knows well the teasing epithet is not intended as a compliment. And as she grows older the red-haired girl sometimes becomes still more self-conscious and despondent over her fiery hair and the thin, sensitive skin that goes with it that cracks and burns, freckles and chaps with every change of temperature.

The fact is, the red-haired woman can be either beautiful or hopelessly ugly. And whether she is plain or lovely depends largely on the care she gives to choice of costumes and to care of her eyes, hair and all the details of her health, grooming and beauty.

If your hair is red, the chances are your complexion is extremely sensitive. It needs much the same care given an infant's tender skin.

A sensitive skin cannot stand heavy powders, astringent creams or strong liquid astringents. Even soap may be too harsh and drying for such a complexion, which should be cleansed night and morning with absorbent cotton dipped in warmed sweet almond oil of the best quality, or else with some such cold cream as the following:

Spermaceti, 3 ounces; white wax, 1 ounce; oil of almonds, 8 ounces; glycerine, 2 ounces; rose water, 2 ounces; borax, ½ ounce; oil of roses, 10 minims; extract of jasmine, ½ ounce.

Your druggist will put up for you, if he follows this formula, more than a pound of deliciously fragrant cleansing and nourishing cream. Fifteen minutes after you apply it, remove the remnant of the cream from your face, neck and ears with absorbent cotton or tissue make-up squares, and sponge your face first with warm then with softened cold water.

Use only the lightest make-up. Let your red hair supply the dominating color note. Rouge on the cheeks and lips, with red hair, too, often looks garish and loud. Rice powder in flesh or natural hue is pure. But use powder sparingly. Health and rested nerves are a boon indeed to the red-haired girl, for her sensitive skin lines with the least strain or fatigue.

Scrupulous attention to details of dress and daintiness are needed to stress the charm of red hair. White, black, white and black, pastel greens, yellows, blues and violets will bring out your vivid red-haired loveliness, if you select the exact tint that harmonizes with your coloring.

With hair of burnished copper you can be a symphony in green or gold or violet, but a garish discord in all three colors combined in one costume. Choose costumes of dull-surfaced texture. You may be likened to a red rose. Let the vase holding the rose, which is your costume, be neutral and simple in order that the rose itself, by contrast, may shine forth in full-orbed beauty!

Pitt Cathedral Fire Damage $25

Although firemen battled a blaze on the first floor of the Cathedral of Learning of the University of Pittsburgh, now under construction, for more than an hour last night, they estimated the damage at $25. The fire started when a tarpaulin used to protect fresh concrete blew against a heater being used to dry the concrete. The tarpaulin was the only thing damaged.

LOEW'S MOVIE ABSORPTION DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—Vigorous denial to the rumor circulated involving alleged negotiations for absorption of Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer by another film concern was made today from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of the former organizations.

In the following emphatic announcement Mr. Schenck refutes the report and expresses the belief that the rumor was maliciously created:

"The story that negotiations were under way for sale of Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to another motion picture concern is absolutely untrue and I wish to deny it in the strongest language possible.

"Were it not for the fact that such reports are apt to do harm this newest motion picture rumor would be the most ridiculously amusing gossip that I have heard in years. As it is, I cannot help but feel that this unfair report was maliciously created, possibly with the idea of stock manipulation.

"We are at present entering upon the most ambitious program of activities since the inception of our organization. Never before have Loew's Incorporated and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer occupied a position more enviable in the industry than they do today and we are particularly proud of this fact. Anyone really familiar with motion picture conditions can appreciate how ridiculous it would be for our organization to even consider negotiations such as those circulated, had they been submitted, which they emphatically have not."

The Cleveland Orchestra gave its annual concert in Syria Mosque last night. The program at first glance seemed hashy, but it was all such bright music that everyone left the hall in happy spirits.

There can be no doubt that the Cleveland Orchestra is coming into its own. We no longer expect the brilliance nor the grand volume of tone from this organization that we hear in the larger orchestras, but Nikolai Sokoloff is gradually instilling into his players a finesse and smoothness of tone that is most ingratiating.

There were two most interesting novelties. The Schubert Symphony is worth while only as a historical discovery. As far as contributing anything to the fame of its composer, it might have remained buried. There is a certain fascination in analyzing such a work, left a mere sketch by Schubert and worked upon by a mediocre craftsman; one might spend some hours speculating what Schubert himself might have done in revising it. But to enjoy hearing this symphony nowadays, a master hand at orchestration like Richard Strauss should have to tone it up, as he did the Gluck operas.

The other novelty comes from the Soviet Republic. Into the "March of the Orient" of Schillinger the audience might read almost any program. It could easily depict the pandemonium of an Eastern bazar; it may be the state of the Russian mind; it is ghostly enough to be a march of death. At any rate, the march is a stirring bit of orchestral writing, sinister and laughing. It is the first modern work our audiences have genuinely applauded, and the Cleveland visitors found themselves very comfortable playing this music.

Sokoloff's Wagner has improved, too, though it still dazes him. The Wolf-Ferrari overture wanted a little more the quality of Mozart. Chabrier was obvious, but the Sibelius tone-poem especially enlightened us as to the progress of this orchestra.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Weather Conditions.

A ridge of high pressure extends from Eastern Ontario southwestward over the lakes and the Mississippi valley to Texas, thence northwestward over the Rocky Mountain states. The eastern limb of the high presure area caused a drop in temperature over the Mississippi valley and the Ohio Valley states from 10 to 15 degrees in the north and to freezing as far south as Central Texas and Louisiana.

There is considerable cloudiness over the upper Ohio valley and eastward to the coast, and snow is falling at scattered places. It is snowing along the Atlantic coast from Norfolk to Boston. A low centered over the Canadian Northwest extends down over the Northern and Central plains. It is causing rising temperatures over that section, and the skies are mostly clear.

River Conditions.

The rivers have again reached low stages and are about stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 13.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.3, and Dam No. 6, 9.8. The dams are up.

$30,000,000 Suit Spurs Tracing Of Ancestry

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Heirs of John Nicholas Emmerich, following announcement from New York that Federal Judge Thatcher had dismissed their suit against the Astor family for recovery of $30,000,000 alleged to be held in trust for them, were busy today assembling material to prove their relationship to the famous ancestor.

The suit involved valuable properties in New York, which were supposed to be held in a trust, held void by Judge Thacher in his ruling, at the time of its making. There is a possibility that the case will be reopened providing the heirs, 10 of whom reside here, can prove direct descendency from John Emmerich.

INFANTS SAVED WITH PART OF SEAL CASH

A county wide educational program to prevent tuberculosis infection in infants and children is declared to be one of the most important works conducted by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh and to further this work the league now has on sale their Christmas seals. The activities of health education are continual and include talks in the schools of the city and county, open air classrooms, physical examinations and assistance in correction of defects.

The league is supported entirely by the sale of the Christmas seals, private donations and endowments. The money derived from the sale of seals is devoted exclusively to tuberculosis work in Allegheny County. Other work of the league includes care and free treatment of those suffering from the disease who are unable to pay, dispensary and the school work, visiting patients in their homes and distribution of information regarding prevention and means of preserving health.

TWO DIE IN LAKE AUTO PLUNGE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Two young men were drowned and two girls rescued from the waters of Lake Cheat last night when their automobile plunged over an embankment 70 feet into the lake.

The drowned men are Virgil Huggins, 18, and Thorne Keener, 19, both of Morgantown. The girls, who are at a Morgantown hospital, are Myrtle Furman, 17, and Rosie Stiles, 16.

The accident occurred at a bridge on Cheat Mountain, when an approaching machine evidently blinded Huggins, who was driving.

The four were thrown clear of the car.

Huggins' body has not been recovered.

1929 Auto Licenses Banned Until Dec. 15

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Sounding his annual warning against the premature use of 1929 automobile license tags, Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, said yesterday that any cars carrying the new tags before December 15 will be treated as unlicensed vehicles. The new licenses will be valid on and after that date and December 31 is the last day for using the 1928 tags, Eynon said.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

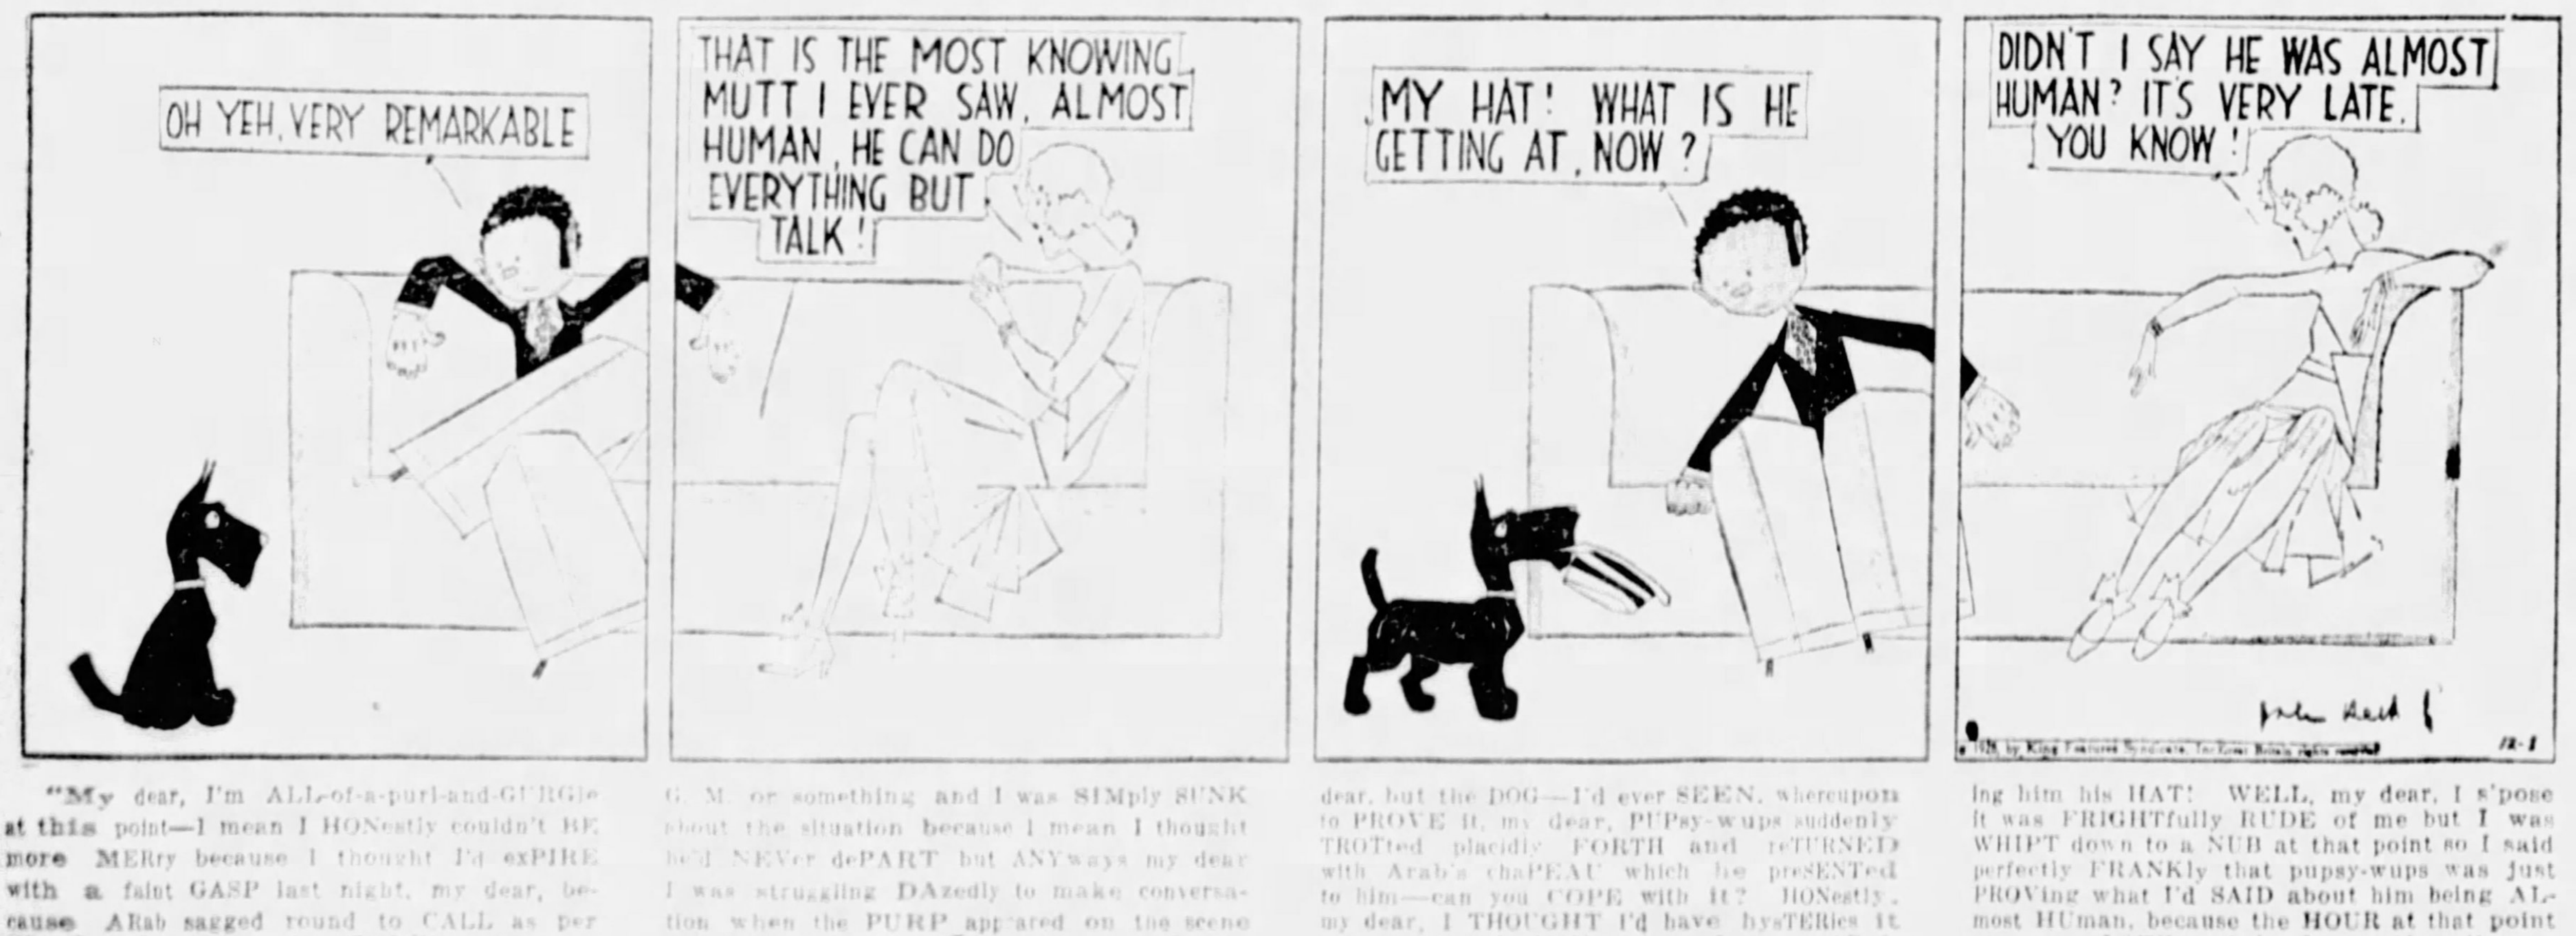
Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



OH YEH, VERY REMARKABLE
THAT IS THE MOST KNOWING MUTT I EVER SAW, ALMOST HUMAN, HE CAN DO EVERYTHING BUT TALK!
MY HAT! WHAT IS HE GETTING AT, NOW?
DIDN'T I SAY HE WAS ALMOST HUMAN? IT'S VERY LATE, YOU KNOW!
John Held

"My dear, I'm ALL-of-a-purl-and-GURGle at this point—I mean I HONestly couldn't BE more MERry because I thought I'd exPIRE with a faint GASP last night, my dear, because ARab sagged round to CALL as per USual and, my dear, he STAYED and stayed and STAYED until I THOUGHT I'd go MAD because it was getting to be about TWELVE G. M. or something and I was SIMply SUNK about the situation because I mean I thought he'd NEVer dePART but ANYways my dear I was struggling DAzedly to make conversation when the PURP appeared on the scene and I EAGerly GRASPED at him as a TOPic, do you SEE? I mean I GLIBly told Arab he was the most inTELLigent mut—not ARab, my dear, but the DOG—I'd ever SEEN, whereupon to PROVE it, my dear, PUPsy-wups suddenly TROTted placidly FORTH and reTURNED with Arab's chaPEAU which he preSENTed to him—can you COPE with it? HONestly, my dear, I THOUGHT I'd have hysTERics it was so AWfully FUNny, but of course ARab didn't see the POINT at ALL and wanted to know what was the IDEA of the beastie bringing him his HAT! WELL, my dear, I s'pose it was FRIGHTfully RUDE of me but I was WHIPT down to a NUB at that point so I said perfectly FRANKly that pupsy-wups was just PROVing what I'd SAID about him being ALmost HUman, because the HOUR at that point was very LATE and he knew when it was time for Arab to depart even if ARab DIDn't—can you BEAR it, my dear?"

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

TO THE FINGERTIPS

By FELICIA WAYNE.

SHE wasn't an ordinary manicurist—you could tell that at a glance. As a matter of fact she wasn't even a good manicurist, as most of the smartly groomed lady patrons of the Hotel President often complained. But these complaints never disturbed the manager of the hotel, for he knew that for every dissatisfied lady patron there were a dozen gentlemen patrons who would swear Fania Petroff gave the "neatest manicure in town."

And perhaps that was why for two years Fania had kept her job while other, and more expert fingernail-glossers, came and went. There was something dark and mysterious about Fanie that made you see past starched uniforms and little bottles of liquid polish—something hidden and obscure that made you think of secret passages and fascinating intrigues.

It would be useless to attempt a description of such elusive beauty—useless to classify cheeks of such marble whiteness, eyes of such incredible perfection. No one tried to do it. The women who sat at her little table and extended their bejeweled fingers for weekly repair envied her loveliness, but never tried to pierce beneath it. Men flattered her and offered her gifts—but never bothered to discover whether Fania's soul was as fair as her body. They knew she was Russian, a manicurist and of superb beauty. The other things they didn't care about.

Which is why, although she had had many brilliant offers of marriage, Fania Petroff was still polishing fingernails. And here we must let you in on a little secret—Fania had sworn to herself when she came to America that she would not throw herself away upon a mere admirer of her body. "The man I marry," she said to herself, "must appreciate my mind and my soul, because these are the things that count, these are the things that never fade."

But also for such noble ambitions, such high-standing philosophies! No one ever bothered to ask the little manicurist what she thought of life, what she expected to get out of it. It is true one portly gentleman with a red face and a high collar asked her if she had ever been in love. But who wants to discuss romance when other girls, far less attractive, less intelligent, were riding in high-powered cars and tasting the luxuries which youth and beauty brought to their feet, Fania was alone in her little room, reading. Reading, and dreaming of the man who would ask her: "What are the thoughts that go whirling through that complex little brain of yours—what are your eyes saying today?"

But one day something happened that made Fania's heart beat faster. Two men walked into the beauty shop on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel President, and stood talking at the clerk's desk. One of them was a man she recognized — the middle-aged vice president of a national bank who was a regular customer. The other, younger and not too well-dressed, she had never seen before. She could hear snatches of their conversation. "Not such a good manicure, old fellow, but the most beautiful eyes you ever saw. It's a joy to sit opposite her." This from the older man. Then the younger man stole a glance at her, saying, "Anything to her."

"Anything to her!" Fania's pulses throbbed. He had asked that. He had wondered what she was like. When the younger man sat down at her table she picked up her nail file and said softly, "More to her than you would ever imagine." He was so startled at that that his finger jerked away from her. "I'm so sorry," he apologized, "I had no idea you could hear us."

"And I had no idea," she replied, "that you would care, one way or the other, whether there was anything to me. Most men don't." She looked into a pair of clear gray eyes that seemed to reproach her for jumping at conclusions. "Just because I'm only a manicurist," she went on, "the—"

He checked her there. "Intelligent people never judge others by vocation — it's avocation that counts. If you were to tell me what you do when you leave the hotel I could tell you more about yourself then—" He hesitated. "Do you mind my being so presumptious?"

Fania didn't mind at all. She loved it, and so they went on talking, about themselves, about ideas, books, aspirations. It was the shortest manicure she had ever given—the most delightful he had ever received. They said "goodby" like old friends and although he made no attempt to ask for her telephone number or make another engagement, she knew they would meet again.

They did. Three days later she saw his tall, somewhat stooping form at the clerk's desk—heard him ask for a manicure. "You are hard on your nails," she said as he sat down opposite her again. He laughed. "I never have been before," he admitted with a boyish grin. This time, as he got up to go, he laid a package on her table. "Apple for teacher," he said shyly. "May I take a bite now?" she asked, as eagerly she untied the string. It was an exquisite volume of poetry, and as she turned the pages her fingers trembled.

"No one has ever given me a book," she said and she turned away quickly. After that he gave her many books—and saw her frequently. Mostly they met in the evenings, after she was through, and walked in the park. He told her of himself—that he had no money, few opportunities to forge ahead. He was a dreamer, not a doer, she learned. And she loved him for that.

Once she asked him, many months later, why he had fallen in love with her. "Because," he said, "you are an aristocrat—to your fingertips." He smiled. "No pun intended," he apologized. But Fania wasn't listening any more. She was crying softly. He pressed her trembling mouth to his. "I love you, little Fania, because you are as white inside—as out."

"You found me," she sobbed, "I am yours."

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

DEFINITE word on the wavelength rearrangement of WCAE is expected tonight when counsel for the station and Allan Machesney, engineer, return from Washington. They expected to return to Pittsburgh yesterday but were delayed by a further conference with government radio officials.

The new arrangement will be tested within the next two weeks it was learned yesterday. If the station is put on a high wave-length it will necessitate some minor changes in the equipment and the purchase of a new frequency meter. Since the re-allocations, frequency meters have been hard to obtain with only one big factory producing them.

FEATURES TONIGHT

Victor Herbert's operetta, "Naughty Marietta," will be offered as the Philco Hour feature at 9 o'clock over KDKA. From WCAE the Strollers will present "White Elephants" at 7 p. m.

Cyril Guthoerl, organist, will give a special recital from WJAS at 10:30 o'clock tonight. The regular popular program by local artists will be given from 8 untill 10:30.

Dewey Bergman's Orchestra will be heard from KQV at 11 o'clock during the late program from this station.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PLEASING FROCK FOR SCHOOL OR HOME.

The fulness at the hips and below the yoke portions in this attractive style may be disposed of in shirring or smocking. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length, or short as pictured in the large view, with a narrow turned up cuff for trimming. Wool jersey, or wool crepe is suitable for this design. Pongee, cotton rep or broadcloth are also nice. Blue cashmere with facing of red or tan on collar and sleeves, and stitching or smocking in a matched color is a good suggestion for the development of this model.

The pattern is cut in four sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12-year size will require 2¼ yards of 36-inch material, together with ¼ yard of contrasting material for facing on collar and cuffs if the dress is made with sleeves in short length. If made with wrist length sleeves it will require 2¾ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

International Art Show Ends Sunday

Tomorrow is the last day the paintings of the Twenty-seventh International Exhibition will be on view at Carnegie Institute galleries. So far, more than 100,000 persons have seen the paintings. The European paintings in the exhibit will be shipped next week to Cleveland, where they will be shown in the Cleveland Museum of Art from January 7 to February 17. They will then be taken to Chicago. The American paintings will be returned to the artists immediately.

Flueless Gas Stove Causes Man's Death

Another carbon monoxide death, the second within 24 hours, occurred last night when Joseph Sich, 50, was found dead in a room of a hotel at 374 Helen street, Stowe township. Peter Ponachak, proprietor of the hotel, found the victim when he went to awaken him for work. A flueless gas stove was burning in the room, deputy coroners say.

Grave Scientists Hear Dancing Is Universal

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Grave scientists and other members of the American Philosophical Society for the Promotion of Useful Knowledge, founded by Benjamin Franklin, last night listened to a lecture on dancing.

It was given by Dr. Walton Brooks McDaniel, professor of Latin, University of Pennsylvania, who spoke on "When Terpsichore was Young." He said that "dancing is now an almost universal passion and even those who taboo it as wicked have at least seen performances of it out of the corner of a reproving but interested eye."

TAX REFUND ENDS FEUD

minus the cost of attorneys retained to represent them in the fight.

Until a short time ago it had not been definitely known whether the treasury intended to appeal the decision of the tax board, and the fact that the refund was granted without the taxpayers' being put to the necessity even of filing a formal petition to this end came as a surprise in Washington.

Basis for the refund is found in that part of the tax board's decision holding that the value of Ford motor stock as of March 1, 1913, key date in the controversy, was at least $10,000 a share, the minimum valuation set by the minority group in their hearings before the board.

VALUATIONS DIFFER

In levying the $34,000,000 arbitrary assessment against Senator Couzens and the others, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, under the treasury, contended that the March 1, 1913, valuation was somewhere between $2,500 and $6,000 a share, as against a valuation of approximately $9,500 per share set by former Commissioner of Internal Revenue Daniel Roper. Profits on the sale, represented as the difference between these figures, were subject to heavy government tax and were to determine the amount of tax collectable.

Incidentally, Henry Ford bought out the holdings of his minority group in 1919, paying approximately $12,000 a share.

Extensive hearings continuing over a period of six weeks and held both here and at Detroit followed the Treasury's Department's action. It is estimated that the cost of the litigation to the minority group amounted to $1,000,000, in attorney's fees, services of expert accountants and industrial engineers, who offered testimony to support the valuation contended for. Almost an equal sum is said to have been spent by the government.

Counsel for the taxpayers was headed by John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential nominee, with many others including Joseph E. Davies, of Washington, former chairman of the Federal trade commission, and Arthur S. Lacey, of Detroit, personal attorney for Couzens. Alexander Gregg, youthful solicitor of the Internal Revenue bureau at the time, led the government's legal forces.

Senator Couzens, against whom an assessment of $10,000,000 was levied individually, charged at the time that the action was inspired by a bitter political feud between him and Secretary Mellon, growing out of his investigation of the administration of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. He is now being sued for $500,000 in the District of Columbia Supreme Court for alleged slanderous remarks contained in a speech on the floor of the Senate against a former employe of the Treasury Department involved in the case.

In many respects the case is the most remarkable one arising under the tax laws of the nation, both as to the amount involved and the final outcome. As a result of the action, the government today finds itself the loser by some $3,000,000, plus whatever expense attached to the prosecution of the case.

B ROTHSTEIN DRUGS

been checked at the Commodore for shipment to Chicago.

The trunks were to have been shipped last night, it was learned. James Kerigan, in charge of the narcotic agents who made the seizure, said he had acted on information uncovered during a search of the premises of the Rothemer Realty Company and five other concerns at 45 West Fifty-seventh street. According to federal authorities, a search of the gambler's 60,000 confiscated documents revealed he was connected with all six firms.

ARRESTS EXPECTED

United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle today declared he anticipated an arrest in the drug investigation soon, which might also lead to the solution of the mystery surrounding the shooting of the gambler. Witnesses were being brought to the federal building this morning to testify in the drug investigation. Their names were not revealed.

Four federal agents made the raid without the knowledge of the police.

Tuttle issued the following statement today:

"This seizure is a very large fraction of the drug supply of the biggest drug ring in the United States, and the papers we have seized and the evidence in our possession indicate that Arnold Rothstein had to do with arranging the financing of this ring.

"I anticipate an arrest will very shortly be made and expect to enlist the co-operation of the Federal Grand Jury Monday. It is not improbable that an examination of the Rothstein papers, which we seized yesterday and of his other files, which we were examining at the time they were taken over by the county District Attorney, may throw important light on the motives and circumstances of Rothstein's murder."

The records Tuttle referred to were impounded by District Attorney Joab Banton for the County Grand Jury pending completion of its investigation of the killing of Rothstein.

BUGS BAER Says

ALL that President Coolidge asks Santa Claus for is 15 new cruisers.

They will be used for good-will ambassadors.

These 15 cruisers are part of our new system of Harveyized peace and armored contentment.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

One good-will plenipotentiary to a cruiser seems to be the ratio of diplomacy.

Fifteen new cruisers should excite no apprehension in Europe.

That number will just enable the Harvard Debating Club to hold its winter maneuvers off the coast of Panama.

We do not understand the proposed Federal farm board's revolving fund.

The farmers have been revolving for quite some years without funds.

The new revolving fund will enable them to rotate in bigger circles.

The consolidation of railroads is a good idea. It will enable the roads to issue more stock and less cinders.

Conservation of public oil lands is a subject that should not have been brought up again.

The Democrats mentioned that too often in the last campaign.

Enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment is a timely subject.

And always will be.

Leasing Muscle Shoals may be difficult.

Henry Ford asked for that so long ago that now he has forgotten what he wanted it for.

The flood menace may be met by voting a life preserver to every member of the Investigating Committee.

But most of all we want those 15 cruisers. This item means two more admirals with wide, manly epaulets and plenty of that gold braid that is co consoling in times of national peril.

POLICE SAVINGS PROBED

savings accounts by one witness. This was explained as matured proceeds of a building and loan association."

"Were the profits of Inspector Faulkner from the pool room in which he has an interest very large?"

"Yes, they were very large," replied Gardner.

The District Attorney revealed that the special investigation he mentioned recently was an examination of records to ascertain what property police officials had acquired.

"This investigation, which was termed 'mysterious' by newspapermen, is concluded and shows very little beyond some purchases on loans," he said.

NOT LIKE PHILA.

The eight officials summoned for examination were the only ones whose bank accounts merited investigation out of the many bank accounts scanned, the District Attorney pointed out.

"We certainly did not have any experience here like that in Philadelphia, where police officials were found to have deposited as high as $5,000 monthly," he said.

In addition to Supt. Walsh and Inspector Faulkner, Police Lieuts. D. R. Fitzsimmons, Harry Moore and James Callaghan were examined by the grand jury. Fitzsimmons, the first witness, was before the investigating body about 50 minutes and Faulkner nearly 25 minutes, while the others required 15 minutes or less to explain their accounts. Lieuts. Philip Marmo, John J. Lynch and George Hook were told by Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt, assisting Gardner, to appear Monday morning for examination.

PIRATES IN STIFF TEST

By CARL W. SHATTO.

THE Detroit Cougars, who have not lost a single game since their lid-lifter and who have scored as many goals in six games as have the Pirates in nine encounters, will endeavor to do a little social climbing at the expense of Benny Leonard's skaters at Duquesne Garden tonight, and the sad truth is that the Cougars' climbing chances are not bad.

In Jack Adams' Detroiters the Bucs will be meeting the real leaders in the American section of the National League. True, the Cougars are trailing the New York Rangers by a margin of two points in the standing, but when it is considered that the Michigan skaters have participated in three less games than have the Gothamites, and that each victory nets two points, it can be seen that the Cougars' position is the most advantageous.

Montreal at Boston.
Ottawa at Toronto.

One thing the Pirates can be thankful for is that they are in good condition for a real fight, but at that, they are not the equal of the invaders in the matter of physical fitness, for the Detroit puckmen have been idle since last Sunday, and their injury list totals exactly zero.

COOPER, HAY DANGEROUS

Cougars who will command much attention tonight are Carson Cooper, at present the leading goal getter in the American Section, and George Hay, one of the leading scorers in the National League last season. Hay at present ranks second in the individual scoring table, so the Buc defense can be excused for anticipating a very painful evening. Cooper, famed for his "shovel shot," and Hay, flank Herberts, at center, and the former Boston bearcat ranks with the best pivot men in the game today.

And Cooper, Hay and Herberts, ladies and gentlemen, are used as SPARES. In the Cougars' last fight with the Americans, Manager Adams emulated Mr. Rockne of gridiron fame and started his reserves, the real aces being saved for the reserve trick. The new system produced a Detroit victory, so Adams is not likely to change his battle plans tonight.

The Cougar starting front line is Aurie and Conners at the wings and Lewis at center, but do not be deceived and anticipate a Detroit letdown just because these gentlemen leave the ice. It will be at that time that the Pirates' real trouble will start.

DEFENSE RECORD GOOD

The invaders' defense record, too, is superior to that of the Pirates. Not since that opening game, when the Rangers tallied twice, has any club been able to penetrate the Adams armor more than once in one game, and the Cougar foemen have been anything but "soft." The rugged Mr. Traub and the even more rugged Mr. Noble are the Detroit defense men, and they are so efficient at breaking up enemy attacks that they are popular only in their home city. Dolson, in the Cougar nets, has been consistently brilliant all season, and the only certain method of getting the puck into the cage is to carry it past him.

The Cougars defeated the Pirates, 3-1, at Detroit in the second game of the season and they ever have been a stumbling block to the Bucs at Duquesne Garden. Cleghorn is confident, however, that his club is stronger than ever before, and the local puckmen feel that Jack Sharkey.

FIGHT followers who suspected that a return to the ring by Jack Dempsey in 1929 was all fixed up and agreed upon at last month's conferences between the former champion and Tex Rickard, and that Rickard was merely playing the first card in a ballyhoo campaign when he announced that Jack would make a decision until the two could meet again in Florida in January or February, will find their opinion confirmed in a statement just issued by Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, making known the program he has mapped out for the Boston "loudspeaker."

Buckley says Sharkey will meet K. O. Christner, Knute Hansen's conqueror, in January, Tom Heeney in February, Paulino Uzcudun in March, AND JACK DEMPSEY AT THE YANKEE STADIUM IN NEW YORK IN JUNE. The final part of the statement is made in a matter-of-fact way that can be construed only as meaning that the Dempsey-Sharkey match has actually been closed and clinched instead of being merely tentative.

SO IT seems that if Rickard really completed the match in November and meant to keep it secret until a time that would be more favorable for publicity and steaming-up purposes, as most fans have believed from the start, Mr. Buckley has let the cat out of the bag. And his statement will be generally accepted as true because Rickard himself has admitted that if Dempsey decided to try a comeback Sharkey would be his logical opponent.

All parties to the match appear to be taking a great deal for granted in connection with Sharkey's future. It is doubtful if Dempsey himself has anything left aside from his punch and his courage, but even at that his reappearance in the roped square would be a better drawing card than a match between any two of the present lot of unmentionables in the heavyweight class. Sharkey has much more to prove, however. At his best he was about the worst in-and-outer in the game, and apart from that he has been out for months with a bad leg, an injury that at first threatened to end his fighting days.

DICK RAUCH, coach of the New York Yankee professional football team, says that in the pro game a coach, instead of being in a position to evolve new plays is required to give all his attention to the development of interference for old ones.

"The main trouble with professional football," says Rauch, "is that it's so hard to get the backs to provide the prper interference for one another. In the backfields of these pro teams, as a rule, every man is a star ball carrier, but not all of them can be used to carry the ball in every play, so it is necessary to set individual brilliance aside and develop better interference and team play."

Heinie Groh.

TWO once famous ball players who were traded for each other during their major league careers are to be rival managers in the Eastern League next year. They are George Burns, former star outfielder of the Giants and Reds, and Heinie Groh, who played third base for the Reds and Giants and afterward served as utility man for the Pirates during the latter part of the 1927 season. Burns has been appointed manager of the Springfield (Mass.) club in the league named, and Groh has been made pilot of the Hartford (Conn.) team in the same circuit. The two figured in one of the biggest deals ever put through in the majors. It was engineered after the season of 1921, when the Cincinnati club traded Groh to the New York Nationals for Burns, Catcher Mike Gonzales and $100,000 in cash.

ROY WORTERS, former goalkeeper on the Pittsburgh hockey team, and now with the New York Americans, told Frank Graham that he figures talent, rather than size, makes a man a good net guardian

CLARK? MAPLE? NOPE, WE'LL TAKE HARPY

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

THE miracle has happened. An all-America selection has made its appearance without Howard Harpster, the Carnegie Tech star, as its quarterback.

And not only THAT, but it ranks him on the third eleven!

The squad is the consensus group of the Associated Press, printed elsewhere on this page today. It names a "dark horse," Earl Clark, of Colorado College, as its first team quarter, and Howard Maple, of the Oregon Aggies, at the post on the second eleven.

To tell the truth, the first time we ever heard of Clark was a few days ago, when it was announced that he had been elected captain of the Colorado team for next year, and it's a good bet that the reader of these lines never heard of him until today.

Where has Clark been hiding his light all of these days, that he should suddenly come to the fore as the best quarterback in the land in a consensus vote?

We've heard about Maple before, and he stood out so prominently in the game in which his team routed New York University after the Violets had taken the measure of Carnegie Tech that he figured to be a prominent contender for a high place in the national reckonings; but this bird Clark is a sleeper if there ever was one.

In giving Clark the nod over Harpy and Maple, the Associated Press explains that he is a great ball-carrier and has compiled a good individual scoring record, in addition to being able to do everything else well. Well, perhaps he was a wow out in Colorado, but no one ever has had the temerity to suggest that that section ranks with the East or the Midwest or the Coast region in the matter of tough teams, and his fame appears to have been largely local until just now.

FEW of the critics of the game have sought to deprive Harpster of the top ranking because of the fact that he didn't carry the ball much during the past season. Those who have followed the Tech man's career know that he can carry the ball and that he purposely submerged himself in this department this year for the sake of team play, with the idea of getting the most out of the eleven he was piloting both as a captain and as a quarterback. He carried the ball at a number of critical moments, as his scoring record proves, but generally he remained content to feed it to his other backs or to forward pass it to his ends or backs. In addition to feeding the ball, running with it himself occasionally and passing he did the punting and was one of the best kickers in the East.

Harpster's greatest asset to his team was as a leader and field general, and he ranked head and shoulders over probably any other man in a similar capacity in the game. At times he was actually daring in his attack. For this trait he was criticized by no less a worthy than Knute Rockne, the Notre Dame coach, whose team he completely outthought throughout the battle at South Bend, to score a smashing 27-7 victory. Rockne, in a syndicated article, branded as bad football Harpster's passing in his own territory, and especially once from behind his own goal line, when only the fact that Moorhead, the halfback, failed to hear the signal because of the noise of the fans prevented him from catching the ball and getting away for a substantial gain, if not another touchdown. On the second play of the game, a pass from his own side of the field to Rosenzweig paved the way for a touchdown on the following play.

For some players such tactics might be foolhardy, but Harpster pulled them only when they were safe. His skill at placing the ball was such that he was reasonably certain that the flings would not be intercepted. They either would go to an uncovered receiver or would be incompleted. He specialized in pulling the unexpected, and he got away with it throughout the season, winding up the campaign with a spectacular display of passing that netted two touchdowns in the closing game against N. Y. U.

ALL we have to say in connection with the placing of the local star on the third team of the Associated Press is that if there were two better quarterbacks in the land than Harpster we don't believe it. And, besides, when it comes to picking quarterbacks for their ball-carrying ability, we question the wisdom of such a procedure. Any backfield is the better for a fine sense of balance. Our conception of a well-rounded quartet behind the line of scrimmage is one that combines two good runners at the halfbacks, a good line-smasher at fullback and a cagy field general who can size up the weak spots in the opponent's defense and riddle it with a shifting and diversified at-

Tech Turns Down Offer to Play On Coast

An offer to play a post-season game in Sacramento, Cal., has been turned down by Carnegie Tech, according to an announcement by Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate athletic manager. The offer was received last month and held in abeyance pending the end of the season, with the possibility that the Tartans might get the bid to play in the Tournament of Roses game. When this hope was dispelled, through the defeat by New York University in the closing game of the schedule, it was decided not to play any other post-season contest and the Sacramento management accordingly has been notified to this effect.

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Dave Shade, of California, won a 10-round decision from Arthur Flynn, Lawrence middleweight, at the Boston Garden last night.

BIG GRID FRAYS ARRANGED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California informed the Pacific Coast Conference of Coaches in session here yesterday, that the Southern California football team had agreed to play Notre Dame November 16, next year, at Chicago. Efforts were made to bring the Eastern team to California again, Jones said, but Notre Dame found that the trip would interfere with its schedule.

Al Masters, graduate manager of Stanford University football team, announced that the Cardinals would play Army in San Francisco, December 28 of next year. The game with the United States Military Academy will be a return affair.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Thompson Prethro, manager of the Memphis Baseball Club, wired from Toronto last night that he had arranged the purchase of Herbert May, a pitcher, from the San Francisco Pacific Coast League club.

COLORADO QUARTER FIRST

By ALAN J. GOULD.
Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—The shooting stars of the gridiron firmament, collected in the All-America galaxy, once more show a distinct tendency to follow a South by Westward course.

It was not so long ago that this annual habit was just a matter of inspecting the Eastern talent, taking a glance or two at the Big Ten ranks, selecting 11 stars by this somewhat near-sighted method and labelling them "The All-America."

It was a simple task, at least, compared with the job of surveying a nation filled with such gridiron talent as it is today, but the swing of football's pendulum has brought well-earned recognition to players over a wider range of action than ever before. It has been conclusively proved that no one section any longer has a monopoly on star teams or star performers. Whatever shouting there may have been from the Eastern hilltops toward the close of November was abruptly stilled after events that transpired at the Yankee Stadium under the direction of Oregon State and Stanford.

Nowhere has the nationalizing process in college football been so strikingly emphasized as in the All-America consensus compiled by the Associated Press in the four years since the death of Walter Camp, father of the all-star idea.

SECTIONS DIVIDE HONORS

This consensus for 1928 represents the opinions of more than 250 experienced observers, the compilation of country-wide opinion. It has been gathered first-hand by the Associated Press staff of sports experts, men who have "covered" all the big games in every section and been so situated as to best collect the verdicts of sports editors, coaches, scouts and officials.

Its sifting, analysis and final compilation shows the Far West, including the Rocky Mountain area, on a par with the East for the first time in All-America history. The supremacy in individual honors always enjoyed by the East heretofore, though by dwindling margins, is now wiped out altogether.

On the first team, four places go to the East, four to the Far West, with the Rocky Mountain area included for the first time, two to the South and only one to the Middle West, experiencing an "off year" in All-America ranking. On the All-America squad of 33 players as a whole, including second and third elevens, the East again is tied by the Far West with nine places each, while the Middle West has seven, the South six and the Southwest two.

CONTEST IS KEEN

Twenty-eight institutions are represented. Only four have more than one man on the squad of 33. Only one, Georgia Tech, as powerful an array as Dixie has produced, can claim the distinction of putting three players on the mythical outfit. Stanford, Army and Florida have two each in the list.

The battle for places on this year's All-America has been just as keen as the struggle for team honors. The task of selection has been just as difficult as that of picking a championship team in a season that has had its full share of stunning reversals, its rise and fall of team as well as individual fortunes.

Star tackles like Capt. Sprague of the Army and Capt. Hibbs of Southern California, great backs like Al Marsters of Dartmouth, and Redman Hume, of Southern Methodist, had the bad luck to suffer injuries or mishaps that impaired their effectiveness and consequently lowered their All-American rankings.

CLARK LEADING QUARTER

Nowhere was the race any swifter than that for the backfield positions. It is noteworthy, therefore, that Earl Harry (Dutch) Clark, ball-carrying terror and halfback extraordinary of Colorado College, gets into the backfield combination with Red Cagle of the Army, Chuck Carroll of Washington, and Ken Strong, of New York University, to give the Rocky Mountain its first chance shot at All-American fame and glory.

Clark, declared to be the greatest player the Rocky Mountain area has ever produced, gains the quarterback position only after sharp contest from a formidable group of rival candidates, including Howard Harpster, pride of the eastern general staff; Clyde Crabtree, versatile

Harpster Plays Gallant at Dance

News of an act of gallantry by Howard Harpster, captain and all-America quarterback of the Carnegie Tech football team this season, at the sports dinner of South Hills High School in the school auditorium, Thursday evening, leaked out today. Harpster, along with John Karcis, the Tech fullback, and other noted athletes, attended the affair and participated in the speaking and later in the dance.

Harpster naturally was the center of attraction for most of the girls. After he had danced with a number of them, he noticed a crippled girl sitting alone and went up to her and said he would be pleased to have the next dance with her.

The girl explained that her condition prevented her from dancing, whereupon Harpster pulled out a silk handkerchief and autographed it and presented it to her as a memento of the occasion.

The lucky girl is Margaret Sweeney, of Mt. Washington.

MORRYS OPEN HOME SEASON WEDNESDAY

By JULIUS LEVIN.

The Morry Five of Braddock, one of the strongest contenders for the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League championship, is making preparations to handle a large turnout of fans at the Braddock Knights of Columbus Hall next Wednesday night, when it opens its home season against Immaculate Heart.

The Morry passers are scheduled to open their league season next Monday night, opposing the Jeannette Felders at Jeannette. The Felders have ranked with the leading teams in the tristate district for a number of years and are likely to prove one of the outstanding quintets in the loop this winter.

The Braddock passers have been completely outfitted with new uniforms this season and they make an attractive appearance on the floor. Braddock fans are displaying keen interest in the first P. & O. League game at the Knights of Columbus hall, one of the best basketball floors in the district, and they are likely to turn out in large numbers this winter.

Manager Max Berkowitz plans to take his entire squad to Jeannette Monday, and if advance reports about the Jeannette team mean anything he will need them. The Felders have been practicing for several weeks and will take the floor Monday night in the best of physical condition. Quite a number of Braddock fans will accompany the squad to Jeannette.

Among the non-league games scheduled for the Morry club this year is that with the crack Ritz club at Columbus Temple on Friday, December 14. The Ritz Club is the best Negro club operating in this section of the country and it would not be surprising to see them take the measure of the leading first-class teams in this section this winter.

DRIBBLES

The Duquesne Light passers will have the Morry five as their attraction at the South Side Market House tonight. The Carson club meets the Five Horsemen in the preliminary at 8 o'clock. Leo Mackey will handle the main attraction.

Coach Dalton Williams will take his East Liberty Y squad to Heinz House for a tussle with Coach Francis' North Siders. The reserve team of the two institutions will meet in the preliminary game. Both games are regularly scheduled Greater Pittsburgh Institutional League contests.

With a National amateur and West Penn Cup battle scheduled for this afternoon, local soccerites should have plenty to enthuse over in the matter of an afternoon's entertainment. Out at Lawrence Park, the Rovers will meet Westinghouse in the replay of the West Penn cup. The teams met two weeks ago at Chambers field and played to a 4-4 tie. This time Lawrenceville fans feel that the Dunlop team can stop Westinghouse, but that is going to be difficult, seeing how the Valley club is getting goals.

The National amateur tourney will see a game at Homewood playgrounds when Douglas entertains the Corinthians. Seeing that this is going to be an inter-league affair, there is reason to feel a real battle will result from the meeting. Douglas has a good club and will give the American Leaguers a real fight. The Switch and Signal eleven will travel to Twin Boros to meet the Twin Boro club in the District League. The Boro outfit just broke into the win column, and will try to repeat today.

HARPY BEST

tack. The quarterback should be able to interfere on offense and to play a sound defensive game, and these things Harpster could do with the best of them. He was the surest tackler in the open on the Plaid team, for all of his slight build, and he could defend against the opposition's passes and catch and run back kicks like nobody's business.

Other folks may like their Clarks and Maples at quarterback, but this fellow Harpster could fill the bill for us on ANY all-American team ever selected. And he's to be found on 90, if not 95, per cent of the teams selected this year. With Cagle, of the Army, and Strong, of N. Y. U., at the halfbacks and Scull, of Penn, at fullback, the makeup of the backfield of almost all of the teams, he rounds out a combination that just about hits the bullseye of perfection.

David Moritz of the Pitt varsity basketball team is without a uniform today. Moritz had full cage equipment until 9 o'clock last night, when he left it in a car parked in Duquesne way, between Sixth and Seventh streets. He suggested that if the man who "lifted" it does not aspire to a basketball career that he arrange for its return by calling Schenley 9102.

MINORS ADJOURN CONVENTION AT TORONTO

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 8.—(AP.)—The forces of minor league baseball yesterday closed their annual convention with the whole question of the draft, or selection of baseball players by the majors from the minors, just as big a problem as ever.

The twenty-eighth convention "passed the buck" to a group of committeemen ordered to meet at West Baden, Ind., at noon, January 10, to see what a small body can do about a task the larger organization did not care to face.

At the concluding session of the convention it was agreed that three representatives of the three AA leagues, all participating only in the modified draft, one representative of each of the Class A minor leagues, three of them draft leagues and one outside, and five baseball men to speak for the 23 Class B, C and D leagues, who are almost solidly behind a movement for the unrestricted selection of worthy baseball players by the majors from the minors, should gather at the Indiana water place in an effort to reach an agreement with the majors.

AWAIT MAJORS

In the meantime, however, the National League will meet at New York Tuesday with the American League clubs assembled at Chicago the same day and the majors may take some action on their own account with the draft problem. Major league action may wait for the joint meeting at Chicago Thursday.

The minors left Toronto in high hopes that the two major leagues will send representatives to the West Baden conference or authorize the advisory council, Commissioner Landis and Presidents Heydler and Barnard, to speak for them.

With an impressive array of recommendations for revision of the draft laws, prepared by the major-minor advisory council, before the convention, the baseball men assembled at Toronto declined to wrestle with the problem and on the contrary told committees from the 27 minor leagues to send committeemen to West Baden to search for a common ground on which the majors could be met.

NEW N. L. UMP

The contract of George Magerkuth, Pacific Coast League umpire, has been sold to the National League, it was announced after a conference between President John A. Heydler, of the National League, and President Harry Williams, of the Coast circuit.

Magerkuth is a big fellow, 6 feet 2 inches tall. He has been a good umpire on the coast. His name, however, is too long for the National League and when he comes to the majors he will be known as "Mager."

The Pueblo club has sold Pitcher William Hargrove to Montreal. Hargrove led the Western League last season in games won and lost. One of the day's trades involved the St. Paul and Columbus clubs of the American Association, Deebie Foss, third baseman, going from St. Paul to Columbus for Emery Zumbre, right-hand pitcher. Kansas City also became active, selling Jimmy Moore, left fielder, to Dallas, and trading Buster Chatham, shortstop, to Pueblo for Infielder Knothe.

Harpster on Third Team

star of the Florida Alligators; Freddie Hovde, of Minnesota; Howard Maple, of Oregon State and Don Williams, of Southern California.

All posses unusual qualities, but none appears to combine all the essentials of football greatness so much as Clark. Clark, alternating this year at quarterback and fullback, perhaps lacks the polished generalship and passing artistry of Harpster, but the "Flying Dutchman" is considerably more useful at bucking a line, skirting the ends or backing up a line. Unusually rugged, Clark in two years of keen competition has not failed to score at least one touchdown in every game. His average gain this year was slightly more than 10 yards for every time he handled the ball.

Charles (Chuck) Carroll of Washington and Christian Keener (Red) Cagle of the Army come as close to being unanimous as any All-America this season. Both have performed with consistent brilliance as brightly in defeat as in victory. Yet there are widely different types. Carroll is more on Clark's style, big and powerful, a stonewall on defense, kicker, passer and a shifty runner. Cagle can also kick and he passes with unusual skill, but the Army captain-elect for 1929 is noted chiefly for his elusiveness in a broken field, an art at which he is proclaimed the greatest since Red Grange was running wild. Cagle's speed and football intuition are his biggest assets.

SCULL, MIZELL STAR

There are other great halfbacks this year, few so thoroughly equipped as Paul Scull, of Pennsylvania, an extraordinary dropkicker, and Warner Mizell, Georgia Tech's triple threat. Scull is also a wonder on defense, but neither he nor Mizell possesses the running ability of Cagle or the fiery aggressiveness of Carroll.

The Middle West, which produced three of the four All-America backs two years ago, had its share of stars, but none quite up to the standard set by Grange, Friedman and Joesting in recent seasons. Glassgow, of Iowa; Bennett, of Indiana; Welch, of Purdue; Lusby, of Wisconsin; Eby, of Ohio State; Sloan, of Nebraska; Brazil and Connell, of Detroit, Chevigny and Niemiec, of Notre Dame, all were in the limelight, but not sufficiently to crowd such super-stars as Cagle, Carroll, Mizell and Scull.

The South also was rich in backfield material with Mizell and Crabtree perhaps the best all-round performers, but not many steps ahead of Peake, of Virginia Poly; Banker, of Tulane; Bucky Moore, of Loyola; Armistead, of Vanderbilt; McEver, of Tennessee, and Thomason, of Georgia Tech.

Although he played at halfback on New York University's team, Kenneth (Mike) Strong is of the bulk, power and all-round ability ideally suited to fill the fullback position allotted him. The country's leading touchdown maker does everything and does it with convincing skill. He was no more slashingly effective in his big day against Carnegie than was Capt. Bill Hoffman, of Stanford, against the Army, but over the season's stretch Strong was as consistently good as any player in the country. Howell, of Nebraska; McLain, of Iowa; Nagurski, of Minnesota, and Miles, of Princeton, had their big days, while Snyder, Maryland ace, had several as he numbered Yale among his victims.

POMMERENING AT TACKLE

Great ends were difficult to find this year. The first choices for flankmen, Ike Franklin, of St. Mary's and Dale Van Sickel, of Florida's fine team, rank high, but do not dominate the field. The biggest man on the team outside of Frank Speer, Georgia Tech tackle, Frankain is nevertheless fast and rated by Pacific coast critics as the best all-round end since the days of Brick Muller at California. Van Sickel is a star at the passing game in addition to being a good blocker and tackler. Phillips, of California; Fesler, of Ohio State; Brown, of Missouri; Messinger, of West Point, and Donchess, of Pittsburgh, were in the front rank all year.

The selections in an outstanding group of fine tackles are Otto Pommerening, credited with almost single-handed lifting Michigan out of its rut, and Frank Speer, 205-pound bulwark in Georgia Tech's great line. Pommerening played throughout the entire season without once yielding to a substitute, an "iron man" stunt that in itself gives him unique honor. In Michigan's march to the touchdown that meant a final victory over Iowa, eight of the nine plays netting around 60 yards were driven through Pommerening's position.

It took such great work as that to keep off the first team tackles like Mike Getto, one of the outstanding players in Pittsburgh's mighty forward wall, and Gordy Brown, rangy star of the University of Texas eleven. Butch Nowack, Illinois captain, Al Lassman of N. Y. U., Mel Dressel of Washington State, Wakeman of Cornell, Mooney of Georgetown and Bancroft of California were other fine tackles. Injuries handicapped two of the best, Sprague of the Army and Hibbs of Southern California, while Raskowski of Ohio State failed to reach his 1927 form. Sprague was a two-time all-America, the only survivor from last year's team, but failed to repeat.

POST UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Much as did Pommerening of Michigan, Captain Burke of the Navy successfully led his team out of early disaster and displayed the prowess that gained him a post as all-America guard. The midshipman's running mate is Seraphim, otherwise known as "Dynamite," Post of Stanford's powerful line. There is little to choose between Post and his teammates, Robeskey and Driscoll, to judge from what they did to the Army at the Yankee Stadium, but Post is the unanimous choice of Pacific Coast critics who have seen him perform brilliantly all season.

Post and Burke are both rangy and powerful, while the former can carry the ball if necessary on one of Pop Warner's trick plays. Not far behind them in all-round ability are Gibson, of Minnesota; McMullen and his Nebraska running mate, Holm; Dumont, of Colgate; Choc Sanders, full-blooded Indian, of Southern Methodist; Drennon, of Georgia Tech, and Dimeolo, of Pittsburgh.

HOWE CENTER STAR

Charles (Chuck) Howe is Princeton's second All-America center in four years. The aggressive Tiger leader outplayed every rival he met and they included the giant Barratt, of Ohio State, as well as the rangy Kneen, of Cornell, and two or three Yale opponents. Howe's fighting spirit gives him an edge, even if slight, over such capable passers and towers of strength as Capt. Peter Pund, of Georgia Tech; Nate Barrager, of Southern California; Heinecke, of Stanford; Pressley, of Clemson, and Kneen, of Cornell.

SOUTH'S BEST IN BATTLES TODAY

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—Georgia and Georgia Tech will renew today at Grant Field here the football vendetta that had its inception over three decades ago. The Golden Tornado of Tech, undefeated this year, is considered to be a foregone conclusion, a certainty, and a cinch.

Yet, the Bulldog, three times defeated in the conference, must be given the outside chance to win that is often the reward of an inspired eleven that refuses bluntly on certain occasions to be defeated.

Atlanta is jammed and boiling with a typical Tech-Georgia mob. The attendance at the game is expected to be around 33,000.

FLORIDA MEETS TENNESSEE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(INS.)—The undefeated elevens of Tennessee and Florida bring their 1928 activity to a close here today in perhaps Dixie's choicest gridiron morsel of the year.

If Florida vanquishes its conference opponent, it will rank with Georgia Tech for the football supremacy of the Southland. If Tennessee wins, then Georgia Tech will stand alone, for Tennessee has a tie against its otherwise perfect record.

HOCKEY

they are overdue to "take" their Michigan foemen. Holway and Miller, improving with every game, have made the Bucs' defense a veritable rock, and Mickey MacKay has put new punch into the Pirate attack. If the locals are fortunate enough to draw a couple referees who can see a Pittsburgh goal as other than an offside effort, they may come up with a victory.

The Cougars, like the Rangers and the Canadiens, are a "speed" club. The capacity crowd which turned out to greet the Rangers Thursday would indicate that local fans prefer speedy action and it is probable that the Garden will be jammed to the doors again tonight. The probable lineup:

| Pirates. | | Cougars. |
|---|---|---|
| Miller | G. | Dolson |
| McCaffery | R. D. | Traub |
| Holway | L. D. | Noble |
| Milks | C. | Lewis |
| Darragh | R. W. | Aurie |
| Cotton | L. W. | Conners |

Pirate spares—MacKay, Drury, White, Smith and McKinnon. Cougar spares: May, Cooper, Herberts and Frazer. Time of game—8:30.

DUNDEE RULED OUT

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—"Not a suitable opponent" was the fistic epitaph today plastered on Johnny Dundee, former featherweight champion, by the New York Athletic Commission in ruling the veteran of more than 400 ring battles out of his match with Al Singer, hard-hitting youngster. Tony Canzoneri, another former featherweight champion, has been signed to replace the bounding Scotch-wop against Singer at Madison Square Garden next Friday.

SWIM MEET TONIGHT

An inter-city dual swimming meet between the teams of the Cleveland Athletic Club and the Pittsburgh Athletic Association will be held at the P. A. A. pool at 8:30 this evening. The 200-yard relay heads a fine program o fseven events.

BIG 10 EXCEPTS ARMY, NAVY IN RULE

CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(AP.)—Big Ten faculty advisers last night agreed to enforce the Conference's three-year player rule except in the cases of the Army and the Navy.

The decision, which enables the Army to carry out its game with the University of Illinois next year, was made at a long session at which two representatives of the Army were present. The rule provides that no player shall compete in college athletics, in the Big Ten or elsewhere, more than three years.

The threatened argument over the cases of Mayes McLain, Iowa fullback, and Allan Holman, Ohio State quarterback, failed to materilize. Protests have been made against the two because they have played football at other colleges.

Northwestern was awarded the outdoor track championship and the dates were fixed for May 24, and 25, while Iowa was given the indoor meet to be held March 8 and 9. Other athletic events, in and out of the conference, were announced as follows:

Drake relays, April 26-27; Kansas relays, April 20; Penn relays, April 26-27; Ohio State relays May 4; Illinois indoor, March 16; Texas relays, March 29-30; Big Ten tennis championship, at Ohio State, May 23-24; championship wrestling, at Purdue, March 15-16; championship gymnastic and fencing at Illinois, March 8-9; championship cross-country, at Ohio State, November 23; championship golf at Minnesota, May 28-29 and the swimming championship at Chicago, March 15-16.

Stanford Eleven Welcomed Home

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 8.—(AP.) Stanford's Cardinals returned yesterday to receive a welcome as riotous as any conquering football team or any individual was ever accorded in this city. A special ferry conveyed the gridiron warriors, who defeated the Army in New York, across the bay.

As the ferry docked, Mayor James Rolph, Jr., stepped aboard, waved a greeting to the entire team and led them off with his arm about Biff Hoffman, captain and fullback. The municipal and Shrine bands led a long parade up Market street, while thousands of persons cheered.

Two Big School Tilts in East Today

Two big scholastic football games are scheduled for this afternoon in the eastern part of the state.

Bellefonte Academy meets Perkiomen Seminary at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, in a post-season battle advertised as being for the prep school championship of the state, while, at Harrisburg, the Jersey Shore eleven of Altoona will meet William Penn High School of Harrisburg for the championship of the Central Pennsylvania interscholastic conference.

Heydler Denies Klem Has Resigned Job

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(INS.)—President John A. Heydler of the National League has denied any knowledge of reports from St. Louis that W. J. Klem, veteran umpire, has resigned.

"Klem will be a National League umpire again next year so far as I know," Heydler said. "I have had no notification of his resignation and I do not believe he contemplates quitting the sport he has followed for so many years."

TO AWARD CUP TODAY

The Syracuse Cup award, emblematic of the Western Pennsylvania scholastic football championship, will be made at a meeting of the W. P. I. A. L. officials at Fifth Avenue High School today.

WEST VIEW PLAYS 'CHESNEYTOWN TODAY

By TOM BIRKS.

WITH WEST VIEW and McChesneytown all ready for the referee's opening whistle, it is expected that all roads will lead to the Latrobe High School field this afternoon where the final battle of the independent gridiron season will be flashed and upon which will hinge the championship of Western Pennsylvania.

From sentiment around the district, one can expect one of the greatest crowds that ever watched two sandlot teams swing into action. Manager Muzzio took a lot of persuading to take his cracks to the Latrobe enclosure, but Manager Kennedy made such a real offer for West View to show up the main line that Muzzio could not afford to turn it down.

And fans are asking the question: Who will win? Well, it is a toss up. Any two teams that can go through a tough schedule without being defeated must be good, so that eliminates any one-sided part in the battle. But, as in other games, some unknown hero will probably emerge from the battle and look good enough to get a place on the all-star teams.

Two trains will leave Union Depot with West View supporters aboard, one at 11:45 and one at 12:20 today. Both will get to Latrobe in plenty of time for the game. Manager Muzzio announces that the team will take the early train, and will be met at the depot by officials of the McChesneytown team.

NO LINEUP CHANGES

Both clubs announce the usual lineup. Sweeney will be missing, the star quarterback still being on crutches. Harp Vaughan, however, is expected to call the signals and to start today's game. Cy McGinnis will run the Macks, with Bill Johnson starting at full, Watkins and Shennefelt playing halfback. West View will probably have Klinzing and Caye playing halfback, with Mose Kelsh playing fullback when the game starts.

The officials agreed upon by the clubs are Freizel, Cavanaugh and Gannon. The game will start promptly at 2:30 o'clock. McChesneytown held a pep meeting last evening and the whole town of Latrobe seems to be wildly excited and worked up over the battle.

This will be the first time a championship independent gridiron battle has been staged in the Main Line town, and with the William Penn and Lincoln highways leading direct to the grounds, it is expected quite an out-of-town gathering will be on hand.

West View will flash a heavier line than the Macks. Rhodes, Grayber, Muzzio, Dummer and Klinzing will outweigh Painter, Sprock, Bucci, Sabota and Seleckman, but the McChesneytown followers are praying for a fast field. It is expected the lineups will be as follows:

| McChesneytown. | | West View. |
|---|---|---|
| Brown | L. E. | Hammer |
| Painter | L. T. | Kelly |
| Sprock | L. G. | Dummer |
| Bucci | C. | Muzzio |
| Sabota | R. G. | Grayber |
| Seleckman | R. T. | Rhodes |
| Crowe | R. E. | Regan |
| McGinnis | Q. | Vaughan |
| Adams | L. H. | Klinsing |
| Watkins | R. H. | Caye |
| Johnson | F. | Kelsh |

Adelman Popular With Tube City Fans

Davey Adelman, of Philadelphia, who meets Howard Mayberry, of Donora, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night, has fought in the Tube City ring three times, scoring a hit with the fans on each occasion. His first two battles there were with Willie Davies and recently he handed Johnny Ryan, of Erie, a bad beating there. Last Thursday night he lost on a foul to Cy Elmer in a bout at Elam, Pa., and he has been keeping busy at regular intervals. He is back under the management of Sammy Hahn, of Philadelphia.

Mayberry in two starts in McKeesport bested Jackie Rodgers and Eddie O'Dowd.

Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight champion, and Chick Suggs box in New York tonight. Loey LaGrey, formerly of Johnstown, meets Nick Palmer in the main bout of another show in the big town.

UNGLO SHADES GUIDO

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 8.—Joe Guido, Cleveland, defeated Benny Burns, Akron, in 10 rounds here last night. Jack Unglo, Etna, Pa., and Young Guido, Sharon, put up a great semi-final. Unglo had a shade through harder punching.

FORMER LOCAL GOLFER WINS

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 8.—Mrs. Harry Maxwell, of Springlake, N. J., formerly of Oakmont and daughter of Tom Morrison, of Pittsburgh, won the eighth annual Carolina tournament for women yesterday by defeating the medalist, Miss Helen Waring, of Yonkers, N. Y., in the final of the championship flight by 3 and 2.

In the championship consolation, Mrs. G. A. Magoon, of Pittsburgh, lost to Mrs. H. H. Rackham, of Detroit, by 4 and 3. In the second division consolation, Mrs. W. C. Fownes, Jr., won her match by defeating Mrs. C. S. Waterhouse, of Chicago, 5 and 4.

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

in the ice game. Worters himself stands only 5 feet 2 inches in height and weighs but 125 pounds, yet he is rated one of the best goalies ever developed.

"The greatest goaltender that ever lived was Vezina, who was 6 feet 2 inches tall," said Roy, "and next to him I rank John Ross Roach, who stands only about 5 feet 4 inches. If a big man can make saves simply by moving his stick an inch or two or by putting out his hand, as Vezina did, a small man who is agile can do the same by moving quickly and with just as little expenditure of energy, as Roach always has done."

BUT in spite of what he says about talent, Worters declares that luck is the dominating factor in successful guarding of the goal. "I figure it's about 60 per cent luck and 40 per cent ability," he said. "Half of the luck percentage lies in the kind of shot that is made and the other half in stopping it. Aside from that, the main idea in goalkeeping, as I see it, is to keep your eye on the puck. Into this goes the business of knowing your defense men and moving with them so that they will not obstruct your view of the puck.

"My games are hockey, baseball and golf. Of the three, I like baseball best and play golf worst. If I had it to do over again, I'd choose some different means of making a living. Hockey is a great game to play when it is played for fun, but anyone that plays it for a living is crazy."

Roy Worters.

THE drawing powers of Notre Dame football teams never were demonstrated more convincingly than on the occasion of last Saturday's game with the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. The event drew the enormous gate of $331,000, the largest sum ever taken in at a gridiron contest in Southern California. After expenses had been paid, including rental of the Los Angeles Stadium, cost of officials, ushers and others and various additional overhead items, the managements of the two teams divided the net proceeds which gave each approximately $140,000. Quite a profitable trip for the Fighting Irish, the final jaunt of their season's travels, in which they covered all told about 10,200 miles.

BUCKY HARRIS, manager of the Detroit Tigers, predicts that another instance of two brothers making good as pitchers in the big show will be added to the baseball records next year. He is confident that he has a find in 21-year-old Fred Pipgras, brother of George Pipgras, the Yankee hurler. Fred pitched for Sioux City last season and was signed on the recommendation of Walter McCredie, Tiger scout.

Harris also is going in for more life on the coaching lines in taking charge of the Detroit club and to that end has picked up Benny Meyers, former Brooklyn player and later coach for the Phillies, who, during his term of service with the Quakers while Arthur Fletcher was manager of that team, convinced fans in Pittsburgh and elsewhere that he was just about the noisiest man in baseball.

THE financial plight of Steve Donoghue, former great English jockey, who has just gone through bankruptcy proceedings, prompted W. C. Vreeland, Brooklyn turf authority, to question America's foremost three riders of the last 35 years as to what chance for success Donoghue would have had on the tracks in this country.

The former American stars approached on the subject were Edward (Snapper) Garrison, Henry (Sphinx) Griffin and Earl Sande. All three expressed the opinion that Donoghue would have been a complete bust as a jockey in the United States unless he had changed his style and abandoned the system of driving with long reins.

Steve Donoghue.

"IT IS safe to say that if Donoghue had remained here one month longer after he came to ride Papyrus in 1923 he would have been such a failure as a jockey that he would not have obtained a mount unless he paid for the privilege of riding," said Garrison, who was particularly severe in his criticism of Donoghue's style. "No jockey who rides with long reins can control a horse to the best advantage. A short hold gives you a sort of leverage by which you can assist a horse to regain his stride if he stumbles. With a long rein a horse could get his head down so low that it would be impossible to get it up again. With a short rein and a knot, when you stop hand-riding and go to the whip you don't have to cross the reins to take hold. The knot is there, at the right place. Your hand slips mechanically to where the reins are joined. Donoghue's style, more of a stand than a crouch, was unsuitable for getting quick results. It was against quick control, and everything in a race must be done in a flash."

Painting His Avocation, Pastor of "Little Red Church" Illustrates Sermons With Sketches!

THE REV. C. W. BAKER IN PULPIT

The Rev. Charles W. Baker, Jr., pastor, St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Springdale, is an adept in preaching and painting. In his pulpit frequently he illustrates sermons with sketches.

PAINTS WITH BRUSH AND WORDS

The Rev. Mr. Baker often picks up brush and palette to give form to paint the glories of nature. He is shown in his studio applying the finishing touches to a landscape.

ILLUSTRATING BIBLE LESSONS

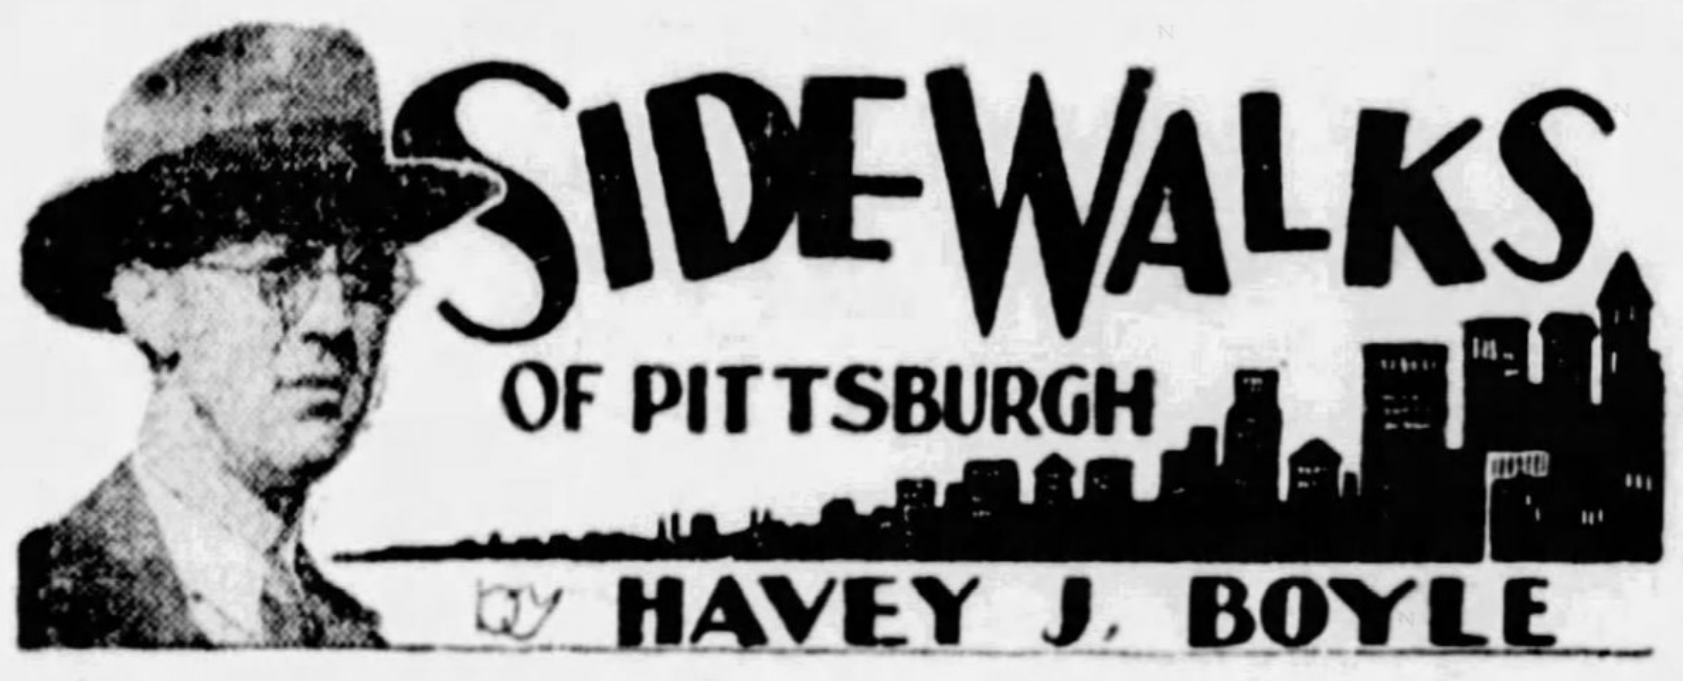
Every Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Baker's sketches delight Sabbath School pupils. He is shown here explaining to youngsters a Bible topic by means of a crayon sketch.



BILL DUFFY is one of the interesting men around town. Bill's position as chief of the narcotic agents for the government keeps him busy tracking down ladies and gents engaged in breaking the law by selling cocaine, morphine, heroin and opium. "Junk," is what Bill calls the stuff, using the term applied by the dealers.

Bill Duffy knows as many underworld characters as any man in the city. He owns a good background for his present work. He was a newsboy in 'Frisco when Chinatown in 'Frisco was Chinatown and at an early age he saw the drug trade in a flourishing state. He's been in Pittsburgh 10 years now, having served the government in Philadelphia and other points.

HE HEADS an efficient force of men who are always on the trail of the drug vendor. Some of their exploits would make good movie thrillers, but Bill shakes his head "No" in answer to most queries. Publicity is not exactly in the line of the government men who from time to time let their beards grow, wear tough-looking caps, and down-at-the heel shoes, in order to get in with the men and women who sell dope.

MY OWN FAMILY WON'T KNOW ME !

Among men coming in contact with various kinds of addicts the unfortunate fellow who uses heroin is classed as among the worst. Heroin is dynamite. Opium may cause a man to purchase the Courthouse, give it away to a friend, and then buy the Frick Building, but heroin gives the users too much aggressiveness. A lot of the boys, whose mugs are in the rogue's gallery, resort or have resorted to heroin to give them nerve enough to hold up a bank cashier or to slug the payroll clerk.

FRIEND—TH' COURT HOUSE IS YOURS !

WORKING in co-operation with Duffy and his men are Frank Ferris and "Doc" Forner, city detectives, assigned to dope cases. Ferris has been in such work for 10 years. Ferris is an authority on Chinatown. He has seen many a man "laying on the hip," an expression which means the man is smoking opium. To hold the pipe over the lamp the smoker must recline on his hip.

The detectives tell you that users of dope make the same complaint as some users of illicit liquor. The dope is "cut" with sugar and starch just as liquor is "cut" with alcohol or with water or with both.

THE usual police attitude against offenders is not to be found among Duffy or Ferris or Forner. For the addict there is a sympathy even from the police. They have, however, no high regard for the men and women engaged in the selling of the stuff to the men and women who must buy it.

Congressman Stephen G. Porter, of the North Side, chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee in the Lower House, has interested himself in the stamping out of the drug evil, and for the attempted cure of addicts.

PASTOR'S ART HELPS WORK OF CHURCH

Springdale prides itself on having a preacher who is as adept in painting landscapes in oil, and doing pastels and black and white crayon cartoons as in preaching the gospel. The preacher-artist is the Rev. Charles W. Baker, Jr., pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, known familiarly as Springdale's "little red church around the corner."

Using brush, palete and crayon to give form to the glories of nature on a canvas is not an idle pastime of the Rev. Baker, but he takes greater delight in using his talent to "the glory o' God," as he expresses it. In this he is not a mere diletante, but a master, whose work has become widely known throughout this state.

Every Sunday the Rev. Mr. Baker popularizes his Sabbath School talks with illustrations which he draws deftly with chalk before classes of admiring pupils. There is hardly a Bible character his crayon has not pictured before them. The children are not his only admirers. Adult members of his congregation are frequently given an opportunity to get a better understanding of Bible truths from the creations of his brush and crayon. He often preaches sermons, some points of which he drives home with his own drawn charts and sketches.

GIVES CHALK TALKS

He is constantly being called upon to give chalk talks before men's Bible organizations and church assemblies. His talks are not always on religious topics. He is equally popular in humorous talks, during which he delights his audiences with quickly sketched humorous cartoons. He has for many years conducted classes in Bible and Sunday School chalk talks at the Susquehanna, Hartwick and Gettysburg Lutheran summer assemblies. He is a frequent lecturer at teachers' training schools on pedagogical art.

Both his church and parsonage are replete with creations of his brush, palette and crayons. At the altar in the church is his masterpiece, a huge mural of Christ in the Garden of Gethsemane. It is an excellent copy of the great Michelangelo mural in the Vatican. On the walls of the parsonage are hung several of his works, landscapes and pastels. Painting all sorts of signs to advertise various church activities is another of the Rev. Baker's hobbies. He has painted two huge posters, showing his church and bearing a welcome. They have been erected near the highway at either end of the town.

Despite the fact that Rev. Baker devotes much time to his art work, his church work has not suffered, but prospered directly therefrom. He is making his sermons and Bible talks so intensely interesting with his illustrations that people are eager to attend his services. When he came to Springdale in 1922, the congregation of St. Mark's numbered only 70 members. The church then was housed in a small frame building. Today its membership is above 450 and the congregation worships in a debt-free brick church.

HAD SIGN SHOP

The Rev. Baker developed his artistic talent in early youth. In public school he outdistanced his classmates in art class. He frequently taught the class in the absence of the teacher. His talent provided the means for his college and theological seminary training. At Gettysburg, Pa., where he attended college and the Lutheran Seminary, he conducted a regular advertising sign shop, from the profits of which he was enabled to defray all expenses incidental to his education.

Asked why he had chosen the ministry as a career in preference to the career of an artist, he replied:

"It was a toss-up between the two. I was urged from all sides to take up art, but I felt a call to preach the gospel. I never regretted my decision to heed that call, since I have had countless opportunities to use my 'second love'—art—in the service of God and His church."

POLICEMAN'S WIDOW, TOTS DESTITUTE, AID SOUGHT

Who will aid the North Side police provide a bit of Christmas cheer for the sick widow and children of their former comrade, Patrolman John Novack?

Going to the home of Mrs. Novack yesterday, rear of 1816 Brabec street, Patrolmen Harry Williams and Gottlieb Schindel reported that they found the widow and her five children, ranging from eight months to seven years, all sick in bed and in destitute circumstances.

Since the death of her husband several months ago, Mrs. Novack, the police said, has had a scanty income. She is unable to work because of family cares and little food has come into the home. Bills contracted since the death of Novack will more than wipe out the $1,200 which the widow will receive from the police pension fund, the two officers said.

Patrolmen at North Side station at once arranged to start a fund for the widow and her family to which police of the other 13 stations in the city will be asked to contribute.

Says Wife Called Him Cheap, Asks Divorce

After his wife had been out all night and until 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning at a card, drinking and petting party, John Wells, Jane street, South Side, hunted up his spouse, Alice Wells, to ask her what caused her absence from home. Wells testified in his divorce action before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen that his wife took off her wedding ring, told him he was a cheap skate and that she did not like married life. Witnesses had testified that Mrs. Wells had threatened to brain her husband on one occasion and had thrown a can of baking powder at him. It was also declared that she had neglected her baby and her home. The couple were married only a few years.

SHERADEN ELKS PLAN PARTY

Plans have been completed for the annual benefit card party given under the auspices of the Ladies' Social Auxiliary, Sheraden Lodge 949 B. P. O. Elks, in the Elks' Temple, Hillsboro street, on the evening of December 14.

Bridge, "500," euchre and Old Maid as well as bingo, will be on deck for the evening with play beginning at 8:30 sharp.

He was taken to a doctor's office at Renova where one toe of the foot was amputated.

FESTIVE LANE IN BELLEVUE INDORSED

Favorable responses are being received by private residents and business houses to the plan of the Bellevue Board of Trade to decorate Lincoln avenue for the Christmas holiday season.

Suggestions for making the principal highway through the borough a festive lane to spread the spirit of Christmas are contained in a letter by John W. Vickerman, president of the Board of Trade and Benjamin Moore, secretary, residents along Lincoln avenue. The letter in part follows:

"It is suggested that each private home have an illuminated Christmas tree, five or six feet in height, on the porch or lawn. Some may prefer to festoon laurel on the porch with colored lights; others may use wreaths. Many on the avenue have already promised to accry out this idea.

"Bellevue is known as a beautiful borough. It will be more so with this display of decorations. Thousands of motor cars use Lincoln avenue as a part of the Lincoln highway and Bellevue will be pleasantly remembered. It is also suggested that the decorations be lighted from Saturday night, December 22 and continued until after New Years."

Michael Sends Madge Away For a Rest and Carroll Follows Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayer, young and beautiful, lives in a dingy New York apartment with her father, an unsuccessful inventor, who always plans for riches that never come. Madge seeks thrills and gaiety and longs for the intoxication of joyous living. At a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend, she meets Carroll Dudley, handsome artist, aviator and "man about town." Dudley lays siege to Madge, who is warned by Frances Storrs. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment. He takes her on a midnight airplane ride and following several days' rushing asks her to pose for him. Madge agrees on certain conditions. These he accepts, but after posing Dudley takes Madge in his arms and professes his love. She assures him of her own love and speaks of marriage which Dudley avoids. Over an accidentally "broken-in" wire Madge hears him called "a Prince of Cads." He allays her suspicions, but when he is out a woman appears in the studio "I am Mrs. Carroll Dudley," she announces to Madge. Carroll explains that love made him hide his marriage but now he is to be free. Madge accepts his explanations. Unexpectedly she returns from a visit to her father now staying in the country and finds that Carroll has exhibited her painting to a party of his friends. In a rage she rips the canvas with a stiletto and rushes into the street. She wakes up in a hospital room with flowers and nurses, and a message from the rich young Michael Winchester whose car had run her down. Winchester falls in love with Madge, and insists that she go to Atlantic City to recuperate.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

THE morning following Michael Winchester's visit to the hospital was one of pleasant thrills for Madge. A discreet representative from one of the smarter stores arrived to discuss clothes. And later another representative appeared with mysterious cardboard boxes—boxes of all sizes and colors.

Open, these boxes spilled their riches over the bed, heaped them over the chairs and into the closet.

Among them were two little evening dresses, three afternoon frocks, a chic tailored suit in white, and several silk sport models in pastel shades. And there were hats, and intimate frilly garments, and slippers for all occasions. The smaller boxes yielded up their store of stockings, gloves and scarves of filmy delicacy.

Then, when she was alone again, and the pretty things had been put away, for a while tears brimmed in her big eyes. Carroll! How she would have loved to have worn these clothes for him and for his delight! She forced back the tears.

"Mustn't!" she rebuked herself. "Mustn't be a silly little ninny. There isn't any Carroll—and don't you go and forget it again. No Carroll; not any more."

Next morning, the doctors permitted her to leave the hospital. A highly efficient maid, one Anna, appeared and took charge of the details of preparing Madge for the trip, and soon she and her father were at the depot. There it became apparent to Madge that the friends of Michael Winchester had their way made smooth. A wheel chair was waiting for the arrival of the limousine, and carried Madge down in an elevator to the train, where she was helped into a drawing room. Orchids from Michael awaited her.

The arrival at the Atlantic City hotel was almost royal in its splendor. The manager himself was in attendance. One of Michael's secretaries had acted as advance agent for her tour. She was shown to the suite reserved for her and for her father. It consisted of two bedrooms and two sitting rooms, to say nothing of reception foyer and private dining room. The windows faced the ocean, and it was in the suite that Madge decided to rest after Anna had helped her into a lounging robe.

She sent her father out to drive in the glistening car, as she knew he was secretly longing to do, and she sat before the windows watching several airplanes circling in the sky over the blue water caused poignant memories—memories that stabbed and refused to be banished, so that later it was half-heartedly that she yielded to her father's importunities to go for a short drive with him.

"I came back on purpose to fetch you," he pleaded. "It's grand out, and you need all the air you can get."

As Madge was pushed out of the elevator in her wheel-chair, into the lobby of the hotel, her heart suddenly seemed about to cease beating—for there, coming towards her in his trim flying clothes, was Carroll Dudley!

Madge had just time to wonder what Carroll wanted after the unmistakable snub he had received at the hospital, when he was by her side, stooping over her, his good-looking face smiling at the sight of her.

"Oh, Mr. Dudley, of all people!" she managed, by a supreme effort, in a tone of raillery. "You know my father, I think!"

But Carroll ignored Mr. Sayre, and the latter, sensing tragedy in the air, turned to his daughter.

"My dear, I've forgotten a long-distance call. I'll see you—at dinner." And he walked quickly away.

"Ecstasy!" Carroll was saying in a low, tense voice. "I must talk to you—you don't know—"

Then through the crowd in the lobby, Madge perceived the chauffeur coming towards her.

"Oh, take me out to the car," she began, ignoring Carroll. "By the way, I don't know your name."

The man flushed, "Collins, Miss. Didn't Mr. Winchester tell you that it was me that ran you down? I asked partickler for this job—to try and express how sorry I am, Miss."

Madge smiled on him, and from that moment won another slave. "I think it was more my fault than yours, Collins," she told him. "Now please get me out to the car."

"I tell you I've got to talk to you," Carroll broke in.

Even though Madge felt that her heart was breaking because of the poignant sweetness of the memories that flooded her consciousness, she did know a little thrill of triumph. She saw herself as a queen granting an audience to a subject, as, partly to save a scene, she turned to Carroll and said coldly:

"My car is waiting. You may drive with me if you have anything to say."

He did not reply until they were safely in the car, and Collins, at Madge's request, was driving very slowly along the boulevard flanking the boardwalk.

"You must forgive me, Ecstasy!" Carroll was pleading in a low voice. "You don't understand an artist. My darling, I was stewed when I showed a few people that—"

"Suppose we don't refer to that!" and her voice cut him like a whip.

"Well, it was my pride in my art, and in you. Then as to the things I said to you in the studio during the row, don't you know that a man always strikes at the thing he loves best?"

"The coward does it with a kiss, the brave man with a sword!" quoted Madge, bitterly.

She lay back, pretending to watch the crowds that thronged the boardwalk.

"I think you are behaving very stupidly," Carroll made the mistake of complaining.

She turned on him fiercely. "You criticize me! Carroll, I wish you to understand that you have been a cad from first to last. And a liar I never want to talk to again!"

Carroll's eyes narrowed to slits, and his smile changed to a sneer.

"I quite see the mistake I made," he jeered. "Naturally, you would hardly be interested in a poor painter when you are being so luxuriously provided for by one of the richest men in the world?"

"Collins!" Madge called.

The chauffeur, slowing instantly, looked around and touched his cap.

"Stop please," and the car glided to the curb. Collins was at the door.

"Mr. Dudley wishes to get out," Madge said smoothly.

Slowly Carroll alighted from the car. Standing with one foot on the running-board, his face white with rage and frustrated desire, he smiled evilly.

"Some of the old saws have a lot of truth in them," he said. "Don't forget that one, my dear, about he laughs best who laughs last. But for the time," and here he bowed with mock reverence, "au revoir, Madame du Barry!"

"Drive on quickly, Collins," Madge instructed, cold with fury.

But the sneer as to Winchester caused Madge to consider her position. That the thing was a lie had no bearing on the case, for it seemed it would be impossible to know so rich a man without setting tongues wagging. She must get well as quickly as possible.

When she reached her suite again, she was surprised to find Winchester waiting for her. Beside him on the lounge was a very black, intensely up-stage Scotch terrier.

"I just ran down to see if they were treating you properly," Winchester said as he rose. "And to introduce you to someone who may grow dear to you. I can't introduce him to you, as his conceit is so appalling, so let me formally present Miss Madge Sayre to you, Tam." And he stooped to pat the alert little fellow who was gravely contemplating Madge in her wheel-chair.

"Oh, isn't he a darling!" Madge enthused.

Winchester helped her from the chair to the lounge and Tam approached to consider her. Madge made much of him, and finally Tam decided that he might conceivably like her. At least she promised well.

"Will you ask me to dinner?" Michael entreated at last. "I am not staying at this hotel."

After he had gone, Madge appreciated his delicacy. She was staying at perhaps the best hotel in the city, and yet he had deliberately exiled himself so that people could not say they were even staying under the same roof.

"Madame du Barry, indeed!" Madge said to herself. "He treats me more like a queen."

Madge had dressed for dinner—with the assistance of Anna—when her father entered. By his face she knew that something terrible had happened. She sent Anna away, and turned to him in sympathy.

"What is it, father dear?" she asked.

"Nothing—nothing at all," he evaded her.

"Father, we've always been pals, haven't we? Won't you tell me?"

And because he needed the solace of her sympathy, he told her. All his remaining capital had been placed on margin on a certain stock which that afternoon had been completely wiped out.

"It means that we are broke, my dear—really, actually broke. I doubt if I can put my hand on five hundred dollars. Three hundred would be nearer the mark."

THE ELIMINATION PROCESS

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

DOESN'T that call to mind your youthful struggles with algebra? Only through a process of elimination did you reach the solution to the mysteries of "X." And so it is with you now.

So many given quantities are floating through your mind, but the "X" eludes you every time. So there's only one thing to do, and that is, apply your algebraic rules to your love test.

Through a process of elimination, each phantom face disappears until only the "X"—the unknown—floats hazily before your eyes. And the more you dwell on the unknown the more you are anxious to firmly establish the identity of Mr. "X," who is to bring you the fulfillment of your dreams of Love.

And you'll find it is very easy, once you set your mind down to it. Because Mr. "X" is one who embodies all the attributes you have set down in your heart for the one who is to claim it. In other words, he's Mr. Right come to life. True, there may be some little thing which you don't exactly like, but that is so overbalanced by the multitude of other things that you forget the wee ones.

So when you find Mr. "X" constantly before your mind's eye, and find that he fills every waking and sleeping thought, then you'll know you have at last completed your "process of elimination" in the Game of Love. And you'll be sure that Mr. "X" is the Man of your Dreams—the man who will bring about the fulfillment of your dreams and give you the Love for which you have been searching.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

A Silent Duel for Love Begins Between Mary and Olina

AS Princess Olina of Transvania finished her laughing question as to Mary's escort upon her outing, I involuntarily straightened in my chair at something in her voice which to me, knowing her story, was like a reading upon a thermometer.

I was sure that our lovely royal visitor, who was still Miss Eleanor Lincoln in the minds of all but a few of us, did not herself realize the significance of the tremolo in her voice when she said that Mary's absence "explained the activities of our friend, Mr. Jackson," adding that she had telephoned that picturesque youth, asking him to come over and play a game of tennis only to be given the excuse of a luncheon engagement. But it verified in my mind a suspicion which I had harbored for several weeks, the conjecture that Olina, despite her infatuation for Noel Veritzen, was still interested enough in her former suitor, Prince Georges of Trees, now supposed to be plain George Logan Jackson, to be distinctly jealous of him.

The confirming of my suspicion was a distinct fillip to the determination I had formed to do everything in my power to foil Philip Veritzen's fantastic plan of fostering a marriage between his son and the lovely young princess of Transvania, whose equally beautiful mother had held the hopeless adoration of my employer's tragic youth.

If I succeeded in that I knew I should also be able to thwart the patent purpose of young Prince Georges to marry Mary, tossing his rank aside as if it were a wornout toy. To my eyes, I must confess, it had no more value than a toy, but I could guess what their heritage would mean to Olina and Georges when their present infatuations should have cooled, and knew that no real happiness could ever come of such ill-mated pairing.

But it was not altogether an impersonal belief in the wisdom of breaking up the attachments which prompted the phrasing of my answer to Olina's question. Of all four of the picturesque quartet, my sympathies were with Noel Veritzen, for his emotions were the most sincere and he was suffering most. I had seen him wince as Olina voiced her belief that young Mr. Jackson had been Mary's escort, and the look in his eyes made me stretch the truth until it was hopelessly out of shape.

"Yes, Mr. Jackson was the god of the machine—literally"—I told her, "for he has traded his car in for a wonderfully good-looking roadster. I really was quite provoked at Mary, for I almost had to compel her to go. I should fancy that a handsome young man and a car equally attractive would be a combination to tempt any young woman, but Mary is an odd fish. She simply begged me to let her stay at home and help take care of Junior, to whom she is devoted. But I made her go, for as I said before, she really needed the outing."

I salved my conscience with the remembrance that Mary really had asked me to let her stay and help me take care of Junior. But I was also aware that no such reluctance tinged her acceptance of my dictum that she go as I had just pictured. But I justified my exaggeration when I saw the involuntary joyous flash of relief in Noel Veritzen's eyes as he turned them on me. And I am afraid I took an equal but malicious satisfaction in seeing the chagrined look which Olina could not wholly disguise, and the quick narrowing of Philip Veritzen's eyebrows which told me that my chatter had been as unwelcome to him as it was to Princess Olina.

Nothing could have so plainly proved his ruthless determination to carry out this plan of marrying Noel to Olina. He had chosen Mary as a dramatic protegee with the announced intention of making her the most famous star he ever had trained. I knew the rigid routine upon which he insisted. Yet he was evincing distinct displeasure at her reluctance to accept the attentions of a young man, something usually forbidden to his protegees. And when a few minutes later Prince Georges' car whirled into the driveway and its royal occupant followed Mary up the steps I saw Phillip Veritzen's eyes go from the girl to his son, in watchful speculation, and felt a sudden desire to call out "On guard!" to both of them.

Norwegian Krands

Wash a half pound of butter well, then beat to a cream. Mash the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs smooth and add to them two raw egg yolks. Beat in a half cupful of powdered sugar, the butter and a wineglass of home-made wine or cordial. Sift in a pound of flour and knead until all is blended, then shape into small cakes in the hand, dip each in the beaten egg whites, then roll them in sugar and bake on a greased tin in a slow oven a delicate brown.

To Get Lemon Juice

By heating a lemon before squeezing it, nearly twice as much juice can be extracted as otherwise would be the case.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

When to Send Flowers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When opening a bank account and signing checks, which is the proper way to sign one's name, especially when husband and wife have a joint account—Mrs. George Smith, or her own name, Mary M. Smith?

2. When sending flowers for a funeral at an undertaking parlor is it proper to put the name of the deceased on the envelope? When the funeral is held at home and one is sending flowers is it necessary to put a name on the envelope or just the address? If so, should it be the name of the deceased?

3. Is it proper to write "with sympathy" on the personal cards sent with flowers?

NEWLYWED.

"MARY MASON SMITH" is the best form to use. That is, the wife usually chooses to retain the first and last names of her maiden name and to use them with her husband's last name.

2. Whether the flowers are sent to an undertaking parlor or to the home they should be sent in the name of the nearest relative, or the head of the house, or the nearest mourner. This name, not the name of the deceased, should be written on the envelope that is enclosed with the flowers.

3. Yes, this message is always in good taste and in good form. If you know the people very well you may, if you wish, make your message more personal: "With deepest sympathy and devotion," or something that indicates the relationship.

Bridal Receptions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I should be glad if you would advise me how the bridal party should be arranged for a home reception. The bridal party consists of the bride, bridegroom, the two attendants of the couple and the parents of both the bride and bridegroom.

PERPLEXED.

USUALLY, in the receiving line the father and mother of the bride stand first, since they are the hosts of the occasion. But sometimes the father prefers not to stand on the receiving line, but to "mingle with the guests" and have a larger field to greet his guests. However, always the mother stands first, unless her husband stands with her, and then he stands first, greets the guests with his wife and then, if necessary, introduces them to the father and mother of the groom, who usually stand next. So the line usually is (unless the fathers of the bride and groom prefer not to "receive" in the receiving line): First, the father of the bride; next, the mother of the bride; next, the father of the groom; next, the mother of the groom; next, the groom; next, the bride; next, the chief attendant of the bride, and last, the bridesmaids, if there are any. The best man does not take a place in the receiving line, but stands near so that, if necessary, he may do any service that the groom wishes done.

It isn't so often presence of mind as absence of enthusiasm that enables a man to drive perfectly with one hand and casually pet with the other.

A man's idea of a "bad memory" is the kind that keeps reminding him of a debt, a duty or a woman that he wants to forget!

Horoscopes

Sunday, December 9

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows us the planets all harnessed in gold, especially the ever beautiful and gracious Love Star, Venus, parallel with the Sun and in kindly juxtaposition to Mercury and Saturn. This prefigures blessings on domestic, affectional, social and artistic activities, other influences coinciding. Employment is under good augury, also be careful as to change.

Those whose birthday it is are under favorable auspices for the year, in employment and in all that pertains to heart and home activities. Business belonging to feminine interests flourish, but be not hasty, impulsive, nor ready to jump into sudden changes.

A child born on this day may be popular, talented and much loved and respected despite a tendency to turbulence and restlessness.

To the heavens above us O look and behold

Monday, December 10

MONDAY'S astrological configurations point to sudden and important change, possibly radical and far-reaching in its effects upon all future activities. Although the prospect is for unusual benefits, yet there is some need of precaution against duplicity and intrigue, particularly in negotiations with rings or combines, also with secret societies. Personal matters should be pleasant.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of unexpected change or possible travel, which may have a very radical effect on the entire future. With care as to betrayal or sinister undermining in connection with close corporations or combines, great benefits may be assured. Personal affiliations should be pleasant.

A child born on this day may have many original talents, with probably inventive genius. It should not have a commonplace career.

'Tis we that do make errant all the rays that stream upon us from astral heights.—"A. E."

Stop That Cough Quick!

Famous Prescription Has a Double Action.

The phenomenal success of a famous doctor's prescription called Thoxine is due to its double action. It immediately soothes the irritation and goes direct to the internal cause not reached by patent medicines and cough syrups. The very first swallow usually relieves even the most obstinate cough.

Thoxine contains no chloroform, dope or other dangerous drugs. Safe and pleasant for the whole family. Also excellent for sore throat. Quick relief or your money back. 35c, 60c and $1.00. All druggists.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Infant's Stomach Is Limited In Capacity

OVERFEEDING is one of the chief causes of a baby's unhappiness. It may protest for a few moments if not permitted to take all the food it thinks it wants. But it is sure to be miserably unhappy for a long time if permitted to take this surplus of food.

DR. COPELAND

The baby's stomach is limited in capacity. It just cannot hold more than a very limited quantity of food. If too much milk is given, the excess is returned through the mouth.

The doctors call this manner of the rejection of food, "regurgitation." That is a big word, isn't it? Regurgitation differs from real vomiting. It is merely a return of the surplus, without sign of pain or illness.

Nature is very alert to the health and welfare of the baby. The stomach is supplied with watchful nerves and strong muscles. On the first sign of overfeeding the good little stomach makes known that it can handle no more food. The regurgitation of the milk is the warning to the mother that baby has had enough.

The mother has more milk than the very young baby needs. This must not be forgotten. As the child grows older and stronger it can take more.

Vomiting is quite a different thing from simple regurgitation. In the latter the milk is returned sweet and normal. In vomiting the ejected material is sour and may be clotted.

True vomiting is accompanied by certain pronounced symptoms indicating real illness. The baby is cold and pale. It may be bathed in a clammy perspiration. Everybody can see it is a sick youngster.

Vomiting does not of necessity indicate stomach trouble. Usually it does, but the infectious or contagious diseases are sometimes introduced by this symptom. Pneumonia and other ailments may begin this way.

In most instances, however, vomiting, especially if the discharged material has a disagreeable odor, is a sign of a disturbed stomach due to improper feeding. On this account the first thing to do in case of vomiting is to stop the food.

It seems a terrible thing to a young mother to deprive her baby of all food, but it can go very well for seven or eight hours without any food whatever. Then barley water can be given.

Always notify your doctor if the baby is seized with vomiting spells. There is something wrong in your method of feeding and you should find out what must be changed to make the feeding exactly right.

Answer to Health Queries

W. Q.—Why do we dream and what is the cause?

A.—Often due to an intestinal disturbance or a nerve condition. Eating just before retiring is a frequent factor. Keep the system clear and you will probably notice general benefit.

R. Q.—What can I do for pimples? My face is just covered with them.

A.—You should correct your diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Avoid constipation or sluggish bowel movements. Exercise daily to the extent of causing gentle perspiration.

S. S. Q.—Is secondary anemia curable and what is the treatment? Would a patient suffering from secondary anemia be helped by hypodermic injections of iron?

A.—Depending upon the other conditions surrounding the case. Yes. The patient should be under the care of a physician and follow out his instructions most carefully. Each case demands specific treatment.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Warning by Savings Bank; Irish Lad Makes Millions.

By B. C. FORBES

THE oldest savings bank in New York, the Bank for Savings, has posted this notice so that all who come in to withdraw funds find it staring them in the face:

"Depositors are warned, in their own interest, against withdrawing money for proposed investment until they have consulted with some bank official, either here or in any other bank or trust company, as to the safety of the investment."

This institution has one savings account, still running, which was opened 109 years ago. Only $15 was ever deposited, but this $15 has earned in interest no less than $2,667.33.

Many of those who have withdrawn money from savings banks to gamble in stocks will have less to show by and by than if they had kept it on deposit. But the mania for speculation has become so virulent that caution and conservatism are ridiculed.

LAST night I was reading a new volume describing the career of John Law, the author of what became known as the "Mississippi Bubble" two centuries ago. He first obtained power to start a bank in France, next he launched a colonization scheme in Louisiana, opened a royal bank, was made comptroller general of France, issued paper currency galore, entered international trade on a grand scale, and ran his shares up to fabulous heights.

The scenes surrounding the speculation in the Law shares were not so very different from the scenes witnessed in brokers' offices in this country today. Then, as now, women caught the gambling fever. Brokers' offices had to work night and day to handle the clamor for the stock. Earnings didn't justify the skyrocketed quotations but everybody was dazzled by the rise and did not stop to reason that it could not go on forever.

The stories of the profits made then even outshine those related in this country lately—although some of the tales now current here of fortunes made by workmen, maids, bootblacks, barbers and others higher in the financial scale are becoming numerous and picturesque.

The "Mississippi Bubble" burst disastrously. American conditions represent no bubble. They are, on the contrary, unusually sound. Inflation is conspicuous by its absence throughout industry and business.

But as much cannot be said concerning stock speculation.

IT WAS recently mentioned in this column that Everett B. Sweezy, one of the right-hand men of George F. Baker, dean of New York bankers, was one of the relatively few big bankers who had not become frightened by the advance in stocks. Mr. Sweezy, as then explained, had been obliged to go away for a rest. A friend has just told me that Mr. Sweezy has not altered his analysis.

THIS comes from J. A. Hickey, secretary-treasurer of the eastern broker division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of North America:

"On behalf of the eight hundred members of this organization, employed as telegraphers in brokerage houses in the financial district, we wish to express our thanks and appreciation for your column 'when is the best time to advance salaries?'"

I UNDERSTAND that the public will have an opportunity to become financially interested in one of the foremost grocery chains in New York and surrounding territory, the Reeves stores. This business, now rated the second largest of its kind in New York, has been built up by an Irish immigrant who had to start work when only a tiny lad. He learned the business, however, from floor sweeping up, early saw the possibilities of owning more than one store, plowed back all his earnings into the business — and became, of course, a millionaire many times over.

I once asked Mr. Reeves what was the secret of success in the chain store business. His emphatic reply was: "Men—getting the right men and training them properly."

Unlike many, Mr. Reeves doesn't try to do everything himself. Nor does he believe in overwork. Rather, he believes in keeping in the very finest fettle, mentally and physically, by getting out on the golf course several afternoons a week.

"I feel I have only begun to scratch the ground, that our business has only got a good start," he declared.

Is there something in the atmosphere of "ould Ireland" that inspires so many Irish lads to migrate to America and become millionaire merchants?

SCORE another one for American business men. James P. Butler, president of the Canal Bank and Trust Company, the largest financial institution in New Orleans, and indeed in the South, has just received the loving cup presented annually to the citizen rendering the most distinguished service to the city. This honor was won mainly by "his intelligent, unselfish and indispensable service in the safety, relief and prevention work arising from the Mississippi flood."

All business men are not self-seeking money grabbers.

DWIGHT W. MORROW would make an ideal secretary of state for President Hoover. Not only has he extraordinary ability, but he earned the reputation of being the warmest-hearted, most unselfish man in the whole of New York's financial world. He never has to act the diplomat. He always is just himself—and that's enough.

STOCK MARKET PRICES TURN IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(A.P.)—Extreme irregularity in price movement developed at the opening of today's stock market. Radio broke 7 points, Commercial solvents 4¾, and Stewart-Warner 4, while Gold Dust, Cerro de Pasco Copper and Missouri Pacific yielded a point or so. A. M. Byers jumped 6 points on the first sale, and initial gains of 1 to nearly 3 points were recorded by U. S. Steel common, General Motors, Chrysler and International Combustion Engineering.

Price movements continued erratic in the early trading due to the heavy week-end readjustment of speculative accounts. Wall street heard today that the recent credit stringency was due, in part, to the withdrawal of foreign funds loaned here. There was a rather general belief in banking circles that the brokers' loan figures have reached a peak for some time to come and that next week's Federal Reesrve statement will reflect the drastic liquidation that has taken place in the last few days.

Renewal of selling pressure against Radio forced that stock down 39 points to 329, or more than 70 points below yesterday's high, before the end of the first half hour. Kolster Radio, which broke sharply on the San Francisco exchange yesterday, quickly sagged 8 points. Sears Roebuck fell back 7. Commercial Solvents extended its loss to 5½ and Montgomery Ward, American Express, Liquid Carbonic and Nash Motors recorded early losses of 2 to 3 points.

Dupont quickly rebounded 25 points to 480. Victor Talking Machine, General Electric, Packard Motors, American Smelting and Chile Copper sold 3 to 5 points higher.

Foreign exchanges opened easier, with sterling cables down 1-32 of a cent to $4.85 1-32.

SALES BRING DECLINES IN PITTSBURGH MARKET

An orderly recession in prices developed in the trading on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, the decline including nearly all of the active local issues. The losses were for the most part attributed to profit-taking sales.

Carnegie Metals touched its low price of yesterday at 19½, off 1 point from the previous close. The stock has been in supply for several sessions.

Blaw Knox, Armstrong Cork, United Engineering and Pittsburgh Plate Glass traded at lower levels.

Arkansas Gas preferred moved against the market with a fractional gain. Westinghouse Air Brake declined a fraction in sympathy with the movement in New York.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Radio Unsettles List.

A spectacular break in the shares of Radio Corporation of America shortly after the opening of the New York market caused nervousness which was reflected in many sections of the list. Sales in Radio quickly ran far ahead of the tape. At one point the stock was offered at 325 when the last sale on the tape was 350. A rally found the tape at 325 with the stock selling around 340. General Electric was under pressure shortly after the opening and sold lower.

Radio Activities.

It had been rumored that Radio directors might recommend a stock splitup, but no such action was taken.

Radio Corporation's communications business represents only a fraction of its activities. The company is a leading manufacturer of radio apparatus, particularly receiving sets, and holds valuable patents which are widely licensed. It is also interested in broadcasting, development of radio transmission of moving pictures and it has developed a talking movie device, called photophone. It has acquired control of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum chain of theaters through formation of the Radio-Keith-Albee Corporation, a holding company.

At the meeting the board announced the following promotions: David Sarnoff, vice president and general manager, to be executive vice president; Joseph L. Ray to be vice president and general sales manager; Dr. Alfred N. Goldsmith to be vice president and chief broadcast engineer; Col. Manton Davis to be vice president and general attorney. In the RCA Photophone Company, Elmer E. Buchner was named executive vice president.

Big Raw Silk Sale.

Floor brokers put through the largest single sale thus far on the national raw silk exchange yesterday when 100 May contracts changed hands at $50.09 a pound. The sale was more than twice as large as any previous one. Under exchange rules 100 contracts cover 500 bales of raw silk, weighing in the aggregate 65,000 pounds.

Lockheed Aircraft.

The Lockheed Aircraft Corporation of Burbank, Cal., will increase its present common stock from 25,000 to 150,00 shares. Stockholders will be offered rights for additional no par stock at $6 a share in ratio one share for every share held. Proceeds will be used to retire preferred stock, to write off indebtedness, to construct assembly plant near Chicago and additional factory facilities at Burbank.

Construction Contracts.

Contracts awarded in the United States on heavy construction and engineering projects in the first 11 months of 1928 totaled $3,341,488,000 against $2,875,922,00 for the corresponding 1927 period, Engineering News-Record reports. November contracts totaled $306,029,000, which compares with $257,322,000 in November, 1927.

Lumber Demand Declines.

A slight decline in lumber demand for the week ended December 1 is noted in reports of 843 mills to the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association. This was partly due to the Thanksgiving Day shutdowns. Soft wood orders fell about 14 per cent from the preceding week with a marked decline in production. Hardwood production and shipments were practically unchanged.

Fisk Profits Satisfactory.

The Fisk Rubber Company after absorbing a loss of $4,983,134 in the first half this year, is operating currently at a satisfactory profit. Net income after all charges for the second half of 1928 is estimated at $3,000,000. Based on this estimate, the company would close the year with net loss of about $2,000,00 against net profit of $2,620,722 in 1 months ended December 31, 1927, and net profit of $3,354,432 in the year ended October 31, 1926.

Coca Cola Profits Up.

Coca-Cola International Corporation reports for quarter ended September 30, 1928, profit of $692,784 after expenses, equivalent to $3.01 a share earned on 229,572 no-par shares of stock. This compares with $688,232, or $2.99 a share on 229,998 common shares in preceding quarter and $598,168, or $2.52 a share on 237,017 shares in third quarter of 1927. Profit for nine months ended September 30, 1928, was $1,957,509, equal to $8.52 a share on 229,572 common shares, against 1,802,19 or $7.60 a share on 237,017 shares, for the nine months ended September 30, 1927.

Norfolk and Western.

Norfolk and Western's net income after taxes and charges for October, amounting to $3,987,224, was a new high record for any month. This occurred notwithstanding that there was an adjustment which ran up operating expenses $160,00. It is figured the road can show $19 to $2 a share this year. The net income was $24,004,835 for ten months ended October 31, 1928. There were 1,401,897 shares of common stock recently outstanding.

Bessemer Gas Engine.

Control of Bessemer Gas Engine Company, Grove City, Pa., involving purchase of 6,000 shares of stock, has been obtained by Dr. E. J. Fithian, president, and associates. The company was organized 3 years ago and manufactures gas and oil engines. It is one of the largest manufacturers of Diesel type engines in the country. Control was purchased from heirs of John Caruthers, jointly associated for many years in the management.

BYERS MERGER WITH SPANG UNLIKELY

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

A MERGER of the A. M. Byers Co. with Spang, Chalfant & Co., Inc. is not considered likely by officials of the two organizations. Reports that hot Aston iron may be transferred from Byers' new Ambridge plant to the nearby seamless tube mills owned by Spang, Chalfant are also considered untrue.

The best reason for not bringing about a consolidation is the fact that the two companies are competitors with different types of products. While mergers are sometimes desirable with companies selling identical lines, the nature of rivalry between Byers and Spang makes it unlikely that any benefits would be secured.

Spang's principal output consists of steel pipe, produced in large volume to sell at a low price. Byers sells wrought iron pipe on a quality basis at prices higher than steel. One salesman could not talk the advantages of great resistance to corrosion possible in iron pipe and at the same time represent the cheaper steel pipe. One or the other of the companies would suffer in case of a consolidation.

J. H. HILLMAN, Jr., was the dominant factor in forming the present Spang, Chalfant organization by a merger with the Standard Seamless Tube Company a year ago. He has been the leading spirit in the control of Byers also. If a physical merger of all three of the companies had been desirable Byers probably would have been in the consolidation at that time.

Byers is now building a plant near Ambridge to make wrought iron by the recently perfected Aston process. The fact that it is near to Spang's seamless plant has been responsible for frequent reports that Aston iron will be transported hot to be made into seamless tube. If this were possible, a product would result with the exceptional strength of the seamless tubing joined to the long-wearing properties of wrought iron.

Seamless tubing has never been made from wrought iron. It is doubtful if it can be made from wrought iron so that any such arrangement is, at best, a very remote possibility.

ANOTHER rumor which is being discredited by those in a position to know, is the story that the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company will be merged with Byers, with Byers and Spang, or that control of it will be obtained to establish a community of interest with these companies.

Although Standard Sanitary is a large user of pipe and a share in its ownership might be valuable to Byers and Spang, there is no reason to believe that any change in control is taking place.

This week two vacancies on the board of directors of Standard Sanitary were filled by executives who have been in the organization for a long time. It is understood that control is in the hands of the management and that it cannot be bought in the open market.

THE William Zoller Co. is expected to report greater earnings this year than in 1927. An exact estimate cannot be made since the final showing depends to a great extent on the market prices prevailing at the end of the year when inventories are taken.

The present year has been good, since hog prices were low during the period of heavy runs a year ago. Prices of cured pork products obtained from these cheap hogs were high during the period of large sales this summer. Hog prices are again sagging during the period when inventories are accumulated.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh to make, execute and deliver in the name of and for the City of Pittsburgh a contract with the Pittsburgh Railways Company and Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, defining the relationship between the Motor Coach Company and the City of Pittsburgh, providing for and defining the powers of the Traction Conference Board relative to said Motor Coach Company, and fixing the term of said contract.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh be and he is hereby authorized and directed to make, execute and deliver, in the name of the City of Pittsburgh and for the City of Pittsburgh, the following contract with the Pittsburgh Railways Company and Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, and to affix thereto the corporate seal of the said City; provided, however, that all matters and things herein contained shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission for its approval; and, provided further, that no contract executed in pursuance hereof shall become binding or effective until the approval of the said Commission shall have been secured:

THIS AGREEMENT

Made and entered into this........ day of.................. A. D. 1928, by and between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, hereinafter referred to as the "City," party of the first part; the Pittsburgh Railways Company, a corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, hereinafter referred to as the "Railways Company," party of the second part, and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, a corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, hereinafter referred to as the "Coach Company," party of the third part, witnesseth:

Whereas, under date of December 20, 1921, the City, the Philadelphia Company, and the Railways Company entered into an agreement, providing, inter alia, for the formation and organization of a Traction Conference Board with the powers and duties therein provided for, to which agreement reference is hereby made for a statement of said powers and duties as though herein set out fully and at large; and

Whereas, by supplemental agreement, dated March 31, 1924, between the City, the Philadelphia Company, and the Railways Company, the effective period of said agreement dated December 20, 1921, has been extended so that it shall continue in force for a period of Ten (10) years from the first day of February, 1924; and

Whereas, the Receivership of the Railways Company has been terminated and the Traction Conference Board has been organized, and is now functioning in accordance with the provisions of said agreement dated December 20, 1921; and,

Whereas, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company was incorporated July 27, 1925, for the purpose of owning, hiring and operating motor vehicles and similar conveyances for the transportation of persons therein for hire in the Counties of Allegheny, Beaver, Westmoreland and Washington, Pennsylvania; and,

Whereas, the Railways Company is the owner of all the capital stock of the said Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company authorized and outstanding, and it is intended that the Coach Company shall be financed primarily by the moneys advanced to it by the Railways Company; and,

Whereas, it is deemed expedient in the interest of the public to have the motor coach service rendered by the Coach Company co-ordinated with the street railway service as nearly as may be; and,

Whereas, it is the mutual desire of the parties hereto to cooperate, one with the other, to give the traveling public adequate motor coach service supplemental to and independent of the street railway service wherever necessary; and,

Whereas, it is deemed advisable that the Traction Conference Board shall have and exercise the same powers and duties as to the Coach Company as it has and exercises as to the Railways Company, under and pursuant to the agreement dated December 20, 1921, aforesaid.

Now, therefore, in order to accomplish the purpose hereinbefore set forth and to define the relations between the Railways Company, the Coach Company and the City, the parties hereto do hereby covenant, promise and agree as follows:

First: The City shall have a voice in the amount of money which the Coach Company shall spend in operations and depreciation allowance, and in betterments, improvements and extensions of its original and additional motor bus routes, if any, to be exercised in the following manner;

Thirty (30) days before the end of each fiscal year the Coach Company shall submit to the City and the Traction Conference Board, provided for in the agreement, dated December 20, 1921, hereinbefore referred to, a full and detailed budget, setting forth estimates of gross receipts and proposed expenditures for the ensuing year. This budget shall be subject to revision by said Traction Conference Board, and said Traction Conference Board shall, within fifteen (15) days, either approve or disapprove such budget and in case either the City or the Coach Company is not satisfied with the action of the Traction Conference Board, the controversy, as well as any other controverted question passed upon by said Board, shall be submitted to arbitration in the manner set forth and described in Paragraph Ninth of said agreement of December 20, 1921, except that wherever in said paragraph reference is made to the "New Company," the same shall be construed to mean the said Coach Company; all the other provisions of Paragraph Ninth of said agreement of December 20, 1921, shall be deemed by reference thereto to be incorporated in and to be made part of this agreement as though herein set out fully and at large, substituting, however, the words "Coach Company" for the words "New Company," wherever the latter wording appears in said Paragraph Ninth, and substituting the words "a reasonable fare" for the words "a reasonable car fare," when the latter wording appears in said Paragraph Ninth. Expenditures for the year covered by said budget shall not exceed the amount in each account named in the budget, except that with the approval of said Traction Conference Board transfers may be made from one account to another. At any time during the year the Coach Company may submit a supplemental budget or estimate, which shall follow the same course as the original budget.

Monthly reports shall be submitted by the Coach Company to the Traction Conference Board for comparisons with the budget figures, and the said Board shall have the right to audit the books of the Coach Company at any time.

Said board and its staff shall on request, on proper occasions, and in a reasonable manner, have access to all parts of the plant and facilities of the Coach Company, to all of its books, records, maps, accounts and data of all kinds and description, and it shall at times reasonably convenient be permitted to consult with the officers of the Coach Company with reference to service facilities, rates and charges, and the provisions of this agreement relating to the annual budget and finances of the Coach Company.

In addition to such protection of such rights and the enforcement of such duties, it is further agreed between the parties that the Traction Conference Board shall have the right to oversee and supervise the finances of the Coach Company with respect both to operating accounts and new financing and refunding of securities, if any, maturing during the term of this agreement, and also to determine the proper amount chargeable to the capital account from year to year.

The terms "service" and "facilities," as used in this agreement, shall bear the same definition as contained in Article One of the Public Service Company Law, and shall also be taken to comprehend and include the duties and liabilities imposed upon Coach Companies under the provisions of Articles Two, Three and Five of the said Public Service Company Law; and the words "financing," "refinancing" and "refunding," shall be taken to mean and shall include all matters pertaining to the original financing of the Coach Company and any new financing, as well as all matters pertaining to the operating income and expenses of the Coach Company, which shall be more specifically set forth in the annual operating budget of the Coach Company as herein provided for. Said Traction Conference Board shall at any and all times, after full consideration, recommend to the Coach Company in writing the proposed changes, alterations and improvements in service and facilities and the rates and changes of the Coach Company, which recommendations the Coach Company shall either adopt or reject within ten days. If said recommendations are adopted, an agreement shall be made as to the time of their performance.

Second: The City agrees to co-operate with the Coach Company, and to give its earnest consideration to all matters brought to the attention of the City, in order that the Coach Company may render efficient service in an economical manner.

Third: The Railways Company is made a party to this agreement for the purpose of ratifying and confirming the same in all respects, and it promises, covenants and agrees to cooperate with and support the Coach Company in its efforts to supplement and complement the street railway service in the Pittsburgh district.

Fourth: All matters and things herein contained shall remain subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of the State of Pennsylvania, and this contract shall not become binding unless it is first approved by that Commission.

Fifth: The Traction Conference Board shall, as promptly as possible, certify to the City the amount of capital invested in the properties of the Coach Company, in accordance with the terms of this agreement and the annual amount of return thereon as set forth and provided in this agreement, and it shall annually thereafter certify to the increase of capital from year to year and the annual amount of returns to capital account from year to year, so that the City may at all times have a definite and up-to-date statement of the amount of the capital account as set forth and provided for in this agreement and of the proper return thereon under the provisions of this agreement.

Sixth: The duties and liabilities of the Coach Company and its rights and powers being fixed and determined by the Laws of Pennsylvania (particularly Articles Two, Three and Five of the Public Service Company Law, approved July 26, 1913, P. L. 1374), and the Ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh and other municipalities represented by said Traction Conference Board, the parties hereto agree that the City of Pittsburgh and other municipalities shall, through said Traction Conference Board, be granted full power and authority for the purpose of protecting and safeguarding the rights of said municipalities and the public with respect to the service, facilities, rates and charges in the manner herein described.

Seventh: Provided that the issue by the Coach Company, or its lessor Companies, of additional securities for capital account, or new securities for the purpose of refunding obligations maturing during the term of this agreement, may be at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent per annum, or at the ruling market price of like securities, unless a higher rate of interest or a lower price shall be approved by the Traction Conference Board, or by arbitrators, as herein provided.

Eighth: The said Coach Company shall pay to the City the reasonable license, if any, assessed by the City against the motor coach or motor coaches operated by the Coach Company within the limits of said City, such reasonable sum having been fixed by proper ordinance, and being payable by any and all persons, partnerships, associations or corporations operating motor coaches as a common carrier for the transportation of persons; provided, however, that the said Coach Company shall not be estopped hereby from questioning the reasonableness or legality of said license charges at any time.

Ninth: Nothing in this agreement shall be so construed as to make the the Coach Company from payment of any assessments for benefits to real estate which may be owned by it and assessed according to law, occasioned by any municipal improvement benefiting its real estate, such as sewering, grading, paving and curbing streets.

Tenth: Nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to make the City liable as a partner or responsible for the obligations of the other parties hereto.

Eleventh: This agreement shall continue in force for a period of Ten (10) years from February 1, 1924.

This agreement is duly authorized and approved by the City by Ordinance duly enacted and approved on the........day of...................., 192....

This agreement is entered into by the Railways Company by virtue of a resolution authorizing the same, adopted by its Board of Directors at a meeting duly held on the........ day of.................., 192....

This agreement is entered into by the Coach Company by virtue of a resolution authorizing the same adopted by its Board of Directors at a meeting duly held on the........ day of.................., 192....

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Grant Building, Incorporated, for the construction, erection, lease and maintenance of an Aviation Beacon Light on top of the Grant Building, corner of Fourth Avenue and Grant Street, in the City of Pittsburgh.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Safety, on behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into an agreement with the Grant Building, Incorporated, in the following language:

THIS AGREEMENT

MADE this........day of.................. 192......by and between the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, party of the first part, hereinafter called the "City," and acting in this behalf by Charles H. Kline, its Mayor, and James M. Clark, its Director of the Department of Public Safety,

AND

Grant Building, Incorporated, a corporation organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "Company," party of the second part.

WHEREAS—The Company is the owner of a building being erected on the easterly side of Grant Street extending from Third Avenue to Fourth Avenue, in the City of Pittsburgh, upon which building the City is desirous of constructing and maintaining an Aviation Beacon Light;

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH: That the Company shall and will, at its own cost and expense, construct and erect upon the top of the Grant Building an Aviation Beacon Light and appurtenances, the plans for said Beacon Light and appurtenances to be approved by the Director of the Department of Public Safety before erection, and the same to be approved by him after completion.

The Company agrees that it will indemnify and save harmless the City, its officers, agents and employes, from all suits, actions and proceedings of every kind, which may be brought against said City or her officers, employes or agents, for or on account of any injuries or damages to persons or property by reason of the ownership or maintenance of said beacon light, or on account of any patent, invention, or article or arrangement that may be used in or about said beacon light.

Upon the installation of said Light and appurtenances as aforesaid, the said Company shall sell, assign, transfer and set over the same to the City upon payment by the City to it of the sum of Eleven Thousand ($11,000.00) Dollars, and the City hereby agrees to purchase said Light and appurtenances upon completion thereof for the sum aforesaid.

Upon purchase thereof, the City shall execute and deliver to the Company a lease for the life of said Beacon Light and appurtenances at an annual rental of One Dollar ($1.00), and the Company shall maintain the said Beacon Light and appurtenances during the continuance of its useful life.

Said Beacon Light and appurtenances shall be constructed and maintained in accordance with permit and Rules and Regulations of the United States Government.

The City does hereby give and grant unto the Company the exclusive right and option at any time during the continuance of said Beacon Light for the sum of Eleven Thousand ($11,00.00) Dollars.

This Agreement executed in behalf of the City of Pittsburgh pursuant to an Ordinance of Council No. ........approved ........ 192.... and recorded in Ordinance Book Volume....... Page...... and executed on behalf of the Company pursuant to a Resolution of its Board of Directors, duly adopted.

WITNESS the Corporate Seal of the City of Pittsburgh and the signatures of the Mayor and Director of the Department of Public Safety, together with the Certificate of the City Controller and the approval of the City Solicitor; and also the Corporate Seal of the said Grant Building, Incorporated, duly attested by the signatures of its proper officers the day and year first above written.

NO. 779.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works to issue, and the City Controller to pay, a current estimate to the Vang Construction Company under Controller's Contract No. 2370, the same being contract for the "Construction of Highway Bridge on Mt. Washington Roadway over Sycamore street and Castle Shannon Incline, Contract No. 2, Concrete Structure," with the City retaining 2 per cent of the total amount of said estimate instead of 10 per cent, as provided in the contract.

Whereas, pursuant to Ordinance No. 16, approved January 5, 1927, the City entered into a contract on March 15, 1927, with the Vang Construction Company, the same being Controller's Contract No. 2398; and

Whereas, the bridge was practically completed several months ago and opened to traffic on July 17, 1928; and

Whereas, no final estimate has been given the contractor, pending settlement of various questions in connection therewith, the full 10 per cent of the current estimates being retained; and

Whereas, the Vang Construction Company, by action of their board of directors, has declared its willingness to accept a current estimate with 2 per cent being retained by the City, pending the settlement of these questions. Now, therefore,

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be, and they are hereby authorized and directed to issue, and the City Controller to pay, a current estimate to the Vang Construction Company, under Controller's Contract No. 2370, the same being contract for the "Construction of Highway Bridge on Mt. Washington Roadway over Sycamore street and Castle Shannon Incline, Contract No. 2, Concrete Structure," with the City retaining 2 per cent of the total amount of said estimate instead of 10 per cent as provided in the contract.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the grading and regrading to variable widths of 35 feet to 40 feet, paving, repaving, curbing, recurbing of River avenue, from the present paving at United way to a point 117.50 feet west of the west curb line of Heing street, and providing that the costs, damages and expenses of the same be assessed against and collected from property specially benefited thereby.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, that River avenue, from the present paving at United way to a point 117.50 feet west of the west curb line of Heing street, be graded and regraded to variable widths of 35 feet to 40 feet, paved, repaved, curbed and recurbed.

SECTION 2. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works are hereby authorized and directed to advertise, in accordance with the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the ordinances of the said City of Pittsburgh relating thereto and regulating the same, for proposals for the grading and regrading to variable widths of 35 feet to 40 feet, paving, repaving, curbing and recurbing of said street between said points; the contract or contracts therefor to be let in the manner directed by the said acts of Assembly and Ordinances; and the contract price or contract prices, if let in separate contracts, not to exceed the total sum of Thirty-nine Thousand Eight Hundred ($39,800.00) Dollars, which is the estimate of the whole cost as furnished by the Department of Public Works.

SECTION 3. The costs, damages and expenses of the same shall be assessed against and collected from properties specially benefited thereby, in accordance with the provisions of the acts of Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania relating thereto and regulating the same, and the City's share of said work to be chargeable to and payable from Code Account No. ——, People's Bond Issue, 1928.

SECTION 4. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.

Safety Must Be Guide On One-Man Street Cars

One-man cars are under attack. These are street cars operated by a motorman who also collects fares, there being no conductor. Following an accident involving one, the city of McKeesport banned their use on the street where the accident occurred, then permitted resumption of the service pending decision of the Public Service Commission, to which appeal was taken. The outcome is regarded as a precedent, hence it will be of importance throughout the state.

Safety should be the paramount consideration. Hence the opponents of one-man car operation have attempted to show that it is unsafe. On the other hand the Pittsburgh Railways Company has contended that it is no more dangerous—even less, in fact—than the operation of cars manned by a crew of two. That claim, of course, will be difficult to prove satisfactorily, since local experience with one-man cars, compared with operation by a full crew, has not been extended enough to warrant anything but assumption.

The Pittsburgh Railways Company has the obligation to the public, as well as the necessity, perhaps, of operating its cars as economically as is possible with good service. It never has been proven that its rate of fare is unreasonable. It should be remembered that it is a fixed rate and that the volume of revenue therefrom varies, with a tendency to fall below a contemplated maximum. Maintenance and construction costs have increased. And it certainly cannot expend more than it receives.

One-man cars appear to be an economy. If they are safe they represent an economy that, in the end, will be of benefit to the public, since waste, whether it be of money, time or labor, falls on the public ultimately. It would be a waste to use two men to do what one can do as well. But if one man cannot operate a car so that passengers and those in the street are as safe from danger as they would be if there were a crew of two, then one-man cars should not be permitted. Safety should be the paramount consideration.

Women Are Sentenced Among Vote Cheaters

The woman pays as well as the man, when payment is exacted for election frauds. That was revealed in Criminal Court Friday, when two women were sentenced to serve 60 days in jail and to pay fines of $300 each as well as costs. They were found guilty in April of this year on charges growing out of the revelation of widespread cheating by election boards at the primary of September, 1927. Six men were sentenced at the same time for like offenses.

It is sad to note that women are involved in this matter—not merely because of the severity of the penalty but because the appearance of women in politics was supposed to have a beneficial influence. Yet our faith is not shattered. Among the many persons indicted and who stood trial in these cases there were but few women, and that fact certainly is a tribute to the integrity of their sex.

Naturally, there will be sympathy for these two women, one of whom was a college graduate, and there should be. The law, however, holds that before it all are equal. Their punishment, as well as that of the men, was essential in order that all election cheaters should have impressed deeply upon them the warning of society that the sancity of the ballot must be and will be upheld.

Mr. Vash Young's Nine Words

Could You Suggest a Better Nine?

Mr. Vash Young, who has proved his energy by selling an average of $2,000,000 worth of life insurance a year, once reached the conclusion that he was "tired of being a fool," and wrote an article about it. That was in days when he hadn't begun to succeed and climb up.

Mr. Young says what helped him was "NINE MAGIC WORDS."

And below are the nine words that did the magic trick for Mr. Young, changing him from more or less of a wandering failure to satisfactory success.

Think about the words as you read them and see if you can find BETTER words to replace each one—or any.

LOVE.
CHEERFULNESS.
ACTIVITY.
FRIENDLINESS.
GENEROSITY.
TOLERANCE.
ROMANCE.

---

You certainly can't improve on the first word. It suffers long and is kind. And if you lack it, Heaven HELP you.

If there were in the world enough LOVE, which includes the desire to help others, most of men's problems would be solved.

You couldn't very well leave COURAGE out of your list of words "that are magic."

Take COURAGE out of a man and little is left.

---

CHEERFULNESS, perhaps, is not QUITE so important. It makes the individual happier. But sometimes it is a sign that a man is too easily satisfied with himself.

On the banks of the Congo you could find a hundred natives cheerful to the limit, squatting around a dead hippopotamus.

It is the best thing they can have, so it's well for them to be cheerful about it.

But men of ambition must not become cheerful SO EASILY.

As a substitute for cheerfulness we suggest EARNESTNESS.

Make up your own list of nine words, use as many of this list as you like, but better still, find substitutes, it will be good practice for the mind.

It is a good thing to set things down CLEARLY, to formulate ideas as to what is worth while in life.

That is almost as important as the chart that the captain uses in crossing the ocean.

Life is an ocean, you have to start from one shore, which is the cradle, and go ahead until you reach the farther shore, which is the grave. Those are fortunate that find ways to make the journey pleasantly.

There is one word left out of Mr. Young's list, JUSTICE. It is far more important than all the others put together, and it includes most of the others.

Tales That Are Told

A Habit

JACKSON had just bought a new car, and although he had had only one lesson in driving, he ventured out for a trial run.

He was proceeding gingerly when, on rounding a corner, he encountered two men walking in the opposite direction. There was no time for him to draw up, and one of the men was knocked into the hedge.

Jackson was nearly 50 yards farther along the lane before he managed to stop his car. He reversed and backed up the lane.

Unfortunately he overshot the mark again, and this time the second man, who was bending over his injured comrade, was hurled to the ground.

Again Jackson went past some distance before he managed to stop, and again started to drive up to the men.

Just as his car was approaching the spot for the third time, he heard one man shout to the other, as he dragged him through a gap in the hedge: "For Heavens sake, come on, Jack! He's after us again!"

Wasted

IT was near the end of a long story. The hard-faced man was giving them gems of wisdom picked from the ample experiences of his own hectic life.

"Free yourself," he said, "from the vile clutches of the tobacco habit. It is easily done. Well I remember the day I gave up smoking. I was standing at a street corner, just about to light a wicked weed, when I said to myself, 'Johnston you're a fool to smoke; throw away that cigar!' And I did, and I've never smoked since."

"Say, mister," interrupted a man who had just come in, "you haven't a mind to tell a fellow where you threw that cigar, have you?"

Not an Acrobat

EVERYTHING was ready, and the stage manager rubbed his hands in eager anticipation.

He took one swift look round, and then nodded for the curtain to go up, but the man whose duty it was to attend to this took no notice.

"Now, then, wake up, you!" shouted the manager hoarsely. "Everything's ready. Run up that curtain."

The man standing near the curtain-raising apparatus scowled darkly.

"Run up the curtain yourself!" he replied heatedly. "I am a stagehand, not a blooming squirrel."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S all kinds of reasons for the help leaving, and generally it's the fault of somebody else besides the help. You got to be considerate if you're going to keep a cook, for instance.

Well, there was a cook that came to the missus and asked for her pay the other day. She says, "I'm quitting. I gotta go where I ain't being suspected of all kinds of nasty things."

"But dear me, I never suspected you of anything at all, Mollie. What gave you that notion?"

"Well, maybe you didn't suspect me of eavesdropping, for instance?"

"No, not at all."

"Well then, how come I heard you talking to one of the guests that was telling a good scandal story right in this very living room the other day, and you told him not to talk loud because the cook might be listening? I can't stand for no such aspersions on my character."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

CHRIST—that noble vision.

To you He may be little more than a vision. You may know little of His life—may be indifferent or even hostile to churches—yet in spite of that you have felt the need of Christ in many a weak or desperate hour.

Not the actual need of the man, but the need of that which the man meant, the dream for which He lived, the faith for which He died. That dream and faith have persisted not because they were part of the life of one young Hebrew but because they were and are a part of the life of all men.

You, too, have dreamed of being brave and honorable, pure and kind, as He dreamed. And sometimes that dream has flamed so whitely in your heart that you have been willing to die for it—almost. Always, whatever the circumstances of your life, there has been the hope of something better, the picture of a nobler Self to which you lifted longing eyes.

So it is with all of us. Uplifted high above our little, greedy lives these flames that hope which men call Christ.

Into that hope has gone all that men have dreamed of Beauty and Courage and Truth.

A mother daring travail that her baby may be born—

A young priest giving up his free, clean life to cast his lot with lepers—

A Socrates shrugging aside the offer of escape, drinking the hemlock with a gallant, mocking smile—

A Nurse Cavell facing a firing squad—

An Oscar Wilde penning his fierce, heartbroken plea for mercy for all deviled men from a prison cell—

Amundsen flying to his death, to save the life of him who was his enemy—

And all those nameless millions who go patiently about their daily toil, bearing the need of others as a yoke—

THEY BUILD THE CHRIST!

They build Him by each small, fine act, by each heroic service. And as the generations pass His glory flames the greater. It matters not if students squabble over how or when He lived. It matters not if men find flaws in what they say He did. This only matters—that the need of Him goes on. And going, makes a nobler venture of our human life.

We shall not lose Him. He will never die. He lives through our enduring longing to behold His face.

TIPPED OUT

By Garrett P. Serviss

A REMARKABLE explanation of the gradual northward migration of the mysterious Mayan race in Central America, and of the final disappearance of the race after it had reached Chichen Itza and Mayapan, near the northerly point of Yucatan, is offered, in science, by L. G. Huntley, of Pittsburgh. It is the story of expulsion by geological forces, and it is read in the underground water courses of the region. The moving force, Mr. Huntley avers, was a progressive uptilting of the land from the south. This drained away the waters and so virtually tipped out the inhabitants by depriving their rich fields of the abundant moisture which had enabled them to support millions of people.

The entire peninsula, Mr. Huntley points out, is unique in the fact that while it has still an abundant rainfall it possesses little or no surface water, with the exception of a few rivers around the edges and small scattered lakes or "cenotes" without visible outlets. If in the rainy season a shallow surface stream appears, it soon disappears in the porous limestone which composes the whole country, and is filled with underground channels. Along the coast and near the branches of the Usamacinta River great springs exist, and these may indicate the points of emergence of lost water courses.

There is a comparatively large lake in central Peten which has no outlet. The lake together with pools and "cenotes" still containing some water, appear to have a uniform water table, the water in them having a common level regardless of the rainy season. All over the country are dry sink holes which formerly contained water. Thus, the temple city of Tikal lies beside the bed of what was once an extensive lake, but which now contains only a little stagnant water.

Now, the geological record, says Mr. Huntley, thus shows a progressive tilting of the land from the south, "which has raised the surface above the permanent water table in the cavernous limestone bedrock, draining the lakes and 'cenotes' from the bottom progressively northward." Only remnants of them now remain.

At present the country, though containing wide areas of forest, has not a sufficient permanent water supply to maintain a large population. After the diminution of the underground water supply had begun, Mr. Huntley suggests, the stagnant nature of the water that remained, the lack of sanitation, indicated by the custom of throwing the bodies of sacrificial victims into deep holes connected with the underground water courses, and other similar causes might have induced epidemics which hastened the practical extinction of the race, especially after it had been crowded into the narrowing northward part of Yucatan. There, depleted in number and weakened morally and physically by disease, the once flourishing Mayas, whose knowledge of some of the elements of astronomy, as well as their skill in architecture show how high they had once stood among barbarian peoples, fell an easy prey to the Toltecs from the north.

If this theory should prove well founded it would be only an additional example of how changes of the earth's surface, originating from internal causes, have sometimes driven mankind, notwithstanding its "great empires," hither or thither like flocks of sheep.

Bible Passages

Lips of the Wise

(Proverbs 14; 1-15.)

EVERY wise woman buildeth her house; but the foolish plucketh it down with her hands.

He that walketh in his uprightness feareth the Lord: but he that is perverse in his ways despiseth him.

In the mouth of the foolish is a rod of pride; but the lips of the wise shall preserve them.

Where no oxen are, the crib is clean: but much increase is by the strength of the ox.

A faithful witness will not lie: but a false witness will utter lies.

A scorner seeketh wisdom, and findeth it not: but knowledge is easy unto him that understandeth.

Go from the presence of a foolish man, when thou perceivest not in him the lips of knowledge.

The wisdom of the prudent is to understand his way: but the folly of fools is deceit.

Fools make a mock at sin: but among the righteous there is favour.

The heart knoweth his own bitterness; and a stranger doth not intermeddle with his joy.

The house of the wicked shall be overthrown: but the tabernacle of the upright shall flourish.

There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

Even in laughter the heart is sorrowful; and the end of that mirth is heaviness.

The backslider in heart shall be filled with his own ways: and a good man shall be satisfied from himself.

The simple believeth every word: but the prudent man looketh well to his going.

Certainty

SOME day I may regret them all,
The faults of other years,
Unkindnesses beyond recall,
The follies and the fears.

But never, as the swift years fly
Till life's brief web is spun,
Shall I look back with tear or sigh
For any good deed done.

Instead, a joy that ever grows
From acts like these will rise,
As magic of a withered rose
Brings back the Summer skies.

So every word of good intent,
Each kindly look or smile
Will, after youth's bright coin is spent,
Some lonely hour beguile.

And though I may regret the rest,
The thoughtless, cruel things,
Each good I did will in my breast
Be like a bird that sings.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Fourteenth street has been enlivened lately with a merchandising experiment often attended by riots and a call for the gendarmes. On a prominent corner is featured at intervals a sale of $2 millinery and ladies' suits priced from $5 to $10. The articles have a smart appearance.

Between sales the establishment closes and prepares for the crowds to make melee, as it were. Huge brass rails protect each show window. The street is roped off and strong-armed private huskies bulwark police lines. Before sunup on the day of a sale the surrounding streets are thronged.

Housewives, chiefly from the lower East Side, are there for the scrimmage and enjoy it hugely. The barrier drops when the doors open and the mad rush is on—a screaming mass of elbow-jabbing, shin-kicking and hair-pulling women in a wave of hysterical bargain hunting.

They snatch articles from clerks, slap down their money and fight their way out. Ambulances are in waiting. In some instances the doors have to be locked until the police restore order and then they are opened and another mass attack sets in.

Nothing like it has ever been seen in the town. In the beginning the owner held his sale in a small room in a loft building after canvassing the East Side with sales dodgers. The idea caught on, he quickly outgrew his original space and rented an entire ground floor room.

Today he occupies most of the space in a huge building which he now owns, and is said to be a millionaire. His articles are replicas of the current styles of Broadway and the avenue. The profits are necessarily small, but the turn-over is tremendous.

So eager are customers for admission the loafers and jobless from Union Square pick up extra change standing in line and giving up their places to prospective buyers for a 25-cent fee.

Broadway has a new how-do-you-do-it in a salesroom near the Winter Garden given over to the exposure of motion picture trickery and featuring a screaming slogan: "See How the Camera Lies!" For a 50-cent admission, movie fans are shown sets and paraphernalia revealing how their heroes and heroines create the illusion of jumping over giant cliffs, leaping from airplanes to express trains, scaling skyscrapers and other hokum, including a terrifying deep-sea picture taken in six feet of water. And those who have sat ga-ga and breathless through hair-raising moments in the cinema, leave all the kanoodling feeling about 12 brain cells removed from halfwits.

In a movie studio once I saw a favorite hiss-provoking villian on his hands and knees crawling slowly along in what seemed to me farcial agony. He was on a strip of scenery flat on the floor and was making his way toward a cameraman merrily turning a crank. A few days later I saw the film and this bit showed him mounting the dizzy facade of a skyscraper in the manner of a "human fly." My love for movie heroism immediately flew out the window. It upset me terribly and is one of the reasons I cry when crossing cops speak harshly.

New York's area — anyone who checks me up on this would step on a bed of innocent violets—is larger than the combined areas of Baltimore, Boston, Cincinnati, Denver, Detroit, Minneapolis and St. Louis, and is the center of an urban population of nine millions. And with all this area and population I am wondering why a gentleman with a beard singled me out this afternoon to turn cute and inquire tartly why I carried a walking stick.

"They are only for fops!" he snorted.

I know a hot one about a beard if I didn't happen to be such a little gentleman.

* * *

Some times I think there is virtue in cocktails—for the other fellow. The other afternoon I was jockeyed into a corner at one of those stiff-fitting word-teas by a monocled "r"-dropping dandy with all the Piccadilly drawls and inflections. After three cocktails he went completely Missouri, and I found he used to slop pigs in the adjoining county to mine. I was afraid to go on for fear he might turn out to be a relative.

EXPENSIVE WASTE

By Herbert Kaufman

WE can't much longer afford to board waste and inefficiency at the garbage pail. Their appetites are too expensive.

Science, probing through the slop bucket, urges every municipality to build reduction and processing plants, not incinerators, for kitchen leavings.

They're full of wheat crops and lawn grass; machinery lubricants and furnace fuels; road topping and flower gardens.

The average family never consumes 50 per cent of the vegetable and animal products it purchases.

Grease, bones, mineral salts and vegetable fibre by the thousands of tons are thriftlessly discarded every day in these United States, instead of fertilizing impoverished acres, stocking laboratory shelves and furnishing cheap, abundant substitutes for dwindling natural resources.

Coal tar is an unimaginative source of supply compared to the national rubbish heap.

A billion dollars' worth of raw materials—a larder sufficient for the hungers of a hundred over-head-pinched industries—is yearly dropped from scows or piled on the dumping grounds of the continent.

Municipal management is due for a course in chemical engineering before it can boast of shrewd administration.

Tomorrow will turn to the refuse pile for its glycerine, for alcohol, for glues, for paint bases, for medical extracts, for cattle feed, for potash, for nitrogen, for dye-stuffs and lumber substitutes.

The farmer must soon depend upon it for the growth-producing elements now withheld from him by great consumption centers, which never return crop-regenerating substance to the land.

The future will mainly subsist on today's throw-aways.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

SOME HINTS to girls who are being led to the altar—if any.

---

Don't marry a man who borrows money from you, even if you get the chance after the loan, as some of them don't.

Men who are right won't borrow from women as long as there is any other way, and there is always some other way.

If a man wants you to marry him he will tell you exactly what he makes and how he makes it and what you will have to live on. If he doesn't he is a fourflusher.

If a man is afraid to risk losing you by telling you the truth and the whole truth and nothing but the truth, then you don't want him.

If a man is engaged to you and tries to tantalize you with stories of how lovely other girls are, and flirts with them to make you jealous, he is a ten-twenty-thirty hero, and why marry that kind of trouble?

If a man thinks he has to keep you jealous to hold you, he probably does. Don't risk it.

If a man spends every nickel he makes on clothes, he is a bad bet.

If he hunts out the girls with money and lets them entertain him while he does nothing in return, he is a sponge.

If the man who you think you will marry can't attend to business and do it earnestly, during business hours, he won't be a good provider and will get lazier as he gets older. Unless his income is assured you will have plenty of time to regret taking HIM. A lazy man is an abomination to any smart woman.

---

If a man fusses eternally because your hat isn't quite straight or your dress sags, or your hair isn't curled right, you don't suit him. In a few years you wouldn't look better, but worse. He's a risk.

---

If a man takes you out merely to show you off, and talks too much about what you are to wear, he's a liability, not an asset. Drop him. It's what is inside your head and your heart that makes the BIG difference. Clothes may get their attention, but if they hold them they aren't worth having.

---

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

MANY women blame their husbands for not being more aggressive.

They think an aggressive quality in the direction of making more money would suit them better.

They make such demands upon their husbands that it is a serious handicap to them.

Thousands of men are held back by their expenses, which are all out of proportion to their income.

They know that these expenses must be met and they dare not risk losing a job by asking for an increase in salary.

The family expense account is often such that every bit of the income must be spent to retain the position held.

Good investments must be turned down, if regular bills are paid.

Harassed by the nagging contentions of a wife who demands more and more a man cannot put himself in the frame of mind where he is likely to make himself worth more to his employers.

A little aggressive cut in expenses might help.

It would permit the wage earner to get some money ahead and make him more independent.
